

NEWS ITEMS.

Governor Pollock has appointed Cornelius Garrison and Simon P. Kase of Danville Aid-de-camps.

On Saturday last the Rev. Mr. Miles baptized three persons, by immersion in the river, at Williamsport.

The father of Matt. Ward has lost his suit against the city of Louisville, for injury done to his horse by the mob.

In New York flour is selling for $9.50 and wheat at $2.32. In Philadelphia prices are about the same.

"THE RACING CANAL."—There are employed on the canals of New York State, during the season of navigation, about 25,000 boatmen and 6,000 boys.

CAUTION TO RUM SELLERS.—A boy in Terre Haute, Ia., has recovered $500 damages from a liquor dealer who sold his father a glass of liquor on the day he was drowned.

The Johnstown Hindus lung St. Patrick in effigy on the 17th. It is astonishing what an amount of venom some folks have in their composition.

Next week we will publish an interesting article in reference to the Smithsonian Institute, together with an engraved view of the magnificent building.

MOST IMPORTANT.—It has been ascertained that Mrs. Alexander Hamilton was the first person in the United States for whom ice cream was made.

Paul Geddes, whose sudden disappearance some 15 years ago, caused so much excitement, passed through Williamsport, a few days since.

SOMETHING NEW.—A female named Madeline Farnburg was bound over, in Pittsburgh, last week, to answer a charge of seduction, preferred against her by one Benedict Brock.

THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER is the title of a well filled, neatly printed monthly agricultural paper, published by J. H. Johnson, and edited by a spangier; terms only twenty-five cents a year.

DEATH OF THE PRESIDENT'S SISTER.—Mrs. Elizabeth McNeil, widow of the late General John McNeil, and sister of President Pierce, died at Concord on Wednesday, in her 68th year.

We understand that a Post Office has been established, and Joseph Little appointed Post Master, at Evansville, bearing that name, in Briar creek township, Columbia county, Pa.

The President's veto of the Collins appropriation meets much favor from the Boston merchants, who unreservedly commend it. It is also commended by the press of all parties throughout the country.

THE BOUNTY LAND LAW.—Since the 18th ult. 13,400 applications for bounty lands, under the new law, have been received at the Pension Office. This, it will be remembered, is the result of only one of the many bounty land acts of Congress.

The Democratic friends of General John Weidman, of Lebanon, already begin to express their preference in his behalf as the Democratic candidate for the gubernatorial chair. Gen. Weidman is a gentleman of fine talents and acquisitions, such as would adorn any station in life.

We understand that the Grand Council of the Hindus have under consideration the propriety of altering one clause in the Declaration of Independence so as to read thus: "All men are created free and equal, (except Irishmen), and are endowed with certain inalienable rights, amongst which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of office and foreigners."

The young men of our town whose "ugly mugs" are ornamented with hirsute appendages should emigrate to Harrisburg forthwith. The Item says there is a tourmaline professor in that town—beauty who shampoons modern monks—all hair and no brains—free gratis for nothing. N. B. Hairy muzzled editors are not included.

ENLARGED.—Mr. Lowenberg has enlarged his clothing store, and received a new supply of fashionable clothing and cloths. His work is mostly made up at his store and in town, and we are pleased to see that he is progressing. He understands his business, and attends to it with industry, and with determination to please his customers and sell cheap.

THE "EXCHANGE."—The "Exchange" Hotel in this place, has passed under the management of Mr. George Herring, and all hands are engaged in fixing and freshening it up. The numerous friends of Sheriff Snyder will be pleased to learn that in time he will become connected with the establishment; and he will no doubt serve the public in that capacity with as much satisfaction as he now does in his office.

Messrs. Dreiffuss & Co., will soon receive a new stock of fashionable clothing from the city, and gents will do well to look in and brush up. The promenade season is coming on, and no bird can be handsome without fine feathers. The ladies can also find in Mr. Kline's cases many nice things for them.

