Another Emigrant Ald Society.

The same men who from motives of private speculation and political fanaticism origthe Kansas Emigrant Aid Society now propose to revolutionize Virginia, and to pour into the "Old Dominion" a flock of New England abolitionists. A charter for such a company is now before the New York legislature and will no doubt be pass-

Meanwhile Virginia says that so long as the honest and industrious individuals of the North came to improve their condition in life they were welcomed like brothers of the same common republic, and hundreds from our Northern State have been incorporated into the families and social life of the South. But if these men come as invading Vandals, as political propagandists-with a spirit alien and hostile to the people among whom they ask to rettle-not as individual emigrants. but as a banded aimy under chieftains and charters--some of the Horspurs promise to welcome them with "bloody hands and hospitable graves." So we may have a new edition of "bleeding Kansas" near home --Meanwhile it will be well to remember who | Cas-ady, resigned. first disturbs and troubles the waters of peace.

The administration is giving much attention to the present delicate affairs of China, and is very anxious to appoint a strong man to represent this government. Caleb Cushing is mentioned, and he certainly has ability but herhaps is too impulsive. If Robert J. Walker was not fixed for Kansas he would probably be appointed. Wm. B. These parties must thus deny their own identity-proclaim all the professions of their lives to have been hollow, insincere, and false-or set up for themselves, or vote for the Democratic nominees! What a commentary and proof of the evanescent character of error and invincerity! In a year or two, niggerism will pass away also, disunionism will be forgotten, and new octrines, not now dreamed of, will be the rallying cry of the opposition elements .-What a glorious compliment this is to the old party of Jefferson, the stern old Democracy who never yield to popular delusions, and stem and crush every popular tury of error which from time sweeps over the country! - Clinton Democrat.

The Barbarities in China

The Crimean struggle woke a large portion of the civilized world from the delusion into which it had fallen, that "wars should be no more." The Chinese contest will shake still further that faith in the perfection of the 19th century which so many entertain. Cities, ruthlessly laid in ashes on one side, and poison administered in bread on the other, are significant warnings that revenge, treachery, and other base passions reign yet in the human heart. From the Chinese, indeed, little else could be expected. They arefrom the European point of view, at least-a semi-barbaric race of people, the believer in a gross idolatry, cowardly, traitorous, liars, assassins. That they should seek to destroy, by arsenic, an enemy whose prowess they fear, and from whose extirpation, in this way, no Christian teachings withhold them, is nardly surprising, especially when we remember that the Spaniards, a civilized, highspirited people, during the French invasion, poisoned the wells, in order to destroy the soldiers of Napoleon. But that the British should wantonly waste the suburbs of Canton, seems, to us at least, altogether inexeusable and inexplicable.

And in this destruction, in fact, is to be

The coming Parliamentary election will decide whether the British nation defends or repudiates this barbarity. The indications appear to be that it will defend it. One of the most sagacious of English statesmen once said that his countrymen "liked the taste of blood:" and centainly the people have always sustained a war ministry, however unjustifiable the origin of the war. Palmerston is pre eminent for tact, and finding himself ouering to his fail, has shrewdly availed himself of the condemnatory vote of the Com mons to dissolve Parliament and appeal to the constituencies, confident of being sustained on the cry of "no concessions to the treacherons Chinese." Thus the British, after having virtually provoked hostilities, and after by their own barbarities, will seek to justify themselves to their cruel consciences and to history for cominning a cruel and merciless contest on the plea of the atrocities of the Chinese.
