

AGRICULTURAL.

THE CULTURE OF THE GRAPE.
The following remarks of Dr. Underhill, a successful cultivator in the vicinity of New York, were made at a meeting of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute, and we have taken them from the "Farmer and Mechanic":

"The grape is most delicious, most salutary—diluting the blood and causing it to flow easily through the veins; there is nothing equal to it for old age. In this country it is used to grow—will increase till its consumption is prodigious. It will supplant some of the articles which destroy me, and establish the cheerful body in place of the diseased system of the temperate. No disease of the liver—no dyspepsia are found among those who freely use the grape. This remarkable fact is stated in reference to the vineyard portions of France. Persons who are sickly in grape countries are made well when grapes are ripe. And this result is familiarly called the grape cure. In this country, our attention has been long misdirected. We have spent years and sums of money on imported vines. We have proved the fallacy of all this. The foreign grape will not flourish in our open air. I suppose that millions of dollars have been lost on these foreign vines during the past century. Climate has settled that question. Our extremes of heat and cold are incompatible with the character of the foreign vine. Time will show that our native stock of grapes will, by cultivation, gradually improve in quality. It is with them as it is with animals—great amelioration follows care and proper knowledge. I spent some thousands of dollars on the foreign grape vines without success. In 1830 France produced fourteen thousand millions of pounds of grapes! Two thousand million pounds of which were consumed on the tables and exported in the form of raisins, &c. We want to supply our twenty millions of people with fine grapes. Are you afraid that our market will be overstocked from the few vineyards which we have? There are many books on the culture of the grape vine, but their doctrines are generally not at all applicable to our country. Europe has the moisture from the ocean; we have the dry winds blowing over our continent. More hot penetrates our ground in one of our hot, bright days, than England has in a week. The books of Europe are an honor and an ornament to the world, but they lead us from the truth frequently; such is the great difference of the climates of Europe and America. We must here select our best native grapes; there are many of which we have now proved the Isabella and Catawba to be excellent. Plant vines on deep, dry soil, where there are no springs of water or salty, calcareous, or other soils, but the dryer they are, the better for the grape. A soil of brick clay will not do. The roots must be deep to avoid our severe droughts. Plow the ground exceedingly deep before you plant your vineyard. I have found that in seven years' culture, the savage part of my Isabella has vanished. Its character is greatly changed for the better—its pulp is almost gone, its seeds are less. The culture of the grape has one great and eminent advantage over all other crops: if you plant it well, you will get an increasing crop for twenty-five years; and every year, with rare exceptions, for fifty or seventy-five years, a good crop. Vines will sometimes live a hundred years; and from our native vines you can have double the quantity which is obtained from a vine in Europe, where it has, from ages of short pruning, become enfeebled and attained its perfection. We do not let the vine bear half as many grapes as they would if they were left on. Thin them out well—you will have richer and better fruit. In pruning I don't spur them. I cut away the old, and bring the new to bear. Ninety out of twenty persons spur their vines in this city, leaving two eyes on. I keep my vines about six feet in height for convenience in gathering the clusters of fruit. All kinds of animal substances are good for our vines. Street manure is excellent for them. They ought not, however, to be stimulated too highly, for then they become profuse in foliage, and the fruit mildew and rots. An even, regular growth ought to be kept up. Rotten sods mixed with barnyard manure is good for vines. Bear in mind, is good. Long Island might, by means of the fish called Manhadan, be made a beautiful vineyard. Take the fish in June, make a hole near the root with a crowbar, push down the fish; there will be no smell from it, and it is an admirable manure for grapes. Compost of seaweed, black earth, and cow and horse dung, are good. Ashes are excellent on sandy lands, where their phosphates are leached off by rains. From March. They bleed, and my bleeding vines present a magnificent spectacle in the rays of the sun. Strict bleeding does not hurt them—the bud starts the better for it. The Germans say, 'if the juice runs out of the vines, we know we shall have a good crop.' In France and Italy, however, they do not prune so as to bleed them.

"Minerals for vines.—The American Farmer describes the following: 'When your vines are sick, and you know not of what it is, burn a quart of corn, first dried in the sun, and then rolled in sulphur. This is one of the best remedies for the disease and restores the vines to health.'"

