his home correspondents engaged at very heavy cost, and connected with each new naval and military expedition of the government, prove that it is determined to leave no spot ancovered by its operations and no event can occur that shall not find immediate report to its columns. It costs the proprietor over one hundred thousand dollars per year to maintain its corps of corespondents in the field.

In its collation of Foreign News the Herald has for years held a high position, and it will endeavor in the future to maintain the stand it has assumed. It has special correspondents stationed in all of the principal cities of the world.

Its telegraphic attangements extend to wherever the electric wires are stretched, When the Atlantic cable is laid, which feat will soon be accomplished, telegrams will be received from Europe and Asia, as well as from the United States Then our readers will have the events of the week in all parts of the civilized world regularly and clearly laid before them.
