Democratic Nominations.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL,
RICHARDSON L. WRIGHT,
OF PHILADELPHIA.
FOR SURVEYOR GENERAL,
JOHN ROWE,
OF FRANKLIN COUNTY.

THE STATE CAMPAIGN.

The time is drawing nigh when the Democracy should buckle on their armor and prepare for political battle. They need, in order to insure success, to present a solid and fearless front, and meet the exigencies with a fixed determination of coming out of the campaign conquerors. This can be accomplished by each man performing his part of the labor. Every member of the Democratic party should feel it his duty to engage in the work, and use all his efforts to maintain and cherish the principles of his party. The coming contest is an important one, and there should be no shrinking from duty, as great consequences rest upon the result of this election, and the party must exhibit by fearless and honest actions that they are able and willing to meet the issues of the day and decide them in accordance with the programme laid down at the late Democratic State Convention.

We elip from the Pennsylvania following, which suits our fancy pretty well; and we do not hesitate in saying that it will meet the approbation of our readers:

"We have a State Ticket which has excited compliments even from the opposition. Richardson L. Wright has served the people of this city and county for a number of years in a legislative capacity, and won universal approbation for the uprightness of his actions, and the honesty of his motives, while the nomination of Mr. Rowe, the present efficient Surveyor General will add strength to the ticket in all parts of the State. The selection of these persons by the Convention is a proof that the Delegates were honest, just and proper men, who in their choice of candidates looked to the standing and fitness of the nominees to fulfill the duties incumbent upon them if elected, as well as their standing as Democrats and party men. The party have demanded an unexceptionable ticket. They claimed as a right that the Democracy should not be called upon to vote for candidates upon whose character there rested a single taint or suspicion. In every contest to be a fierce one, the rank and file asked that their leaders should be worthy of the post assigned them, and competent to lead in the hour of difficulty and danger. Such men have been selected, and so far as the State ticket is concerned, the Democracy of Pennsylvania was never in a better condition for an animated and successful contest.

The party platform is also entirely acceptable to the Democracy. We have not heard a single Democrat object to the action of the State Convention upon the Resolutions, while the Democratic press of the Commonwealth is enthusiastic and exultant upon this subject. The Resolutions embrace all those questions which the Convention was called upon to notice, and they are treated in a manner well calculated to convince the mass of the party of their correctness and enlist them in their defence. Upon the Cuba question, the settlement of the Tariff controversy, and all the other issues touched, the expressions of party opinion are eminently wise and judicious. At the same time they have the ring of the home Pennsylvania metal. They demonstrate the fact that the party in the old Keystone State can be true to itself, and at the same time in full fellowship with the sound party men in every other section of the Union. This was the patriotic feeling which animated the Delegates to the late Convention at Harrisburg, this basis of that action which made the delegates a unit upon all the important resolutions adopted by that body, and which as the voice of the party in this Commonwealth, while, therefore, the candidates selected are such as to command the respect and challenge the support of all those who have the interests of the State at heart, the resolutions are of such a character as will consolidate all true Democrats into one party, and their action of great power when checked against the common enemy.