The residence and boarding house of William Koons, late Sheriff of Luzerne county, connected with his furnace at Honeok's Creek, was burned on Sunday the 25th ult. The valuables and books were saved. The fire was entirely accidental, being caught by the stove-pipe in the roof.

Whoever of our readers will visit Mr. Smith's pocket book and dressing case manufacturer in Philadelphia, will be surprised to see how large a variety of articles in his line his ingenuity has contrived.

The law requires that every township officer should be sworn before entering upon the discharge of their duties. We understand that in some instances this important matter has been neglected.

Quite a number of female school teachers have received certificates upon examination during the past week. Those who wish to visit us next week for a like purpose will remember that we shall be absent at Harrisburg until after Thursday.

A Witness Trick.

Wm. M. Breslin of the Lebanon Advertiser has been very decided and earnest in his opposition to the Know-Nothings, and so to vent their malice and spleen at the late town election they elected him "wood corder" in derision of his honest industry as a boy. The originators of the silly trick are of course the kind of natural Know-Nothings who think honest industry a fit subject for their derision, and are themselves too lazy to work and too proud to beg. But Mr. Breslin seems to understand how their folly has put their feet in the net, and he uses his advantage in the following style.

We do not wish to make comparisons, but it is well known that John Tyler was at one time elected constable; Henry Clay, Supervisor; John Randolph, Justice of the Peace; and other great men, whom we do not now recollect, to these men or similar petty offices. The Know-Nothings last Friday elected us to the office of "wood corder."

We do not consider ourselves one of the great men of this country, this state, this county, or even of this borough, but the fact that our enemies serve us, like the enemies of great men served them, partly persuades us that we are "some pumpkins;" and on the strength of it now sport a new shanghai-coat, in which we may be seen "shooting" along our streets, in pursuit of business, not pleasure, at any time during the next three months, or until hot weather compels us to assume a lighter garment. To be seen we must be watched, as we never have time to loaf, lounge, or promenade, as some of those who vote for us.

We have accepted the office, and shall perform the duties thereof, (if there are any duties attached to it) with the same care, despatch and punctuality we have exercised in every other requirement, public or private, at our hands. We have never been in the habit of doing things half, or entirely neglecting them, as some who voted for us have done, and are now doing. We are sorry that our enemies elected us, but their intention to ridicule is frustrated and falls harmless on our feet. When a boy, we endeavored to earn a few honest pennies by sawing and splitting wood in our streets, and we would not be ashamed to do the same thing now, but thank Heaven, industry brought a host of friends, who have placed us above that condition; who will keep us above it so long as we continue to merit their favor by pursuing a conduct which God intended us poor mortals to follow, viz.—to earn our bread by the sweat of the brow; and not be drooped upon society. We can earn a comfortable livelihood without the office of wood corder, but we assure those who elected us, that if we could make out of it fifty or a hundred dollars during the coming year, we should do so, and then there would be some rejoicing among the poor and afflicted at the end of our term. As it is, we have not exalted into our duties but shall do so at our leisure, and may yet be able to fulfill our duties.

On the whole, the business was a petty one for the Know-Nothing order of this borough to engage in. Their tickets were printed with such intention, and although many of them were voted blank, which shows that it was a proceeding beneath the notice of some of them, the large vote we received, (51, as the Courier extra reports,) shows that there was a general understanding on the subject.

One of the Know-Nothings.

On Monday last week the resolutions pending for the adjournment of the legislature came up in the House. In the course of debate Mr. Morris said, that it was a matter of little moment to the people when the Legislature adjourned—in fact it was none of their business. The people did not understand the position of affairs here as well as the members, and if they thought it right to stay, they should have the firmness and decision to do so, whether the people desire it or not. If the bill fixing a salary of $500 for each member during the session should pass, then it mattered not how long they remained in session.

The Connecticut Election.

New York, April 2.—We learn at a late hour last night the following results in Connecticut.—The city of Hartford elects one Whig and one Democrat to the Legislature. New Haven elects two Democrats to the Legislature. Thus far the Democrats have gained sixteen members in the legislature. The result compared with last year, runs in favor of the Democrats, far ahead of the Know-Nothing. The vote for Dutton Whig, very small—probably he will not receive thirty thousand votes in the State. The Know-Nothings have not done as well in the State as they expected.

