

WM. H. JACOBY, EDITOR.

BLOOMSBURG, WEDNESDAY, NOV. 27th, 1861.

THE LUZERNE PEOPLE are having quite an interesting time about their late election. There appears to be considerable dissatisfaction on the part of the Republicans...

THE MONTAUR AMERICAN is a little off its eggs if it means to charge us, in connection with some others, with having copied "Number of Soldiers" from that paper without crediting the article.

ANOTHER DEMOCRAT ELECTED—According to the last Falton Democrat the Hon. John Cessna, of the Somerset and Bedford District, is elected to the Legislature, surely, by a majority of 42 ever Householder, Republican.

EDITORIAL CHANGE—An editorial change has taken place in the Danville Intelligencer, J. S. Sanders having retired and Thomas Chalfant superseding. This paper has been ably conducted for over three years by the retiring editor, and we presume with peculiar success to himself.

NEWS, since the capturing of Sidell and Mason, and McClellan's grand review, has been rather scarce; movements along the Potomac have caused no great commotion among either the Union or Rebel party; all parties appear to have kept exceedingly quiet since the powerful and important action of our troops down in South Carolina.

THE INTELLIGENCER, published at Tunkhannock, has suspended publication by virtue of a writ in the hands of a superior officer. This paper went its whole length for the Republican party alias Union.

President Judge.

The election of Hon. W. J. Woodward as President Judge of Berks county and his acceptance of that post, will render a temporary appointment of Judge for this district, by the Governor necessary.

We understand that the members of the bar in our district, without distinction of party, are in favor of the appointment of William Ellwell, Esq., of Towanda, as Judge, and that nearly all of them recommended him to the Governor for the place.

One of the most heart rending accidents it has ever fallen to our lot to record, occurred at the store of Col. H. B. Hillman, in this borough, on Friday morning last.

Senator Wilson, of Massachusetts, who in his Senatorial capacity, appeared so anxious for war and "blood to the knees," and who in his celebrated speech in the Senate spoke of Southern men thus—"we have got our feet upon their necks, and we will now crush them."

On the 6th inst. the first anniversary of his election, President Lincoln was burnt in effigy in the city of Zanesville, Ohio. Not for any breach of the Constitution, nor for his usurpation of power was this indignity offered to the President; but simply for doing what he had a constitutional and legal right to do—removing Fremont from the command of the Department of the West.

But, the Boston paper may be wrong. The Senator, we see, is announced as a shoe contractor, having secured a large contract, by which he will realize, it is said a fortune. He evidently prefers the smell of leather to that of gunpowder.

COMMODORE WILKES SUSTAINED—When the President was informed of the arrest of the rebel emissaries, it is said that he declared emphatically that they would not be given up by this government even though a war with England should be the consequence.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK, for December, which we have received, completes the 63d volume and instead of losing it has monthly increased in merit in all its various departments. We know of no magazine in the country that renders so much satisfaction to every household in which it enters.

Letter from one of our Volunteers.—No. 4.

CAMP CROSMAN, Huntingdon, Nov. 21, 1861. Friend Will:—I hope you will not place me under the guillotine on account of my not writing you last week.

Notwithstanding his invitation to a dinner with the Fishmonger's Company, Yancy is still in poor spirits. He writes by the last steamer that he had "no present hopes" of success in his mission to foreign powers.

On Wednesday last, says a letter in the Day Book two parties of troops met on the Peninsula, and mistook each other for enemies. Brisk firing at once commenced, and a number on each side were killed and wounded.

General McClellan received a dispatch from General Dix to day announcing that Captain Richard's cavalry, part of General Lockwood's command, had captured nine fine brass field pieces at the town of Only, on a rocky hill near Governor Wise's old farm.

Small wooden houses, large double canvas tents, of heavy material and comfortable beds, are going up in all the localities occupied, or likely to be occupied, during the winter of the coming year, by our troops in the vicinity of Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22—Much speculation continues to be indulged in relative to the Mason and Sidel question. So far as can be ascertained, the British minister of Great Britain Majesty's Government has taken no action whatever upon the subject but will probably await further news.

A despatch from Gallopolis to Governor Pierpont, on Saturday, stated that there was a report there that the Union men had assembled in large numbers, and set fire to the property of Albert Gallatin Jenkins, who had retreated into Georgia territory. The property was situated in Cabell county, about twelve miles from Gayandotte, on the Ohio river.

Had a mob of Democrats, when the President suspended the writ of habeas corpus, or when he destroyed the freedom of speech and the press and denied the right of petition assembled tumultuously, and burnt him in effigy, what a yell of indignation and wrath, reverberating across the continent, would have burst forth from the Republican and Abolition ranks.

From parties who left Columbus on Wednesday, and who are in a position to know fully what they state, we learn that Gen. Folk is still suffering from the injury he received on the occasion of the bursting of the cannon there, and Gen. Pillow was in command. A force was at work cutting down the timber on the Missouri side, opposite Columbus, so as to leave no ambush for the enemy.

THE WAR NEWS.

From Papers of Saturday & Monday. From the Upper Potomac. A letter from Darnestown, dated to-day, says nothing has been heard for several days of any movements of the enemy opposite our lines.

Notwithstanding his invitation to a dinner with the Fishmonger's Company, Yancy is still in poor spirits. He writes by the last steamer that he had "no present hopes" of success in his mission to foreign powers.

along the shore. The ferry boat that crossed near Point Pleasant has been destroyed. A soldier who had been taken prisoner, but who escaped from Cairo, reported that soldiers were coming into that place in great numbers, and that the day before he left [Wednesday] June regiments arrived. There was a general expectation at Columbus that there will soon be an invasion of a more serious character than the late one at Belmont.—Memphis Appeal.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent writes thus: A rebel officer, who came into our lines to-day, states that the rebels had been on the day of the review which came off yesterday, and that it was their intention to have made a formidable demonstration against our pickets, with a view of driving them in and thereby produce a regular panic and stampede among the civilians, who were to witness the grand affair.