From the facts stated it is apparent that the Democracy are in just such a condition as demands a bold and unflinching fight. The Convention when called upon did not hesitate to mark out the line between the true friends of the party, and those who from motives of personal ambition, or more sordid objects have deserted the old party banner to serve under the flag of the Opposition. The Democracy would not endorse the Governor—and his Attorney General was openly denounced—because both these officials have been notoriously unfaithful to the party and its principles. This was decided action, but it was demanded by the circumstances surrounding the party at this time, and necessary to insure the discipline of the Democracy and thus fit them to encounter the allied forces with a certainty of success. It was marked out by the Convention must be followed by the party in conducting the campaign. There must be no shrinking from duty. Whatever is necessary to be done, must be done promptly. The lines of party action must be traced with a clear eye and steady hand. We have cast off much of the useless matter which has gathered around the party and impeded its progress, and if it is necessary to free it from still more, the proper persons must not omit the performance of this important duty. We need a live party, a united, harmonious Democracy, intense upon the same great objects and inspired by a common bond of devotion and patriotism. This can be reached only by each man doing his part of the work as the delegates to the State Convention performed theirs. With the past opinions of honest, faithful Democrats we have nothing to do. If they have kept within the party, their right of opinion and expression is unalienable. This is what the State Convention proclaimed, and its voice must constitute the basis of all subsequent action. Into the future, which is filled with the questions officially promulgated from the State Convention, lies the path of the Pennsylvania Democracy. Great consequences hang upon the result of the coming State campaign, and the party must show by bold, frank deeds that they are competent to meet the issues and decide them in accordance with the programme laid down by the State Convention. Let us have a bold, decided, vigorous campaign, and a victory is ours.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR OF 1859.—The Montgomery County Agricultural Society have fixed upon Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 4th, 5th and 6th of October next, as the time for holding their next Annual Exhibition.

The Louisiana Free Negro Law.

The New Orleans Picayune has the following comment upon an unnecessarily harsh and injudicious law just enacted by the Legislature of Louisiana, in regard to colored seamen—

We have already expressed our belief in the importance of this enactment, especially in view of its effects upon the commerce of this port. The controversy with foreign governments in regard to the treaty rights of their colored seamen, had been satisfactorily adjusted by the liberal legislation of the State, which has permitted them to enter, remaining on board of the vessels, but with permission to land on the business of the ship, under the permits of municipal authorities, with sureties for their good conduct and return. No evil has been experienced or complained of in the working of these regulations; and it is a pity that they should have been disturbed. Under the new law every such negro arriving must be taken from the vessel and imprisoned on shore at the charge of the owners, and only released after expenses paid and bonds given, within twenty-four hours before sailing. It makes a new obstruction to the commerce of the port, and it opens, unnecessarily, a controversy of a very embarrassing character. We have no sort of doubt of the full right of the State to make such enactments, to regulate, or prohibit altogether, the admission into Louisiana of any class of persons who may be thought to be a source of unfitness. But, in view of the complicated relations which that question bears to the federal and to foreign authorities, it is a right which ought only to be exercised when it becomes really important to conserve State interests. It is not wise or expedient to bring it into exercise, unless there is some real grievance to be remedied or some real danger to be avoided. Neither emergency has been shown to exist, requiring the abrupt change of mild legislation, that has been found to work well, and to require the rigid incarceration on shore of every colored seaman or servant that arrives here on foreign vessels.

GROW AND FORNEY.—The Scranton (Luze County) Herald says that the Republicans were more anxious to meet Col. Forney in private caucus, at that place on the 23d ult., than to hear his lecture about defunct statesmen. It reports Mr. Grow as being everywhere present to greet Mr. Forney—leaving others to make the inference, and judge of secret inducements which appear to have a mutual control over either.

THE RIGHT REV. SAMUEL BOWMAN, D. D., Assistant Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Pennsylvania, made his first visit to the parish of Christ Church, Reading, on Tuesday evening last, the 29th ult., and administered the rite of Confirmation to nineteen candidates—four males and fifteen females. The solemn and interesting ceremony was witnessed by a large congregation. The Bishop was suffering from a severe cold, which so seriously affected his voice, that he was unable to preach, and confined himself to a brief, but impressive extemporaneous address from the chancel, at the conclusion of the Confirmation Service.—Reading Gazette.

LOCOMOTIVE EXPLOSION.—On Wednesday morning last, the locomotive Parkmore, one of the largest coal-burners on the Reading Railroad, exploded near the falls bridge, five miles above Philadelphia. The fireman was blown within a few feet of the river, and instantly killed. The engineer must have been blown into the Schuylkill, as his body has not been found. His hat was found on the roof of a house near the scene of the disaster. The engine had just undergone the operation of "pumping," but something must have been wrong with the valves, as it is fully believed that the explosion was caused by a deficiency of water. The engine was in good condition, but is now a total wreck—the most terribly mangled piece of machinery we ever saw. Such explosions are terrible, and seem of late to be more frequent than formerly.—Pottsville Record.

