Blackwood's Magazine. This sterling monthly publication for October has been received. It is, as usual, filled with matter of the highest order. It would not be an easy matter to put one's fin-ger on a duli number of this famous period ical, and when we announce, as we do now, the publication of a new number, the reade may look for at least one paper, the perusal of which will be worth his while. We have no intention or time to canvass the different articles in the present issue, which offer the usual variety; but we cannot re-frain from calling attention to, and soliciting a careful perusal of the abstract from CAPT.
SPEKE'S JOURNAL, in this and the number for September, giving the details of a journey in Central Africa, made by him in conjunction with Lieut. Burron. Traversing districts before untrodden by the white man, that officer, having entered Africa on the east coast. worked up to the northward and westward. to the mountains of the Moon, and in their vicinity has discovered a vast lake or island sea, to which he has given the name o "Victoria Nyanza," and which there is every reason to believe is the long-sought Fountain of the Nile. This Lake is situated exactly on the Equator; and its position and ability to the suggestion.

We cannot produce, nor will we pretend to, in this brief notice, Capt. Speke's argument on the subject, but we must refer for the details to the number itself. A continuation is promised, which will probably throw still further light on the solution of this most interesting problem. An age which has witnessed the discovery of the sage, will certainly not much longer be baflers pushing up from the South.

Stevens has three ball wounds in his head. two in his breast, and one in his arm. He was also cut on the fore-head with a rifle bullet, which glanced off, leaving a dangerons wound. It is thought that all but Capt Brown will make a full confession.

It is stated that Capt. Brown's object in refusing counsel was, that if he had counsel he would not be allowed to speak himself, and Southern counsel would not be willing to express his views in the matter.

WE learn from the Danville Democrat that the new Rolling Mill, of William Hancock. is rapidly approaching completion. It is represented as being a beautiful frame building, handsomely and substantially erected, 120 feet long and 75 feet wide. The main timbers rest on cast iron seats to prevent rotting, and which adds much to their . The doors are hung on cast iron weights, swinging on pulleys. The roof is covered with slate, and the whole building is to be handsomely painted. The erection of this building has been under the supervision of J. K. THE trial of Brown at Harper's Ferry v ed on Monday last. The jury found him guilty of treason, advising, conspiring with slaves and others to rebel, and for murder in the first degree.

arrest of judgment, both on account of the indictment and errors in the verdict. The prisoner has been tried for an offence not appearing on the record of the Grand Jury, so it appears. The verdict was not on each count separately, but a general verdict on the whole indictment. The pris oner has also been found guilty of both counts for murder of the same persons. It was manifest he could not be guilty of both These points will be argued by counsel on Brown was so as to be able to sit up in his bed while the verdict was being read. On hearing it he lay quickly down. He has since been removed to jail.

THE trial of Coppee, one of the Harper's Ferry insurrectionists, is progressing, with Griswold and Hoyt as counsel. The prisoner, it is stated, seems calm and composed.

THE Republican papers are trying their hands at making it appear that Capt. Brown, dollars. of Kansas notoriety, is or was crazy at the time he commenced the late insurrection at by Gen. Marquez. It is announced a cold-Harper's Ferry. What inconsistency!

AFTER SHERIFF CAMPBELL read the comnitment of the prisoners—Brown, Coppee nd others—charged with treason and murder, Mr. Harding, the State Attorney, asked that the Court might assign counsel for the prisoners if they had none; whereupon the Court inquired if the prisoners had counsel, when Brown addressed the Court in the fol-

"I did not ask for any quarter at the time I was taken. I did not ask to have my life spared. The Governor of the State of Vir ginia tendered me his assurance that I should have a fair trial, and under no circumstances whatever will I be able to at-tend to a trial. If you seek my blood, you can have it at any moment without the mockery of a trial. I have no counsel. I have not been able to advise with any one. I know nothing about the feelings of my fellow prisoners, and I am utterly unable to attend in any way to my own defence. My attend in any way to my own detence. My memory don't serve me. My health is insufficient, although improving. There are mitigating circumstances, if a fair trial is to be allowed us, that I would urge in our favor, but if we are to be forced, with the mere form of a trial to execution, you might spare yourselves that trouble. I am ready for my fate. I do not ask a trial. I beg for no mockery of a trial—no insult, nothing but that which conscience gives or cowardice would drive you to practice. I ask to be excused from the mockery of a trial. I do not know what the design of this examina-tion is. I do not know what is to be the benefit of it to the Commonwealth? I have foolishly insulted, as the cowardly and barbarous insult those who fall into their pow

The Court assigned Charles J. Faulkner and Lawson Botts as counsel for the prison

