 BARON LEERIC, in Lis celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid analagous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the nucous membrane of the stomach of the Call, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softoned, changed, and digested, just in the same manoer as they would be in the human stomach."
 Dr. Pereira, in his famous treatise on "Food and Diet," published by Fowlers & Wells, New York, page 35, states the same great fact, and describes the method of preparation. There are few higher authorities than Dr. Pereira.
 Dr Combe, in his valuable writings on the "Physiology of Digestion," observes that "a distinguished professor of medicine in London, who was severely afflicted with this complaint, finding every thing else to fail, had recourse to the Gastrie Juice, obtained from the stomach of ther famous works on "Vegetable Diet," says: "it is a remarkable fact in physiology, that the stomachs of animals, macerated in water, impart to the fluid the property of dissolving various articles of food, and of effecting a kind of artificial digestive of them in no wise different from the stomard of living animals, macerate work, the "Chemistry of Man," (Lea & Blauchard, Phila... 1846, pp. 321-2): "The discovery of PEPSIN to ms a new era in the chemical history of Di gestion.