GENERAL CAMERON does not hesitate to say, that Packer must enter the ranks and wear a knapsack if he comes over to the Republicans. They know him well to allow him to take the rank of an officer. General Cameron has a most intimate knowledge of the character and antecedents of Packer, and since the Democratic Convention, he has declared without reservation, that the Governor received nothing more than his deserts when he was publicly repudiated. They see that Packer could add no strength to the Republican party, while his accession might prove a dead weight. With all their love for political traitors, this traitor is not worth encouraging.

OUR IRON ESTABLISHMENTS are now in successful operation, and the Messrs. Galloway have commenced to erect a new Furnace alongside of the old one—of double capacity; and in the Montour Works, we understand, that the automaton Padler will soon be ready to commence operation. We hope it will work well.

THE LOCATION of the Railroad through town is definitely fixed. The company have amicably settled with the property holders, and they cross Mill street between Laubach's and Ramsey's store.—Danville Democrat.

THE GROWING CROPS.—Texas papers, from Austin, Gonzales, Victoria and Matagorda, give the most cheering accounts of the wheat and corn crops, and predict a bountiful harvest. From Ohio and parts of Illinois, also, the papers report the wheat as presenting a thriving appearance, and covering much larger area than was sown last year.

"GENTLE WOMAN EVER KIND."—Dr. Kane relates that when, one day, worn out with fatigue, he turned into an Esquimaux hut to get a little sleep, the good-natured hostess of the wigman covered him up with some of her own habiliments and gave him her baby for a pillow.

THE STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Merchants' Hotel, Philadelphia, on Thursday next, the 7th, at 10 A. M., for the purpose of organization, and other business of importance to the Party.

April 2, 1859.

Jefferson's Birthday. The citizens of Boston are considering the propriety of celebrating the birthday of Thomas Jefferson, which occurred on April 2, 1843, O. S., or April 13, N. S. The suggestion is a good one, for the illustrious author of the Declaration is justly entitled to grateful remembrance of the American people. The Bostonian custom of seizing upon many of these important anniversaries and celebrating them in a manner which frequently commands the admiration of the whole country, by the rich display of genius evoked, is worthy of imitation in other localities. The Boston Post says:

"This anniversary was first celebrated in 1830, and with great eclat, in Washington, when Jefferson's friend and correspondent, the venerable John Roane, officiated as president, who was toasted as the only surviving elector of the first President; and Felix Grundy, C. C. Crambreling, and Levi Woodbury were the vice presidents. Col. Benton took great interest in this celebration; and besides making a speech, obtained a toast from John Randolph. In a letter communicating the toast to the press, he expressed his satisfaction at being the means of connecting the name of the matador of the old Republican party with the history of the first celebration of Mr. Jefferson's birthday. The toast was: 'The principle which Mr. Jefferson brought into power—the touch stone of the old Republican Party.' It will be recollected that Mr. Randolph went into opposition under Mr. Jefferson's Administration."

"At the close of Col. Benton's speech on this brilliant festival, he predicted that it was the first in a series of celebrations which the friends and admirers of Jefferson would cherish and perpetuate for the double object of showing honor to him and preserving his principles for themselves; and his toast was: 'The Birth Day of Thomas Jefferson—May his anniversary celebration extend through all time, and spread through all the borders of the Republic.'"

SARZA.—We have long supposed this celebrated drug, had come to be an exploded humbug, but we are assured by those skilled in the healing art, that not the Sarsaparilla itself is to be blamed for this conclusion, but the miserable worthless preparations of it, that have been palmed off upon the community—preparations which contain about as much of its virtues as they do of gold dust. It is a commercial fact that almost all of the Sarsaparilla gathered in the world, is consumed in the old countries of Europe, where the science of medicine, has reached its highest perfection, and where they know the best way to employ for the mastery of disease. Hence we are glad to find that we are now to have a compound of this excellent alternative, which can be relied on, and our community will not need be assured, that anything Dr. Ayer makes, is worthy of their confidence. He has been for years engaged in eliminating this remedy (see adv'c'ols.) designing to make it his "chef d'oeuvre" which should add the crowning glory to his already enviable reputation. American Celt, New York.