Mr. Faulkner, after consulting the prisoners, said-"I was about to remark to the the Court that, although I feel at any time willing to discharge any duty which the Court can legally, by authority of the law, devolve upon me. I am not, in the first place, aware of any authority which the Court has, sitting as an examining Court, to assign counsel for the defence. Besides, it is manifest from the remarks just made by two other famous geographical enigmas, the mouth of the Niger and the North West Passtances, not as a bona fide act, but rather as seage, will certainly not much longer be batfled by the few miles yet remaining to connect the explorations of the Nile from the North with the recent discoveries of travelsibility of that position. I have other reasons for declining the position, connected with my having been at the place of action lished by L. Scort & Co., New York, and can be had for $10, which is a reasonably oners which render it improper and inexpedient for me to act as their counsel. If the Court had authority to order it peremtorily, I should acquiesce and obey that authority power vested in this Court, and as it is of the prisoners' desire, I will see that full justice is done them.

Mr. Botts said he did not feel it his duty to decline the appointment of the Court .-He was prepared to do his best to defend the prisoners, and hoped that the Court would assign him some experienced assist ant, if Mr. Faulkner declined.

Mr. Harding then addressed Brown, and asked him if he was willing to accept Messrs. Faulkner and Botts as counsel.

Brown replied—I wish to say that I have sent for counsel. I did apply through the advice of some persons here to some persons whose names I do not now recolle act as counsel for me, and I have sent for other counsel who have had no possible opportunity to see me. I wish for counsel if I am to have a fair trial, but if I am to have nothing but the mockery of a trial, as I said before, I do not care anything about counsel. It is unnecessary to trouble any gentleman with that duty.

Mr. Harding—You are to have a fair trial Brown—There were certain men, I think Mr. Botts was one of them, who declined acting as counsel, but I am not positive names: I am a stranger here: I do no know the disposition or character of the gentleman named; I have applied for counsel of my own and doubtless could have them, if I am not, as I said before, to be hurried to execution before they can reach here. But if that is the disposition that is to be made of me, all this trouble and ex-pense can be saved.

Brown—I cannot regard this as an examination under any circumstances. I would prefer that they should exercise their own pleasure. I feel as if it was a matter of very little account to me. If they had designed to assist me as counsel I should have vanted an opportunity to consult them at Fixing the Responsibility.

We extract from the Philadelphia Even ing Journal, the following portion of a vigorous article, inquiring who were at the botom of the Harper's Ferry insurrection. Th Journal is an independent newspaper, but its repeated assaults upon the Democratic party, bears testimony that its opinions up on this momentous occurrence are not d turbed by partizan feelings.

After some introductory remarks, it says "Of course, in this, as in all like questions vengeance will not reach a tithe of thos who are really guilty of this atrocious busi ness—it will fall on the few who were act ively and overtly employed in the conspi-racy—on the miserable tools of those high apostles of Abolitionism, who preach, from pulpits and from rostrums, and from th desk of the journalist, treason to the law and institutions of the land, in the specion name of freedom, and yet take preciou good care to keep their own necks clear o the balter into which they would willingly thrust other people's heads, and to which they have, morally, forfested their own.— We hold the 'Abolition party' responsible for this last of three attempts to provoke at insurrection of the southern slaves, and to enact, in all that region, the horrible atro cities of St. Domingo. We here and nov solemnly indict Messrs. Greeley, and Sew ard, and Wendell Philips, and Lloyd Garri son, and Henry Wilson, and Joshua Gid dings, and the whole fraternity of the anti-slavery agitators, as the real instigators of the pertentous rebellion which was—per haps prematurely—begun at Harper's Ferry and happily, for the peace of the land and the cause of humanity, speedily suppressed They have "taught the bloody instructions which will always find enough ignorant an insane minds in which to engender their natural progeny and ripen into diabolica acts of negro-stealing, murder, and eve plots of sanguinary revolution.

"The shocking scenes which have just transpired upon the banks of Potomac within a short distance of the national cap tal, are the proper fruit of their long an industrious sowing of the seeds of servil war and insurrection. Their persistent an vehement promulgation of incendiary and disloyal doctrines respecting the wrong endured by the southern negro, and his d vine right to redress them at any cost an in any possible way—their bold assertion of the principle of a 'higher law'—a law above all human law, which every man may make and interpret for himself, and the declaration that slavery and freedom, as re-lated in this country under the Constitution, are engaged in an 'irrepressible conflict,' which can only end in the final triumph of black allies of the free States for emancipado no injustice, in what we have said, to the anti-slavery party, or its individual mem-bers, we quote here what their leading or-gau—the New York Tribune—printed yes-terday, in double-leaded editorial type, with all the evidence of an internal scheme of treason and civil war before it. Speaking of the ringleaders of the insurr pours forth this maudlin strain of compass ion and eulogy upon their martyred souls:

