The little Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, of Pennsylvania, had the impudence and boldness to come out in a circular letter, a few days before the late election declaring negro suftrage out of the campaign, and denying in the strongest terms that it was an issue .-.Horace Greely, upon seeing this, became lisgusted in the manner politics were being carried in Pennsylvania by this man John Cassua. He was so much surprised at Cessna, evading the issue, that he earnestly inquired of the Chairman, through his Tribune, as follows : "If negro suffrage is not the issue in Pennsylvania, pray tell us, what is ?" To this interrogatory Mr. John Cessna made no reply, but left every man to infer that Mr Greely was not wrong and that negro suffrage was the issue and the only issue election the question has been brought before Congress and every Black Republican Member from this State, with but one exception, voted spang for negro suffrage :and after having so voted they turn their eyes homeward asking a hearty endorsement from the people. It is now to be seen whether the people will sustain them. We pe not. We cannot think the good sense of the people have entirely passed away.

One of the Instruments.

The proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which is found in another column, with the vote by which it passed the House of Representatives is one of the instruments to be used in procrastinating a restoration of the Union. This is easily understood, when we notice where it comes from and how it passes. It is a resolution from the so-called Reconranged, and in the end will bring upon us struction Committee. It will probably pass the Senate, then be sent to President Johnson, who will veto it. It will again return to be discussed and passed by a two-thirds vote in both Houses; and being then ready for action by the several States, Congress will leisurely await the decision of the States, and during all the time thus spent, restoration will be procrastinated. Thus the Republican party may sustain itpower under provisions of law, to contract until the amendment may be ratified by a sufficient number of States to make it a