THE FOLLY AND MALICE OF MANKIND.—One finds out the folly and malice of mankind by the impertinence of friends—by their professions of service and tenders of advice—by their fears for your reputation and anticipations of what the world may say of you; by which means they suggest objections to your enemies, and at the same time absolve themselves from the task of justifying your errors, by having warned you of the consequences—by the care with which they tell you ill news, and conceal from you any flattering circumstance—by their dread of your engaging in any creditable attempt, and mortification if you succeed—by the difficulties and hindrances they throw in your way—by their lukewarmness in defending, by their readiness in betraying you—and by the high standard by which they try you, and to which you can hardly ever come up—by their forwardness to partake your triumphs, by their backwardness to share your disgrace—by their acknowledgment of your errors out of candor, and suppression of your good qualities out of envy—by their not contradicting, or by their joining in the cry against you, lest they, too, should become objects of the same abuse—by their playing the game into your adversaries' hands, by always letting their imaginations take you with their cowardice, their vanity and selfishness against you; and thus realizing and hastening all the ill consequences they affect to deplore by spreading abroad that very distrust, obloquy and hatred, which they predicted would be excited against you.

SINGULAR CASE OF DEATH.—About a week since, Ellen Vaughan, a domestic, at a hotel in Troy, N. Y., had her ears perforated for ear-rings in the usual manner, but on the following day the ears commenced to swell, then the head, and the swelling and inflammation increased until she became blind and deaf, and, finally, erysipelas set in, under which she suffered terribly for three days, when death put an end to her torture.

MARINE DISASTERS FOR MARCH.—There were 35 American sea going vessels of all classes reported during last month as totally lost and missing. The list comprises 1 steamer, 4 ships, 3 barks, 7 brigs, and 21 schooners. Of these 21 were wrecked, 3 sunk, 6 abandoned, 2 burnt, and 3 are missing. Their total value may be estimated at about $350,000, exclusive of their cargoes, portions of which have been saved.

THE TRIAL of the Hon. Daniel E. Sickles, for the murder of Philip Barton Key, begun on last Monday, and an intense interest is manifested throughout the community in regard to it. The Court room is thronged with people during the trial. We will give a synopsis of the proceedings in our next.

THE DEMOCRACY SPEAKING OUT.

The First Response to Col. Forney's Recent Tour Through our Northern Counties.

WYOMING DECLARED in Support of the State Convention, and Against the Bogus Movement of Knox, Luman, Forney & Co.

We take from the Tonkhanok North Branch Democrat, of Wednesday, the following proceedings of a Mass Meeting of the Democracy of Wyoming, regularly called by the Standing Committee of the county: Pursuant to notice of the Democratic Standing Committee, the Democracy of Wyoming county assembled in mass meeting at Tonkhanok, on Saturday the 26th inst., at 2 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of giving an expression to their views in regard to the proceedings of the recent Democratic State Convention, and to ratify and confirm the same. Never were more determined Democrats assembled in counsel in this county. Not a dissenting voice was heard through all the proceedings, which angers well for the unity of the Democratic party in this county. The meeting was called to order by John V. Smith, Chairman of the County Committee. David Patrick, of Falls was chosen President, and Thomas Osterhout, John Lee, H. W. Fasset, Squire Sampson, L. C. Gunkin, John Jackson, P. W. Redfield and C. D. Gearhart, Vice Presidents. On motion, Alvin Day and Jacob Dewitt were chosen Secretaries; and the following named persons appointed a Committee to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiment of the meeting, viz:—Hon. R. R. Little, Geo. S. Tuten, Wm. F. Terry, John V. Smith, Hon. Wm. M. Platt, H. H. Walden, D. D. Dewitt and Z. Billings. After a short address, the Committee appeared and reported, through their Chairman, the following preamble and resolutions, which were adopted without a dissenting voice.

