

THE STAR OF THE NORTH.

W. H. JACOBY, Proprietor.

Truth and Right—God and our Country.

[Two Dollars per Annum.]

VOLUME 13.

BLOOMSBURG, COLUMBIA COUNTY, PA., WEDNESDAY NOVEMBER 6, 1861.

NUMBER 44.

STAR OF THE NORTH,

PUBLISHED EVERY WEDNESDAY BY W. H. JACOBY.

Office on Main St., 3rd Square below Market.

TERMS:—Two Dollars per annum in paid within six months from the time of subscription; two dollars and fifty cents if not paid within the year. No subscription taken for a less period than six months; no discontinuances permitted until all arrearages are paid, unless at the option of the editor.

THE WAR NEWS.

Gen. B. F. Kelley Routes the Rebels, Capturing Three Cannon and Many Prisoners.

Retreat Toward Winchester.

NEW CREEK, Va., Oct. 27.—Brig. General B. F. Kelley marched from this point on Friday night and attacked the rebels entrenched at Romney yesterday afternoon.

He routed the enemy, capturing many prisoners, three pieces of cannon, and all their wagons and camp equipment. The rebels retreated towards Winchester. Our loss is trifling. That of the enemy has not been ascertained, but it is believed to be large.

OFFICIAL DISPATCH OF GEN. KELLEY.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Lieutenant General Scott today received the following despatch, dated Romney Va., Oct. 26 P. M.:

"In obedience to your orders I moved on this place at 12 o'clock last night, attacked the enemy at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and drove in their outposts, and after a brilliant action of two hours, completely routed them, taking all their cannon and much of their camp equipment and many prisoners. Our loss is but trifling, but cannot say to what extent.

GENERAL KELLEY'S COLUMN.

This gallant Virginian has not only recovered from his severe wound inflicted by the treachery of rebels, last summer, but is again actively at work in the field. His headquarters has alternated lately between Gratton and New Creek. He has had six regiments under his command, and these have been stretched in line from Cumberland (Maryland) to Gratton. Their principal business has been to guard the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between these points, and to keep the Secessionists from making incursions out of the valley of Virginia into the western part of the State.

ROMNEY.

Is situated in a bowl of mountains. There are rich fertile valleys running along their bases. The country surrounding is productive of the cereals. The town itself is one of the most thriving in that part of Virginia. Many of the inhabitants still long for a restoration of the old Union.

It can be easily fortified and held. But its possession, except as a point to guard the rear of an advancing column, is of little military importance. Winchester is the strategic point of that region.

Col. Wallace's Indiana Zouaves, early in June last, whilst stationed at Cumberland, made a dash upon a party of Confederate troops stationed at this point, and took all their camp equipment and a large number of arms, routing them completely.

From Missouri.

Official Dispatch from Gen. Fremont—Brilliant Action of Springfield—2,000 Rebels Driven by Fremont's Body Guard—The Stars and Stripes Raised on the Court House.

St. Louis, October 26.—The following despatch was received here this evening: HEAD QUARTERS IN THE FIELD Near HUNSMANVILLE, Mo. Oct. 23 1861.

"Yesterday afternoon Major Zagoni, at the head of my body guard, made a most brilliant charge on a body of the enemy drawn up in line of battle in their Camp at Springfield, 2,000 or 2,200 strong. He completely routed them and cleared them from the town, hoisted the National Flag on the Court House, and retired on a reinforcement which he has already joined. Our loss is not great.

"This successful charge against such very large odds is a noble example to the army. Our advance will occupy Springfield to-night."

THE BATTLE OF FREDERICKTOWN.

Fifty prisoners, taken at the battle of Fredericktown, have been put to work in the trenches at Cape Girardeau. The report of Major Schofield, who commanded the battery in the action, shows that this victory was the most complete of any yet achieved by our army during the war.

St. Louis, October 27th.—[Special to the St. Louis Republic.]—HEADQUARTERS WESTERN DEPARTMENT, YORTZ STATION, MISSOURI, October 26th.—The following despatch has been received, announcing a brilliant victory at Springfield by General Fremont's band of 150 men.