"There will be enough to heap execration on the memory of these mistaken men. We leave this work to the fit hands and tongues of those who regard the fundamental maximums of the Declaration of Independence as 'glittering generalities.' Believing that the way to universal emancipation lies not through insurrection, civil war and bloodshed, but through peace, discussion, and the quiet diffusion of sentiments of humanity and justice, we deeply regret this outbreak, but remembering that if their fault was grievous, grievously have they answered it, we will not, by one reproachful word, dis turb the bloody shrouds wherein John Brown and his compátriots are sleeping.— They dared and died for what they felt to be right, though in a manner which seems to us fatally wrong. Let their epituphs remain unwritten until the not distant slave shall clank his chains in the shade of Mon ticello or by the graves of Mount Vernon. "Now, what is this but a cowardly paltering, in which sympathy with the object of a devlish conspiracy is qualified by a feeble ment? Is it not the thin ambiguity through which a traitor would excuse treason, yet seem to denounce it? The substance of the whole paragraphs is-and we hold it as the sentiment of the entire anti-slavery partythat Brown and his confederates were right in their purpose, but imprudent in the mode of executing it, and that abolitionism, triumphant through safer ways of reachin aim, will yet shout hallelujahs over their noble sacrifice in the cause of 'universal PETERSONS' COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR .- It is startling fact that there never has at any ime, been so many counterfeits and altered bank notes in circulation, as at present, many which can only end in the final triumph of one over the other—are duly fructifying in just such fearful turmoil and contention as stained the soil of Kansas with blood, and tersons' Detector notices the appearance of now by the forcible occupation of a town in fifty one new counterfeits. Under the cir-Virginia, the seizure of the national armory, and a threatened war of the blacks and their ness man to have at hand a reliable detec tor, and such a one is Petersons'. The betion, has terrified the people of the South and outraged the humane and patriotic instincts of the whole land. To show that we has also been introduced into Petersons' De tector. They arise from contamination and impurity of the blood, and are to be seen all around us everywhere. One quarter of all we meet are tainted with them, and one quarter of these die of them: die foolishly too, because they are curable. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cleanses out the Scrofulous corruption from the blood, renders it pure and healthy, and effectually expurges the foul contamination from the system. Marmaduke Pearce, in the roll years, age.

Mrs. Pearce was born in Plymouth, Luz. co., September 17th, 1782. She was descended from the Jameron and Alden families, who were among the earliest and most enterprising of this Valley. Her father, Liout. John Jameson, erected one of the first houses in Hanover township, in 1773. In 1776, during our Revolutionary struggles he marched, as an officer of a company of soldiers raised in Wyoming, to the scene of military operations, and was attached to one of the Connecticut regiments is. New Jersey. He was present in several battles, and exhibited that patriotism and courage which finally won for us civil and religions liberty. Returning to Wyoming, he, with his brothers, William and Robert Jameson took part in the terrible engagement of July 3d, 1778. In this battle Robert was killed, William was wouhded, and John escaped uninjured. William a few months afterwards, was murdered by the savages at the Buttonwood bridge, below Wilkes Barre, and John was shot by an Iddian near the Hanover church, on the 8th of July, 1782 a short time before the birth of his daughter Hannah the subject of this sketch.

The maternal grandfather of Mrs. Pearce was Major Prince Alden, one of the Pilgrim Fathers. Major Alden erected the first dwelling in Newport township in 1772, on the property now owned by Col. Washington Lee. His sons, Mason F. and John, built the first forge in the Valley in 1777.

In 1799, Hannah Jameson married James Stewart, son of Capt. Leazuus Stewart, who commanded the Hanover company in the Indian battle, where he fell bravely fighting in defence of his country. In 1808 her husband died, and she was left with several small children whom she creditably reared and educated, managing her affairs with prudence and economy.

She experienced religion in 1806, and was received into the M. E. Church by the Rev. George Lane. Her mother was member of the first class formed in Hanover, and the house of the widow Jameson was the home of the early Methodist ministers.

In 1819 she was married a second time to the Rev. Marmaduke Pearce, a clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal Church, well known in this county for his clear and effective discourses.

Mrs. Pearce was a lady of a most genial spirit and true piety. Her ready wit and pleasing conversation drew about her many friends and acquaintances in whose memory she will long live, and her life continually exemplified the doctrines of christianity, A few munths ago she met with