WHEREAS, efforts are being made by certain men calling themselves Democrats, to create dissension and discord in the Democratic party of this State—men who in pursuance of such intent, have without any authority from the people, and contrary to established usage published a call for a Convention to be held on the 13th day of April next, to reverse the action of the recent Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg; therefore,

Resolved, That we cordially endorse the proceedings of the late Democratic State Convention at Harrisburg, not only in respect to its nomination of candidates, and its resolution of endorsement and approval of the present Federal Administration, but also in its honest condemnation and scathing denunciation of that present Governor of Pennsylvania, who that Democrats of this State had already withstood too long a and fearless expression of their disapprobation of his repeated acts of betrayal of the trust which they had confided to him.

Resolved, That the call for another Convention by the friends of Gov. Packer, with the view of procuring, if possible, an endorsement of his administration is unauthorized by the Democracy party—in direct conflict with its duly authorized action upon that subject—contrary to sound precedent, and in case such Convention shall assemble it cannot be considered a Democratic Convention, and we will not represent the Democracy party at the same.

The Democrat, in publishing the proceedings, says they are a true reflex of the sentiment of the Democracy of that county and will be ratified at the polls in October next, by an overwhelming Democratic majority; that the Wyoming Democrats are not prepared to desert the time-honored principles and usages of the party, nor to abandon those ancient landmarks of exact and justice, handed down by a JEFFERSON and a JACKSON; that no bogus Convention, no discontented spirits who have failed to receive the applause of "well done good and faithful servant," will be able to make inroads upon the Democratic party in that county; that they stand as a unit in favor of the principles of our party in their original party, and will come up in one solid column to vindicate them at the ballot-box.

Many of our readers will recognize among the officers of the meeting and committee men, some of the most prominent and influential Democrats of Wyoming, men of character and talents, who have represented the county and district in the House and Senate, and are known and respected throughout the State. Among them, too, were those who, when the Leocompton question was a live and unsettled issue, were what were known as Anti-Leocomptonists; but they, with all other good Democrats, now consider that matter settled and gone, never again to be agitated except by renegades and disorganizers, and, therefore, go earnestly for maintaining the unity and integrity of the Democratic organization.

The meeting was ably addressed by the Hon. R. R. Little, Hon. W. M. Platt, Jacob Dewitt and Geo. S. Tuten, who expressed their cordial and decided approbation of the action of the Democratic State Convention, and exhorted all true Democrats to stand by the ticket nominated. Messrs. Platt and Tuten, (according to the Democrat) were particularly severe in condemnation of the course of Governor Packer in interfering last fall through his Attorney General, Knox, and others, in behalf of the opponents of the Democratic party.—Pennsylvania.

A young wife remonstrated with her husband, a dissipated spendthrift, on his conduct. "My dear," said he, "I am only like the prodigal son—I shall reform by-and-by." "And I will be like the prodigal son, too," said she, "I will arise and go to my father's house," and off she went.

The Bogus Convention.

We early pointed out the character of a large number of the men whose names were attached to the "Call" for a Bogus State Convention. The exhibit we made showed most conclusively that a majority of the movers in this scheme to aid the Black Republicans, were persons who had opposed the Democratic party, numbers of them members of the Know-Nothing Order, and all willing to perform any act which would injure the Democracy, and give assistance to the opposition. Our Democratic contemporaries in the interior have also been engaged in unearthing the political pedigrees of the abettors of Knox, Forney and Luman, and proving the Anti-Democratic standing of these men. But the most pointed article which has met our eye upon this subject, is the following from the Miner's Gazette, published at Ashland, Schuylkill County. After inserting a communication which appeared in Forney's Press, dated Ashland, 26th March, signed by six persons who are in favor of the Bogus Convention, the Gazette says:—

We have always been under the impression that editors and publishers of newspapers never publish communications without a knowledge of the author, but we find in this we are mistaken. The author of the above communication, or rather the first name on the list, is Dr. Bobbs, alias Bogus, well known in this and adjoining counties as a very ludicrous specimen of a colored gentleman, black as erubus. So much for the first signer of this communication.