Cincinnati Election.

At the late municipal election in Cincinnati the Know-Nothings raised a row at one poll, took possession of the ballot boxes by force, and destroyed the tickets. It was a Ward in which there were many Germans, and which it was supposed would give some 600 or 700 majority against the Know-Nothings. Three Germans were reported to be killed, and the Know-Nothings paraded the street with a cannon.

Prohibition in Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin legislature recently passed a prohibitory liquor law which the Governor vetoed with some forcible objections. A salute of artillery was fired at Milwaukee in honor of the veto. But the legislature has since passed another bill nearly similar in character, and avoiding the strongest objections of the Governor. This passed by nearly a two-third vote.

Result of Victories.—A letter from London says—Over £96,000 have been collected in aid of the wives and children of the dead and wounded soldiers. Trade suffers dreadfully. Half the aristocracy are in mourning for the death of Kinismen, in the Crimea, and all fancy sales are ended. The usual quantity of amusements (balls, &c.) is curtailed for the same cause. Every third person I meet is in mourning.

NEW-YORK CITY NEWS.

SATURDAY, MARCH 31, 1855.

Very few new buildings are "going up," but the rents of dwellings have not been reduced this Spring, notwithstanding the hard times.

Next week is the Jewish Passover. It will be observed among the Israelites, in commemoration of the departure of the children of Israel from Egyptian bondage and slavery.

The Broadway House, a fashionable hotel in New York, has passed into the hands of a receiver. The furniture cost $60,000. It was mortgaged for about $40,000, and the last mortgagee has moved for the Receiver's appointment.

The British station for enlistment of "food powder" to serve in the Crimea, which was recently opened in New York, has been closed, and the recruits who are described as the veriest scum of the alien population, disbanded.

From some unexplained cause, the New York Prohibitory Liquor Law seems to hang fire in the Senate. Of course, the $40,000 known to be in the hands of the lobby agents of the liquor dealers has nothing to do with the delay.

Barnum continues to keep his approaching baby show "before the people," by means of straggles written under the rose, and replies thereto, over his own signature. The great showman has lost quite terribly by his autobiography. It was worse than a crime—it was a mistake.

The following advertisement appeared a few days ago in one of the dailies: Notice.—If the gentleman who keeps a store in Cedar Street with a red head, will return the umbrella he borrowed from a lady with an ivory handle, he will hear of something to his advantage.

The pressure in the money market does not seem to affect the ladies of New York. Their costume, this spring, is more rich and costly than we remember to have seen it.—Sumptuary laws as stringent as those existing in England and France for centuries ago, would save husbands and fathers a good many thousand dollars a year.

Much excitement has been created among the Cubans and filibusters here, by the news of the gaveling of Ramon Pinto, late Secretary to Captain General. Concha. The charges of treason brought against Pinto seem to have been supported by very questionable testimony.

Some half-dozen plans for the New City Hall are now before the Common Council. There is any quantity of lobbying and intriguing to get the contract. It will be a fat job. The cost will be from $600,000 to 1,000,000; and twenty-five per cent. thereof may be set down as clear profit.

The extraordinary expenses to which many firms in New York are subject in the shape of store rents, may be inferred from the fact that the stores of the Aster House fronting on Broadway, (eight in number,) rent for $20,000. Each corner store, about twenty feet front, rents for $4,000. One of "The Trade," in that location, has been compelled to close doors within a few days.

At an Anti-Maine Law meeting held in the Fourteenth Ward, on Friday, a series of resolutions was produced, which neither the chairman, the secretary, nor any of the vice-presidents could read. Whether the writing was too bad to be deciphered, or the parties to much "overcome" to read, is not stated. Finally, the meeting adjourned in a state of intense disgust.

