Theory and Practice. A late address by Horace Greeley had some valuable suggestions on this point. -

riculture is the habit of recording and jour nalizing their experience for pub ic use and benefit on the part of thoroughly practica men. Day after day, we, who are termed theorizers, city farmers, dabblers in agricul ture, are reminded of the superiority of practice to theory, fact to speculation—as if we had ever disputed that averment. Day after day, we ineffectually respond, 'Yes, we know it; we want facts; we wish to profit by your experience; do not confine it to the narrow limits of your farm and your life, but let us have it so recorded and displayed that all may acquire, comprehend and profit by it.' But those who say most of the superi-ority of practice to theory, are the last to give the world the benefit of their practice How many corn-growers can tell what has been the precise cost per bushel of the corn they have grown in each of the last five or ten years. How many can tell, even for grown to the greatest profit, and which have involved them loss, during any term of years. How many know what the live years. How many know what he five stock which they have raised and now own has cost them. Who knows what the in trinsic value of a hundred acres of good corn land at a given point is, and how many dollars, more or less, it should command per acre than just such land in another given locality, therefore more or less con-venient to market. These, and a thousand like questions require practical solutions with them. The thriving artisan mechanic and manufacturer, all count the cost of their several undertakings and products; if they find they are making an article that does not pay, they speedily relinquish it for another more promising.

To ROAST A TURKEY .- See that the crop, windpipe, etc., is out; put the turkey into a large pan of warm water, and wash it inside large pan of warm water, and wash it inside and out, clean; pick out all the feathers; pour some hot water into the body of the tur-key to heat it well; wipe it dry inside and out; then fill the body and breast of the turkey with the stuffing, and sew it up, rub it all over with fine salt; tiethe legs and wings down close. Put it to roast with a moderate fire, in about half an hour take it out and rub it all over with butter, and dust on the flour; do this three or four times while reasting, which will make it look nice and brown and pour the gravy each time into a bowl; that will keep it from burning. For a turkey of about ten pound-, roast about three hours Take up the turkey and pour the gravy into the pan, dust in some flour, and let it boil and stir it till it thickens. N. B.—All kinds of poultry can be roasted in this way, only varying the time according to the size .- Cook

BABES IN THE WOODS -A correspondent o the Concord (N. H.) Congregational Journal, writing from Stewartstown, N. H., states that on the 26th of October, John Brown Jr. 13 years o'd accompanied by Wm. Brown, a lad of nine years, was sent into the woods at Hereford, Canada by the father of the first lad, who had just removed thither from Colebrook, N. H., to gather a basket of moss with which to stop the crevices between the logs of their new house Night came, but the boys did not reture. Until morning the parents passed the night in mavailing search. Next day, from fifty to one hundred men from the neighboring towns roam ed the woods until night, with no better success. Two cold nights had passed and no tidings of the lost ones had reached the anxious parents. Thursday morning, an increased number resumed the search, and continued it during the day with no better success. Friday and Saturday were spent in the same manner. On Sunday, a fresh start was taken, which resulted in the discovery of the children. The older lad, on perceiving their approach, started up from the side of the other and made an a temp to run. On being told to stop, for they would catch him, he obeyed, saying "Dou't hurt me, I have been in the woods all night."—
The younger was sleeping at the root of a small tree, with one arm around it; his arm was stiff and cold, and it was with difficulty and caution that it could be straightened so sate unloose his hold. The hand was black. and caution that it could be straightened so as to unloose his hold. The hand was black. and so were the feet, and the latter so swollen that the boots had to be cut before they could be stripped off The boys were found only about two and a half miles from the use of Mr. Brown. They seemed not to be aware that they had been out more than one night, and were probably partially de-ranged after the first night. They had caten nothing during the whole five days.

Mice often prove very destructive t young fruit trees during the winter, especial force of hunger, they pass under the snow and devour the bark, often completely girdling them for several inches above the surface of the ground. Stamp down the snow around the roots, and keep it firmly com-pressed until spring, and this source of inury and annoyance may be completely ly prevented. All stuff, or mulching, which ay have been placed or gathered abou the roots of young trees, should be removed in the fall and before the fail of snow.

How to WASH CLOTHING .- Not with a ma chine, but with simple refined borax. The Dutch women are well known as models of cleanliness, at least in their own country .-They get up linen whiter and nicer that any others, and they do it by using refined ax as a washing powder instead of soda. in the proportion of a large handful to about ten gallons of boiling water. They thus save one half in soap. Cambries and laces an extra quantity of the powder, while for etiflening crinolines a strong solution is ne-

The undersigned, members of the Committee, do respectfully report, that we saw the two Safes originally agreed toon by Farrels & Herring and Evans & Watson, placed side by side in a lurnace, viz: The Sale in use by the Paymaster of the Philadelphus and Reading Railroad Company, in his office at Reading, manufactured by Farrels & Herring, and the Safe in use by H. M., and kept up until four cords of green hickory, two cords dry oak and half chestnut top wood were entirely consumed, the whole under the superintendence of the subscribers, members of the Committee. The Safes were then cooled off with water, after which they were opened, agd the books and papers'taken out by the Committee and sent to H. A. Lanz's store for public examination, after they were first examined and marked by the Committee. The books and papers taken from the Safe manufactured by Evens & Watson were but slightly affected by the intense heat, while those taken from the Safe manufactured by Farrels & Herring were, in our judgment, damaged fully filteen per cent. more than those taken from Evans & Watson's Safe.