The next name on the list is Jacob Danes, better known as "Gen." He, also, has been a public character for years in the capacity of a hostler. He can most any time be seen in the vicinity of some of the Pottsville hotels. He will certainly be quite a feature in Forney's Convention.

Next comes another colored gentleman (Solomon Williams). He, too, has been an hostler in this county for many years, known by nearly every white man in this vicinity. "Sol" is opposed to the Administration and the extension of slavery, and no doubt will add much strength to the abolition features of the next Convention.

The other three public names, which are signed to the communication are parties unknown to us. We think their residence must be either in the Isle of Sky or Airshire; however, be that as it may, the communication is deserving of marked attention from the Democratic papers of the State.

If the other communications in the Press are of a similar import to the foregoing, Forney's Convention must be successful. If there is an equal ratio of sable gents (such as Dr. Bogus and Sol Williams) in the Convention, we will certainly expect to be defeated, as an Amalgamation Convention will carry with it all the nigger stealers, &c., in the State.

The Solin's Grove Times, the Democratic organ of Snyder county notices the fact that H. P. Hottenstein and Nathaniel Moyer of that county have signed their names to the "Call" for the Bogus Convention. As to Mr. Hottenstein, the Times says, 'he nearly went crazy because he was disappointed in getting the post office in this place. No man ever made stronger efforts to get an office from Uncle Sam than he did, and no man ever abused poor old Uncle Sam more since his disappointment; though his influence wouldn't change one vote besides his own, in the county, and Mr. Moyer was disappointed in getting the appointment of Supervisor on the Susquehanna division of the canal, which has very much soured his temper.' This accounts in a satisfactory manner for the conduct of the two gentlemen from Snyder county, and as for the distinguished colored persons from Schuylkill they are naturally attracted towards their friends. If this is the material out of which the Bogus Convention is to be formed, the Democracy have nothing to fear. The intelligent voters of Pennsylvania cannot be misled by such a parti-colored assemblage.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.—Be cautious. The criterion by which to test the genuineness of the preparations, is the water-mark, manufactures in the paper of which the books of directions are composed. If the seal leaf, when held up to the light, the words "Holloway, New York and London," are conspicuous, the article is the "real Simoa Pure." If this trade-mark is wanting, the stuff is a petticious imitation. We see it is admitted by the "London Medical Review" and "The Lancet" that the Ointment has recently produced most unlooked for results (unlooked for by the profession at least); in cases of palsy, paralysis, stiff joint, hip disease, rheumatism and neuralgia.

WYOMING HOUSE.

J. R. LAYCOCK, PROPRIETOR, WYOMING, LUZERNE COUNTY, PENN. THE Proprietor respectfully informs his friends and the public generally that he has taken charge of the Wyoming House, in the village of Wyoming, near the Railroad Depot of that place, and has fitted it out so as to entertain both transient and permanent visitors in a suitable and comfortable manner. His rooms are spacious and airy, and not only calculated to afford the convenience and comfort of the traveling community, but also to those who would seek a pleasant summer resort with families.

HIS TABLE will be supplied with the best the market can afford; and his Bar will be furnished with the purest liquors that can be obtained. The proprietor will give his exclusive attention to the comfort and convenience of his guests, and is determined to make the WYOMING HOUSE rank among the first hotels in the State. The Proprietor hopes that from his experience in the business, and by unremitting attention on his part, combined with a judicious selection of the most careful and obliging servants, he may be entitled to the favorable consideration of the public, and receive a liberal share of their patronage.
Please give him a call, and judge for yourselves.