Fortress Monroe, Oct. 29, via Baltimore.—The great expedition sailed this morning. The flagship Wabash took the lead at daylight, when a gun was fired as a signal. The steamer Catawba brought up the rear. The vessels, more than fifty in number, formed in line a few miles down the Roads and went out between the Capes in splendid style. The steamer Baltic had the ocean express in tow.

reception, but your Guard with one feeling made a charge, and in less than three minutes the enemy was completely routed by 180 men. We cleared the city of every rebel, and retired, I being near night and not feeling able to keep the place with so small a force. Major White's command did not participate in the charge. I have seen charges, but such brilliant unanimity and bravery I have never seen, and did not expect. Their war cry, "Fremont and the Union," broke forth like thunder.

CHARLES ZAGONI, Major Commanding Body Guard. Colonel John M. Richardson, who rode over to the vicinity of Springfield last evening, says that Major Zagoni was guided to the town from the Jefferson to the Mount Vernon road by Judge Owens. The rebel camp was just outside of the city. Major Zagoni was compelled to pass through a line, and let down a number of fences and rails, before he could change on the foot-drawings their fire. There was a great deal of street-firing in Springfield and from the houses. Two rebels, who ran out of their dwellings and fired at the body-guard, were killed.

Major Zagoni was advised of the force of rebels, but he was determined to have a fight. Colonel Pearce, said to be from Arkansas, commanded one of the rebel regiments. It is thought that the cause of the increased rebel force at Springfield was the large amount of plunder gathered there for some weeks past which it is stated they intend to take South with them, but which will, of course, now fall into our hands.

The loss of either side is not stated. Secession "Flayed Out," in Southeastern Mo. A correspondent of the Missouri Democrat, writing from Pilot Knob, under date of October 23, says:

Last evening, our army, with the exception of Col. Carlin's regiment, arrived here. I have had the pleasure of meeting Major Schofield, Captain Manter, Colonel Baker, Colonel Murphy, and a number of the officers who bore a part in the fight at Fredericktown. Colonel Carlin remained at Fredericktown. The route of the rebels was complete, and it will be long ere they will be able to collect his scattered forces. A large majority of them will avail themselves of the opportunity to steal back home.

The prisoners taken represent them as generally sick of their undertaking and anxious to get away. Jeff. has only been able to keep them together by occasionally shooting one for desertion. Secession is "flayed out" in Southeast Missouri.

THE RETREAT OF THE REBELS FROM SOUTHWESTERN MISSOURI.

A correspondent of the same Journal, writing from Rolla, under date of Oct. 24th, says:

A report is in circulation, brought in by a countryman to the effect that an order had been issued from the rebel headquarters for the Texas troops to march to Houston, and to place a band of Senators and Representatives in the Missouri to camp Walker. Such an order is considered here to be quite superfluous, as said troops are being driven home by our legions as fast as possible.

The Manifesto of John C. Breckinridge.

The St. Louis Republic says that this gentleman has published a Manifesto to the People of Kentucky. It is dated at Bowling Green, and he says it is written at the first moment since his expulsion from home that he could place his foot on the soil of Kentucky. In it he resigns his seat in the Senate of the United States, saying "I exchange, with proud satisfaction a term of six years in the U. S. Senate, for the musket of a soldier."

The address would fill two columns of our paper, and is made up of sophisms and misrepresentations. He says there is no longer a Union of the United States within the spirit of the Constitution—"the United States no longer exists—the Union is dissolved." But he takes care to conceal from the people whom he is addressing and whose confidence he has betrayed, that while yet Vice President and presiding over the deliberations of the Senate, he and a band of Senators recklessly conspired, by their speeches and acts to break up and destroy the Union, that this was done long before the Presidential election took place, that he connived at the course of the secessionists in the Charleston Convention, in preventing a nomination of president by the Democratic Convention, and in giving to it as being one of its means, if the Democracy were defeated, and the President elected, that to make assurance doubly sure, he lent himself as a willing tool of the disunionists in their enclaves at Baltimore, and was the chief instrument in bringing about the result which he hypocritically pretends to deplore.

