to the light of day; but I almost broke my heart sometimes, Molly."
"Well, she loves you yet—and you are very sorry for what you have done, and —we shall be happy, oh so happy!" The prisoner glanced at his cell, and his brow was contracted with pain.
"I know where we are, Jenny, for I have looked in here before, and it is better, a great deal better than hiding in the woods.
I am glad they let me be with you—I am not afraid here, for you are good now, and just as sorry for being wicked as ever you can be. We will live here always, Jenny, if they will let us, and then we shall always be good. Don't cry, Jenny. I wish you would fix my head a little nearer your check—there, so—now kiss me and I shall go to sleep."
How different that sleep from the one I had admitted a few days earlier! But the child was happier now.
Perhaps the strong interest excited by the accident to little Molly might have operated in Jenny White's favor, quite as much as his own simple, unobtrusive penitence, but popular sympathy followed him to his cell, and remained by his side during the trial. On true and heartfelt sympathy this sympathy that there was a general elongation of countenance when he was condemned, and a universal, and, for a moment uncontrollable applause when he was recommended to mercy. As some palliating circumstances came to light during the trial, it was not difficult to obtain a pardon for Jenny White, and I am sure not at Alderbrook regret the exercise of clemency in his behalf. To be sure his trial had been of only six months' duration, but he is so gentle and kind, and withal so sober, and industrious, and contented, that every body places entire confidence in his reformation. Bold, but Jenny White has become strangely like his father; and the good old man goes about, calling on every body (for honest Jacky knows that he has a friend in every body at Alderbrook) to rejoice with him, for he is more blest than any other mortal, while his simple heart revels more than ever with gratitude to God and love to man. As for darling little Molly, she is one of those guileless creatures often doomed—nay, not doomed—so blessed, I should have said, as to live for the good of others. Her bright face has grown thin and pale with suffering, but there is a sweeter smile on it than ever, and when Jenny carries her in his arms, as he does every Sabbath, to the village church, she tells how glad she is for the accident which has crippled her, because it has given her such a dear resting place—Molly will probably never be straight again, perhaps she never will walk, but she smiles at the prospect, and talks cheerfully of the wings which will be given her in Heaven.
Dick Holman, alarmed by some rather hostile demonstrations on the part of Felix Graw and a few other determined spirits of the neighborhood, disappeared from among us on the day he was set at liberty, and has never since honored Alderbrook with his presence.

AGRICULTURAL.
METHOD OF OBTAINING LARGE AND FAIR FRUIT.
It is said that a gentleman who has, during the last year, exported apples to London, to be retailed at a shilling sterling apiece, has obtained fruit of the largest dimensions and finest quality by the following method: In the first place, he takes particular care to keep his apple trees free of all worms, caterpillars, and other destructive insects; after having bestowed them in suitable soil and reared them according to the most approved method of cultivation.
After the apples are set, as they are coming to maturity, he judges whether they are too numerous for the capacity of the tree to bring to maturity, or for its branches to sustain, should the fruit come to its usual growth. If so, by means of high step-ladders, constructed so as to sustain a person among the higher and lower branches of the tree, without at all depending on the body or branches, he causes the surplus to be carefully picked off, selecting the most unlikely specimens and from those parts of the tree where diminutive fruit is usually found.
But whether the number of apples on the tree be few or many, he in no case, permits a blasted, gnarly or wormy specimen to remain; believing that their being severed will leave more of the energy of vegetation and production, to be afforded by the parent tree to the remaining fruit.
This is the principle involved in his method, which, by his experience he has found to be entirely successful, premising always, that his orchard has been grafted with the largest and most delicious fruit.
There is reason in the theory that decayed or unpromising fruit, when left on the tree, robs the fairer specimens of nourishment that they would otherwise claim, and, hence, diminishes the size and quality of the latter.
It is true of animal life, and why not of vegetable! that the sources of depletion being removed, the strength and vital energy of the primitive system is promoted.
A friend of ours has experimented on the same principle, to improve the size and quality of grapes. The luxuriant vines which shoot beyond the settings of the grapes, exhaust the energy of the parent vine, and diminish the size and quality of the fruit. His remedy is, carefully to pick off those verdant shoots before they have robbed the fruit of the nourishment required to bring it to maturity.—N. Y. Farmer & Mechanic.

FACTS IN WHEAT CULTURE.—Mr. Noble, of Delaware, has tried the relative advantages of planting wheat in drills nine inches apart, and sowing it broadcast in the usual way. The soil and preparation in other respects were precisely alike. The result was 34 bushels on the sown land, and 43 on the drilled.

YARROW FARMING.—The largest farm in Yarrows is said to be that of Judge Merch, at the distance of eight miles south of Burlington. A correspondent who has been over it, says this year he will give about 400 acres and cut 1000 tons of hay. It is a large sheep farm, and has now over 400 head of most cattle. A few days ago he sold his sheep for a sum of $2400. He has also sold his cows for a sum of 1000 bushels of rye.

A Commentary for the People.
NOW publishing, the ECCLESIASTIC COM-MENTARY on the Bible, from the works of Henry and Scott, and about one hundred other writers. The work is printed on fine paper, and with large clear type. It will be completed in 24 parts; 80 pages each, imperial 8vo, all of which are now ready. It will be beautifully illustrated by accurate views of scriptural scenes, designed expressly to embellish a Commentary, and executed by the most eminent artists. Tables and charts are likewise added, where necessary for purposes of illustration, and the whole comprising as valuable a series of illustrative engravings and embellishments, as has ever been noticed in any similar work. It may be used with any edition of the Bible. Will be published semi-monthly at 25 cts each.

The design of the Committee of the London Tract Society, under whose supervision the English work was prepared, has been to cover that ground where all evangelical denominations meet, and to make a practical exposition of religious truth and duty.

This work is based upon the commentaries of Henry and Scott, and more than a hundred other writers; the various departments of Biblical literature; the most important objects of which these eminent divines being quoted, constituting a digest of the most valuable results at which the learned men of all ages have arrived, in their critical and exegetical studies. Reference has been had to the works of Sunday School teachers, and of families engaged in the systematic study of the scriptures.

Perhaps there never was a juncture of time when true religion more greatly needed, and more generally required, such a Commentary as this.
The only aim of the present work is to present to the people, every conscientious guardian of a household, every anxious parent, master and protector, to be provided with the antidotes to the poison, which is so unaccountably scattered throughout the world, and which is the cause of all the misery and suffering which afflict the human race.

The object of the compilers has been to provide a commentary compact in size, moderate in price, and suited to Christians of every station, rank and denomination.

The fact is, that in this work, the Bible is presented in a plain, simple, and practical manner, of more value than gold.
The republication is a great undertaking, and we hope it will receive an adequate support.—N. Y. Obituary.
