The Yankees alive and kicking.

'Ever since the World's Fair opened we have seen sneering extracts from John Bull's papers telling the world that Brother Jonathan had brought nothing to the show worth Rooking at. Most of the cringing lickspit-that of a trofessional rival for advan tless who attempted to represent the American interest at the Fair were so dazzled and bewildered by the glare of English royalty that they could not get their breath to say a word for their countrymen; notwithstanding that they were mostly fel-lows who at home frothed and foamed wondrously about "protecting American indus

We wished all along that a hundred buxom fat and fair, farmer's daughters of America could be pitted up in the World's Fair against the same number of the pale famishing children of Ireland. The world would then have seen something worth look-ing at, and might have understood the true superiority of America. We care not with what machines the people of a country do their work. We care not what image is s'amped upon the scap with which they wash their work. We ca themselves. It is nothing to us where the perfume they use is manufactured. We want to know whether the labor of the country is repaid by that which will insure health, comfort and competence to the faminearin, comfort and competence to the fami-dy. We look only to see the image of hon-or industry and contentment upon the face of a nation. We care only that there should be the odor of virtue, happiness and plenty about the hearthstones of a people.

Lately however, a couple of real live Yankees have got over into England, to Yankees prove that there is some ingenuity in our country. One of our locksmiths succeeded in nicking the celebrated English Bramah lock, which had always been regarded as thief proof; and then successfully challenged the world to pick a lock of his invention.
