A Negro in Trouble.

South Easton has been, for some time past, afflicted with hie presence of an imjustice, a stigma on the name of Republic pudent, saucy, negro, who received rather and progress and the administration of un- short notice to leave, on Monday. He got into an altercation with some white folks, on Sunday evening, when he drew a pistol and attempted to fire. The act was anticipated, and before the gallant Henry Wilkeon, (for such was the name he gloried in.) could draw trigger, he found himself sprawling in the guller and receiving a vigorous boot application from sundry pairs of that article. After the party thought he had been sufficiently chastised, they took him before a Justice and had him committed to prison. On Monday they agreed to compromise and let him go free, provided he would leave the State immediately. This proposition the negro eagerly accepted and in the alternoon he moved himself and weach to Jersey, and South Easton got rid
