General Butler's Surprise and Defeat.

No substantial successes have been exsected of the James River expedition since | purpose of bringing these two papers into it was announced that General Butler was difficulty with the Administration ; for what in command. For whatever else may be the capacity of that individual it is notori. It is true the Administration have had an one that he is incompetent to direct the abundance of proclamations, making it almovements of a regiment, much less an ar- together needless to issue any bogus conmy. His role is that of a tyrant, not of a cerns; besides Mr. Lincoln is notorious for commenced in the best and most blessed warrior. The accounts just received from la military operations are by no means flattering; in fact his column has met with a decided reverse. General Beauregard, whom he orientatiously announced as cut off from Richmond, has played General But. Tration not calling for more troops we think ler a scusvy trick. He brought his army the least they say about that matter the betaway from Petersburg by a route which it ter; for, should our armies, generally, con seemed the Federal commander knew noth- time to meet with the reverses they have ing of, and dexterous in attack as he is skill of late suffered, Mr. Lincoln will be obliged ful in defense, the wily Frenchman seized in le-s than two weeks to issue a proc'amaa proper moment to strike a damaging blow. tion calling for more men! On Monday morning under cover of a heavy fog, General Beauregard's forces stole a march on the Federals, some of his troops passing quite to the tear of their enemy when a general attack was made. The surprise was a partial, but not a complete soc cess. On the right General Heck-man's brigade of General Smith's corps, upon whom the blow first fell, almost surrounded, were driven back on another brigade in confusion, and many of them, including General Heckman, were taken prisoners .-The Confederates also gained other important advantages on this part of the line, but sault on General Gillmore's corps, which occupied the left. The result, in brief, was that General Beauregard captured more than a thousand prisoners, a half-dozon pieces of artillery and the abandonment by fire of our gunboats. Meanwhile, so goes shooting of a large number of our soldiers, the Federals of the formidable line of works which they had previously taken .-The Confederates, as usual, it is said, attacked in overwholming numbers. We do not see that the operations in this quarter give the elightest promise of success, notwithstanding the glowing accounts of the correspondents of the Press, and the fact that General Butler commands in person. ## LATE WAR NEWS.

FROM SATURDAY'S PAPERS.

'Up to the hour of closing this summary we have received no news of any movements of the Army of the Potomac yester day. A despatch from Grant at half past eight o'clock in the morning, indicates that tothing had occurred at that hour. On Tuesday Grant's advance on the enemy's western flank was repulsed an attempt by loss was seven handred and fifty, and three hundred Confederate prisoners were captored. It seems to be Grant's intention, if he moved yesterday, to all empt to turn Lee's eastern flank. With this object he captured Guiney's Station, on the railroad, east of Spottsylvania, on Thursday. Gunboats have gone up the Rappahannock to Fredericksburg, and as the guerrillas have almost undisputed sway on the road to of the Columbia County Agricultural Hor- Aquia Creek, the wounded are hereafter to be conveyed to Washington by water. Gen. Sherman is reported to have occupied Kingston and Rome, on the railroad south of Dalto 1, Georgia. Johnston still retreats before Sherman, and has not yet shown any signs of resistance. His retreat is in good order, no stragglers or wagons being left behind.

Gen. Averill has cut the Lynchburg and Knoxville railroad in Virginia, near the southwestern corner of the State. He has also destroyed some salt works. He had a contest with the enemy in which he captared two small gons.

The Lower Mississippi is in a terrible condition. Just above Port Hudson the Confederates have placed a battery of nine guns on the Arkansas shore and for nearly a week there has been a complete block. ade. No boats can pass pp or down, and the enemy are concentrating for an attack poon Port Hudson. Nothing is heard from Gen. Banks. He is completely shut up in Alexandria, and has been superceded by General Canby, who, owing to the blockade of the Red river, cannot get there The Confederate newspapers claim that the deleat of Sigel in the Shenandoah Valley was a route. Gen. Breckintidge commanded their forces.

FROM MONDAY'S PAPERS.

General Grant, it appears, has again withdrawn his line. On Tuesday evening his army presented a southwestern front slong the Ny, the western flank being tour miles north of Spottsylvania and the eastern 30 00 flank, four miles east of Spottsylvania. On 25 65 | Thursday he presented an entirely different front. The Ny was abandoned. The western flank was withdrawn about five miles towards Fredericksburg and the eastern flank one mile, so that the line presented a western front towards the enemy, the north flank resting on the Massaponax river, about seven miles south west of Fredericksburg. This line was very near the railroad to Richmond, and Guiney's Station was occapied, it being but a short distance in the rear of the southern flank. Gen. Grant thus retired during Wednesday a distance of five not known. Availing themselves of this position of his troops, the Confederates on Thursday sent a flanking party around his north flank and captured the turnpike road leading from Spottsylvania to Fredericksburg,over which the Federal supplies had been carried. A large Federal force was at once sent in that direction, and the party was driven off with a loss of some prisoners. Grant's loss during the day is estimated at one thousand .-On Friday the Confederates are reported to have sent large bodies of troops toward the railroad, as if they teared a movement by Grant in that direction. The losses of General Wright's 5th corps since the battles began are reported thus : Killed 1,240; woun-In Danville, on the 5th inst., Christiana, ded, 11,570; missing, 1,120; total, 13,930.

There are four corps in the army. General Butier on Tuesday last was encamped on the narrow neck of land at Bermuda Hundred, near the mouth of the Appomattox. The enemy having reconstructed the railroad between Petersburg and Richmond, on Wednesday night last a force was sent out by Butler to cut it, but the enemy were found in great strength and the force returned without reaching the railroad. The next day the enemy made their appearance close to Butler's line and the greatest exertions were made by him to complete his earthworks and prepare for delense. On Friday the enemy attacked him, and at 8 o'clock in the evening he telegraphed to Stanton that "he had been fighting all day, the enemy endeavoring to FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS :- The close in on our lines " The Confederate undersigned, acknowledging with gratitude | Gen.