The plot developed itself so fully and so scandalously in the North and Southern Senators and Representatives, and broken down politicians proclaim their intention to break up the Union—that it was not necessary to wait for the inauguration of the new President to convince the country of that fact. If President Lincoln had abased himself before them and promised them even more than they were entitled to, still they would have insisted on a separation. There was treason in every act, and they know it.

They knew that the President would go before the new Congress utterly powerless; that the House of Representatives was sure to be against him; that the senate was still more decidedly against him; and that the Supreme Court was inflexibly honest and just. And yet they persisted in carrying their traitorous designs against the Union, and succeeded. They are the authors of this civil war, with all its blights, all its sickening details of crime, and all the monstrous barbarities which have been so far exhibited. He has no right, therefore to speak of the Union being destroyed except in a spirit of utter self-condemnation. No wonder that he is now a refugee from Kentucky after his complicity in all the acts of perfidy and crime by which this civil war has been produced.

On this point alone the world will condemn Maj. Breckinridge and it is not worth while to follow him in other frivolous and unjustifiable excuses for a bad act.

Departure of the Naval Expedition.

Fortress Monroe, Oct. 29, via Baltimore.—The great expedition sailed this morning. The flagship Wabash took the lead at daylight, when a gun was fired as a signal. The steamer Catawba brought up the rear. The vessels, more than fifty in number, formed in line a few miles down the Roads and went out between the Capes in splendid style. The steamer Baltic had the ocean express in tow.

The morning was the most beautiful one of the season and the spectacle was the grandest ever witnessed on this continent. It is alleged that the fleet was to sail in three divisions. The Wabash will be the headquarters of the first division, under General Sherman; the Vanderbilt of the second under General Sievers. The third was under command of General Wright. The first division will land first, the second to follow, and the third to act as a reserve. Three hundred sailors from the men-of-war are detailed to man the surf boats, together with the numerous surfmen from New York. Serrell's Regiment of engineers will land with the first division, together with all their implements, to erect fortifications. It seems to be well understood among military men that the ground on which the forces are to land has to be conquered.

At noon next day, a marked change for the worse had taken place. The period had arrived for me to perform an unpleasant duty. I broke the news to the unfortunate woman with as much caution as possible, telling her to prepare for the worst, and to arrange any affairs she might wish to have settled before her final departure from this world. She told me the whole cause of the accident, in a calm, collected manner, and begged I would be kind enough to draw up a will for her, as she informed me the whole of the property was hers, and that she was living with G—, but not legally married to him, therefore she could dispose of the property as she liked, which she did. The will being finished, I wished her to sign it in my presence and in that of other witnesses; she had a marked repugnance to do this, which appeared dreadful to her as a last act. I showed her the necessity of doing so while in possession of all her faculties, or before any derangement took place. She refused to sign it in the presence of two persons whom she named, her husband and myself. I ordered the room to be cleared, and gave her the pen, putting at the same time the usual questions. She hesitated a long time—there was a stillness that was fearful to me for some ten minutes; at last, she summoned sufficient resolution to commence, but stopped at the first letter, S. "Oh, wait a little," she said, "I am thinking, thinking, thinking of times long past," and as she seemed to be talking more to herself, as it is called, than addressing me, I made no reply. Her husband who was now sober, witnessed this death bed scene with evident emotion. "James," said the woman, "I should like to be alone with the doctor a little while. I have something to tell him, but nothing I have to confess that you do not know." The husband then left. She then told me what I was never, never to tell again. I was at first absolutely paralyzed. There in that remote solitude, did that dying woman reveal facts so dreadful and so connected with my painfully distinct recollection of by-gone days, that I absolutely shook with agitation. It seemed more like a horrible dream than a waking reality. She recalled me to my senses by her despairing appeal to heaven for forgiveness. She seemed completely hopeless, and I tried in length to comfort her, and she would not despair. "How glad I am you are here, doctor; you shall be well paid for all this. Do you know I feel happier now since I told you all. Oh, if I could have seen a clergyman, but there is none nearer than you. Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for words. She spoke at last with effort and evident fatigue. "Call him in," she said. "Too late, too late! I shall soon be elsewhere. Ah, where? I beg and of her to sincerely repent of her faults, and seek hope for the future; she clasped her hands together, sighed deeply as though her heart were too oppressed, and she was at a loss for