"Improvement" having ousted the venerable Dr. Spring from the Old Brick Church in Nassau street, a magnificent place of worship is to be built for him in 5th avenue. The ground has been bought, and it is said that the edifice will be unsurpassed even by Trinity and Grace church. There seems to be a sort of Evangelical ambition in New York, to worship God in "first class" churches in the fashionable avenues.

"Spiritualism" flourishes in New York. A new medium named Wolfe, formerly attached to the Bowery Theatre, is said to be producing, or rather eliciting, the most astonishing phenomena. It is asserted that, in the "circle" over which he presides, letters from the Spirit land fall in showers over the table, and pictures worth $25 to $100 each, are thrust by Spirit hands through the floor! We should rather like to belong to that circle. The chance for a picture might be better than in an "Art Union."

Hoboken has determined to become a city so soon as it can get a charter. The fairs and dryads are to be displaced by a mayor and corporation. Where will the metropolitans go to breathe? It seems to us that the commercial capital will soon be in the condition of one of those unfortunate towns sometimes found in blocks of stone-walled in, hermetically sealed within a double circle of brick and mortar. Its only salvation is the "Central Park." Without that, it will be in danger of falling a victim to the same complaint that carried off Czar Nicholas—atrophy of the lungs.

The Chevalier Wikoff is out in the Herald with a contradiction of Mr. Soule's assertion that Louis Napoleon, just before his coup d'etat, proposed to send a secret envoy to the United States, in order to see what chance there might be of stirring up a revolution among us. Wikoff cites a letter addressed to him by Prince Napoleon about the time specified by Soule as a proof that the Prince entertained no such project. It seems, from the tone and tenor of the letter, that the Prince and the Chevalier were at that time on terms of the most confidential intimacy.

There are only twelve persons charged with murder, awaiting trial in the toms. Among them is Henri Carrel, a Frenchman, convicted of the murder of an old man in Dey street, about four years ago. A second trial was granted him by the Court of Appeals, in consequence of some informality; and now, the principal witness being now dead, the murderer's neck is probably out of peril. He has grown fat in prison, and is said to be perfectly contented with his situation. Turner and "Faugens," alleged accessories to the murder of Poole, are among the twelve.

All kinds of provisions, especially Flour, Beef, and butter, are again enormously high in New York. People will soon have to live on beans and fresh cod. The latter, fortunately, now selling at 6 cents a pound, is within the reach of the most indigent.

"The Harper" have republished Madden's Memoirs of Lady Blessington. The faux pas in her ladyship's career are smoothed over, and yet there is enough in the volumes to show that she was a reckless, though brilliant woman—that she lived the life of an Aspasia, and died a "demirep."

De Witt & Davenport have in press a volume of poems, by Thomas Dunn English.—The book is to be called "Ben Bolt and other Poems," and will contain, in addition to the best fugitive pieces that have already appeared, many that have been written by Mr. English expressly for this book.

The new street-sweeping machine now in operation in New York, threatens, in addition to sweeping the streets clean, seriously to sweep away very much of the power and influence of political parties. The street-sweeping patronage has hitherto secured a good deal of power to the party having the power of dispensing it.

The "Slave of the Lamp," a sort of autobiographical extravaganza, by William North, the English writer, who recently killed himself with prussic acid, has just been published by Long & Brothers. It is an insane sort of book, but contains some scenes of absorbing interest. We learn from the preface that the author was a descendant of Lord North, the thick-headed Premier, who could not distinguish the difference between an insurrection and a revolution.

A terrific raid upon female frailty seems now to be in progress in the moral city of Gotham. Easy virtue is forbidden to traverse the streets by night, on pain of being sent to the Penitentiary under the vagrant act, and catalogued, with names, ages, and residences appended, in the morning prayers. About a hundred women have been caught by the police in two consecutive hauls; meanwhile their betrayers are permitted to run at large, unquestioned. There is a good deal of one-sided justice in this enlightened age and country. A retired merchant who recently owned a pew in Grace Church, he is dead now, we believe, was the proprietor of four houses of prostitution in that city. But he was rich. "Plate Sis with gold," &c.—the quotation is somewhat true and misty.

