

Baltimore Election.

We presume our readers are acquainted by this time with the scenes enacted at the late election held in Baltimore. All kinds of violence were resorted to by this riotous party in power, in order to accomplish their wicked designs. If any greater ourrage could be committed by the party at Baltimore, which rules that city, by the brute force of rowdies and bludgeons, it is the attempt of the organs of Plug Uglyism to attribute the disturbances at the polls of the Reformers. This is part of the plot by means of which they expect to ward off the crushing blows of public opinion against them. The testimony, however, is teo decided to be outweighed by bold assertions. The testimony of the most reliable and respectable portion of the Press of Balti-more is against the American party. The Baltimore American has always been an supporter of the dominant party in the city, and it says, on the morning after the elec-

"The election yesterday can be justly termed nothing but an outrage against decency, against law, and against alt rights, public and private. The city was given up to the control of lawless ruffianism, supported and encouraged by the police, and approved of and urged on by the recognized leaders of the American party. Armed bands of lawless characters held possession of nearly all the polling places—the efforts which the friends of a fair and legal election made to preserve order were treated a acts of riot, and the only arrests made by the police were of respectable and well known citizens, whose whole lives are the guarantee of their obedience to the laws.—
Every species of fraud, every degree of ruffianism, and every violation of swornduty, was used to defeat the expression of the will of the people. Bands of men, whose looks bespoke their character, rode in omnibuses and carriages from one poll to the other, voting without check at each—The accumulated disgrace and shame of the scene was painful to contemplate, and we can scarcely control our own feelings to write of it with any degree of calmness."

One of the reporters of the Baltimore American narrates his experience in collecting returns of the election, showing the "The election yesterday can be justly

"Reporting yesterday was not at all pleasant, especially to those who represented prepers opposed to the peculiar style in which elections in Baltimore are managed in there days. A single instance of the experience of one of our reporters, is worth relating. His errand was to obtain the returns from the Twelfth Ward. After knocking for some time at the door of the house in which the polls were held, it was at last opened, and in reply to his request for the returns, he was informed with an oath that they were not ready. Whilst this parley was going on two "roughs" approached the reporter and inquired his business. To the reply that he was a reporter he was told that he "mush breeze so, that he could'nt come in that way." A demand was then made that he should treat the crowd, and his generosity excited by a puncture with an awi. The reporter refused to 'treat,' and pistols and knives were Crawn to intimidate him.—Whilst the reporter was eudeavoring to escape from his unwelcome company a larger party came up and invited his captors to take a drink. This invitation they complied with, and taking their prisoner with them they adjourned to a neighboring tay.

Here the reporter found two policemen and begun to feel seriously alarmed. Soon a dispute arose between the party, and two of them stripped for a fight, one of them handing his arms to a police officer who was sitting by the stove. Notwithstanding the election of ten American members of the House of Delegates by violence in the city of Baltimore, it appears that the Democrats have carried the Legislature, which will elect a United States Senator in place of the Hon, Jas. A. Pearce. The Exchange estimates that the Democratic majority in the Senate will be four, and in use of Delegates eight.

More About Harper's Ferry Conflict.

A great deal has already been written up-n the servile insurrection which took place not long since at Harper's Ferry, Virginia, but with all, the following correspondence of the Morning Pennsylvanian, written at Middletown, Mississippi, comes up to the standard of the Union-loving portion of the people a little closer than anything we have yet seen. We cheerfully give it room in our columns, and ask for it a careful perusal:

"The recent conflict at Harper's Ferry.

"The recent conflict at Harper's Ferry, Va, has fallen like the sound of the fire bell Va, has fallen like the sound of the fire-bell at night, on this Southern portion of our country. Its moral effect will be tremendous, particularly upon the calm and Unionloving portion of this people. This then is the reality of abolitionism! It is no longer to be considered as the idle, raving dream of a maniac, but here are numbers of citizens of this so called republic furnishing arms, and supplying men and money to those who are to go at the midnight hour to cut the throats of their unoffending neighbors and fellow citizens, and kindle the fires, and deal out the horrors of a bloody insurrection. BLOOMSBURG, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 9, 1859.

to the throats of their unoffending neighbors and dellow citizens, and kindle the fires, and deal out the horrors of a bloody insurrection.

It is vain to conceal it longer! This is Abolitionism, and this is Black Republicanism, no longer in a state of embryo; but, the tent and claws and bursting forth with a terocious roar amidst us. And are there are now in the North necestricken, or who will hang their heads in grief and shame, for laving reared and fed among them such a monster, so cruel; so hellish? And are their southern fellow citizens expected to be still passive? Verily they shall see.

I have not the least idea, I assure you, of writing anything to threaten. The crisis is reached, and we are now soon to know the end. I have had no sympathy or connection with that party at the South who have and other absurdities. They do not represent the views or feelings of any considerable number of our Southern citizens. The great mass utterly repudiate such a measure as most unchristian and suicidal to ourselves; and whenever it has become a question at the polls, you have seen with what an overwhelming vote it has met its rebull, as it did this season in Texas, at the election of Houston. But I express to you the effect of this recent news upon the calm, Christian, Isw-abiding, and Union-loving men of the South. All see that the crisis is reached. The Governor of Virginia will doubtless make a requisition upon the Governor of New York for Mr. Gerret Smith, and other guilty participants in this late affair of blood. Their extradition will in some way be avoided, we expect, if not openly refused. Perhaps the authorities of the United States may try their power in the case, and fail, or be resisted by an armed mob, as in other instances. Then, of course, our Union is an absurdity. No man would advocate a union with cut-throats and murderes.

strong. Upon the whole this is a very interesting book. It speaks interestingly of the family of Daniel Boone; of his grandfather en grating to America, and settling in Bucks county, Pennsylvania; of the family of Boone's father; and contains an explicit account of Exeter, the birth place of Daniel TIMES OF COL. THE FARMER AND GARDENED _The Novem ber number of this valuable agricultural journal has been received. It contains inresting and instructive matter for the Far mer; and every one should be in possession of a copy. This number presents a very interesting table of contents: "English and American farming contrasted; Agricultura Education; A very little more about bones Steam Roller and Rolling in General; Visit to the Farmer's High School; Take care of the Implements; Are you troubled with Rats; A Note from the Farmer's High School; The Morality and Legality of Weed growing; Fresh air as necessary as warmth for animals; When can stable manure be most profitably applied." We have given you a fair specimen of the subjects written upon in this number, though not half of them. WE learn by the Bradford papers that on. G. A. Grow will entertain the citizens of Susquehanna county by an address on the political topics of the day, at Montrose, on Monday evening, November the 21st inst. He is also announced to speak in Tioga, Tompkins, and Chemung counties, New York. He is determined to make himself useful. It will require a large amount of stump oritorical power to set the Black Republican party straight since the commotion at Harper's Ferry. Grow possesses nerve, will and ability sufficient to do his share at clearing the skirts of the Republican party of this servile insurrection which took place in Virginia. But if that is what he is discussing, he might as well turn his attention to something else.

The cotton crop of Alabama and Tennes see is said to be in fine condition. A much greater amount of land is under cultivation this year than last, and the crop will be a large one. The rice yield will be enormous. One planter on the Savannah expects 40,000 bushels from 890 acres-55 bushels to the acre.

THE fact that the wheat crop of 1859 one of the best that has ever been harvested in our country, is no longer a matter of question.