The North American Phalanx, in New Jersey, has failed. This association was partly organized on the principles of Charles Fourier; but it appears that they lacked the numbers, money and capacity necessary to succeed. Some members of the association held a meeting in this city, a few evenings ago, at which the speaker made very pointed allusions to a certain well-known socialist in this city, who, they said, had not manifested it in works, or in the shape of hard cash, for the cause. After the meeting adjourned, Albert Brisbane, the ex-philanthropist and Fourierite, when he was poor and had nothing to lose, but the Wall Street stock jobber now he has inherited a fortune, was pretty severely handled in private conversation. It is evident that he is the man to whom the speakers had alluded from the platform.

The late Poole tragedy has ceased to be a subject of discussion, except in bar-rooms, the station houses, the private rooms of the Mayor and Aldermen at the City Hall, and other disreputable places, Baker, the murderer of Poole, evidently has either powerful or cunning friends—perhaps both. In the first place, he was permitted to escape when wounded, and easily known by those whose duty it was to arrest him. And since his escape, the public has been completely bamboozled as to his whereabouts. At one moment he has gone to the Spanish Main—then he turns up in New Jersey—then in Canada—and now he is back in the Jersey woods again, a wandering outcast. All these stories originated by the assassin's friends, tend to lead averaging justice a wild-goose chase. Baker is said to have been so badly wounded as not to be in a condition to leave New York, and many knowing ones are of opinion that he is still secreted here. If the facts (showing the real parts played by certain officials in this disgraceful affair) are ever disclosed, the people will open their eyes wide.

Federalism alias Know-Nothingism.

The census shows the number of Protestant clergy to be 27,800 to 1,270 Catholic priests, and yet these 27,800 are frightened out of their wits—certainly out of much of their Christianity—by their fear of the Church. But, let us ask, by whom is the danger of Catholicity invoked? Certainly not by men imbued with common sense—men who have the honor and welfare of their country at heart—men who fear God and love their fellow men; but, in reality, by wicked, designing men—men who, to obtain office, would sacrifice not only their country but the salvation of their souls. The danger apprehended from Catholicity and foreigners by Know-Nothing saints, to say the least, is a base cheat—intended to work upon and inflame the narrow, contracted prejudices of weak-minded men, old women and children. It is upon a bar with witchcraft—the work of dark ages.

For many years Federalism—now Know-Nothingism—under assumed names and upon various issues, labored incessantly for power and spoils, but to no purpose. The people in a calm temperate and decided manner, almost invariably put the seal of condemnation upon it. Finally, having been driven to the wall by the force of public opinion, it now endeavors to screen its hideous men behind the alluring sentiment, "Americans! What rascals!" What hubbub! Must blasphemy! The truth is, its great leading object has always been, and is now, to crush the natural and inalienable rights of man. History proves it, and we predict that, unless the brute is checked in its mad career, the people will learn it from experience.—Harrisburg Union.

From the Middle States Medical Reformers. HINTS FOR APRIL.

Well April—putting, fretful, perfidious April has come again. It was an enthusiastic writer of sunny Italy who declared it to be May and June with "sweet fifteen," in the age of woman, is to passion-stricken eighteen and perfect two and twenty. But who resides so near where Boreas reigns cannot appreciate the truthfulness of the comparison unless it be in its rapid alternation of sunshine and shower, which the writer would empare to "smiles and tears." Why at one time with her clear sky and mild breezes from the South, she temp's us abroad, promising us a fair and pleasant day, when lo! as we, relying upon her word, rally forth in our lighter garments to prosecute business or take a "rural walk. O'er hills, through valleys, or by river's brink," that we may fully enjoy the prospective beauties of the day, become enlivened up by the genial warmth of the sun, and gladdened by the songs of the feathered choristers of the grove, with perky and joyful anger, she changes her winning countenance! dark and threatening clouds begin to gather, and before we can possibly retreat from the distance to which the fair enchantress has drawn us back to our warm and comfortable parlor, down comes the pitiless shower with all the spite that Eurus can impart chilling us through and through, and causing one to exclaim of April as did the celebrated foreigner of our climate—"It is one great recital that can never be trusted!" or in the language of the Poet "Oh sky!

Why didst thou promise such a beautiful day! And make me travel forth without my cloak?" To err is said to be the lot of humanity, but to change is the privilege of April. And as this month is now upon us, perhaps a few words of caution to such of our readers as are upon their pilgrimage from the prison house of Disease to the promised land of Health, may not be out of place. Beware how you trust the siren promises of the fickle and perfidious Geni ruling the thirty days to come. You may read of light dresses; you may think of venturing abroad without sure defenses against the northern blasts and numbing frost, but be careful that you continue to wear your thick and wintry garments, flannel, comfortable hose and thick shoes, aye, and all those unfashionable but most necessary protections from the invasions of disease, noisy catarrhs, twitching rheumatisms, and the innumerable sequences of exposure. Should these timely hints be disregarded, and pain and suffering follow, throw the censure not upon us, nor charge them to the "dispensations of providence," but place them where they belong, to yourselves, your unpardonable carelessness and neglect. If friendly advice will not teach you wisdom, a dear bought experience may.

WHAT CONSISTENCY.—The national convention of the freesoilers in 1852, held at Pittsburgh, over which body John P. Hale presided, passed the following resolution:—Resolved, That emigrants and exiles from the Old World should find a cordial welcome to homes of comfort and fields of enterprise in the New; and every attempt to abridge their privileges of becoming citizens and owners of the soil among us ought to be resisted with inflexible determination.

This resolution, it is said, was reported by Henry Wilson, the new Senator from Massachusetts. Both Wilson and Hale are now leading men in the new and prescriptive order of know nothings! Was there ever a more mercenary set of demagogues than the ambitious men who lead in the councils of this secret political party? As for Hale, we look upon him as a selfish and unprincipled politician.—Harrisford Times.

The new mode of building, by concrete walls, is getting into extensive practice, and by the best aid of chemistry and philosophy, has now been brought to its utmost perfection. This kind of wall is built of large and small stones; some are quite large, and each stone is embedded in lime and cement mortar, with other chemicals, which in a short time makes the whole mass one hard and solid rock.—The wall, when built, leaves on the outside a beautiful surface, which may be finished with mastic or stucco. Buildings of this kind are dryer, more substantial, and more economical.

THEATRICAL MILLENNIUM ARRIVED.—The managers of a theatrical company at Rochester, N. Y., have issued a proclamation, in which the following passage occurs:—"Being both married men, with children we love and wives we adore, will, we think, be a sufficient guarantee that everything will be conducted with strict propriety, and nothing done or spoken but what the most fastidious person may witness with pleasure. Parents and guardians! you may bring your wives and children to enjoy a rational entertainment without any fear of their good taste being insulted, or their modesty put to the blush."

EDITORS IN THE ENGLISH MINISTRY.—The recent change in the British Cabinet has turned out of the office of Secretary of the Board of Trade, Sir Robert Lowe, one of the editorial writers of the London Times; and conferred the post of Chancellor of the Exchequer on S. G. C. Lewis, the editor of the Edinburgh Review.

Pleasant.—To lie behind a log or four or two, on a cold day, waiting for a flock of ducks to approach you, and just as they come within range, see them suddenly scattered by a shot from some "yahoo" rifle, who fancies he can "kill a duck at five hundred yards, just as easy as nothin'!"

Kansas Election.

A dispatch from Weston, via St. Louis, says that the pro-slavery ticket on the north side of Kansas river, had 1000 majority, and that there was no opposition to the pro-slavery ticket in Burr, Ock or Atchison precincts.

Land warrants are in good demand in New York, and worth $160 to $165—parts in proportion. When the new ones are issued under the act of the late Congress, it is probable the price will decline somewhat. There will, however, be no supply from this source for some time.

IMPORTANT TO FEMALES.—DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS.—The combinations of ingredients in these Pills, is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whatever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. To ladies whose health will not permit an increase of their families, as mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. The Pills invariably open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deadly countenance changed to a