Stanton's External Remedy, CALLED HUNT'S LINIMENT.
THIS now universally acknowledged to be the INFALLIBLE REMEDY for Rheumatism, spinal affections, contractions of the muscles, sore throat and quinsy, issues, old ulcers, pains in the back and chest, age in the breast and face, tooth aches, sprains, bruises, salt rheum, burns, croup, cough, and all nervous diseases. The celebrated success which has attended the application of this most wonderful medicine in curing the most severe cases of the different diseases above named, and the high economy that have been bestowed upon it, wherever it has been introduced, give me the right to call on the afflicted to resort at once to the only remedy that can be relied on.
The faculty unite in recommending the celebrated External Remedy, Hunt's Liniment: The following letters from my eminent Physician, the best Liniment now in use, is prepared by Mr. George E. Stanton. Knowing its composition, and having frequently used it, I can recommend it to you as a safe External Remedy, and, in my opinion, the best Liniment now in use.
Very truly and respectfully yours,
A. K. HOFFMAN.
Col. Pierre Van Cortlandt, Gteton Manor.
I fully concur in the above opinion.
W. N. BELCHER, YORKTOWN, JANUARY 14, 1845.
Sir—In reply to your letter I would say that I have used your External Remedy, called Hunt's Liniment, in my practice since you made me acquainted with its composition and substance, and I can say that I believe it to be the best External Remedy now in use for the complaints for which you recommend it.
Yours respectfully,
BENJ. D. MILLER, M. D.

ROSS' EXPECTORANT
For Consumption, Cough, Cold, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Spitting of Blood, Sore Throat, Pains and Oppressions of the Breast, Difficulty of Breathing, and all other Diseases of the PULMONARY ORGANS!
Read the following Certificate of Cure performed by the use of ROSS' EXPECTORANT and say if you will longer neglect your cough, or doubt its efficacy.
Baltimore, March 10, 1847.
Mr. Jas. F. Ross.
Dear Sir—About three weeks ago my wife caught a severe cold, which troubled her a good deal and gave her great uneasiness; she prepared a great many articles which were recommended to her by her friends, but without receiving the benefit from any of them. Her cough was getting worse every day; her appetite was fast falling and she slept very little; the pains in her breast and side became so severe that she could not get up, and my friends advised me to call in a Physician. I thought I would call on the store where you were engaged and see if I could not get something that would relieve her, when you gave me a bottle of your Expectorant, assuring me that it would cure her, she commenced taking it that night, but, however, without great opposition on the part of some of her friends, who said it was only some "Quack Medicine," and would do her more harm than good. But determined to take your advice, and not let all know the Result! From taking the first dose she felt easier, though unable to sleep on account of the quantity of phlegm that loosened and would almost choke her, but which she could not spit up, but little difficulty, the following day she continued it according to the directions, and that time, for the first time for nearly two weeks, she enjoyed a good night's rest and by the time she had finished the first bottle, she was entirely cured. Make what use of this you think proper, for such an invaluable medicine should be made known to the afflicted every where. With best wishes for your success.
I remain yours, &c.

Compound Medicated Candy.
FOR the Cure of Colds, Coughs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Pains and Oppressions of the Breast, and all other Pulmonary complaints, and other diseases which have a tendency to produce Consumption. It serves also as an effectual clearing of the voice.
This Candy is entirely a vegetable preparation, the principal ingredients being: Horehound, Wild Cherry, Sarsaparilla, Boneseed, Elecampane, Licorice, Flaxseed, Iceland Moss, Prickly Ash, &c. and will, if taken in time, relieve the system from those distressing affections that tend to Consumption.
One great advantage in this valuable medicine is its cheapness, the public not being imposed upon by the enormously high prices which are generally exacted for Patent and other medical Preparations. Each package contains directions. Call and try it!
Prepared and sold at the Confection and Variety Store of the Subscriber in West York street, one square from the Court-house, and next door to Thompson's Hotel. It can also be had at the Drug Stores of S. H. BUEHLER, and S. FORNEY.
The Subscriber as usual continues his Bakery, and is prepared to supply parties at the shortest notice, with choice cakes, &c.

SCHEPTICISM CONFUTED.
More facts in relation to the wonderful efficacy of THOMPSON'S Compound Syrup of Tar & Wood Naphtha, the BEST REMEDY of the day for CONSUMPTION, Asthma, Coughs, Colic, Liver Complaint, &c., &c.
I read the following from Mr. Sharp, a well known and highly respectable citizen of the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia City. This is a true and correct copy of a record, and will be seen, as attested by the Rev. Mr. Starns, and by other citizens of that district.
PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 11, 1847.
Near the close of the year 1845, I had an attack of the Pleurisy and white covering from it, took a severe cold. My condition soon became alarming and I grew gradually worse and worse. The symptoms manifested by my disease were those of a pleurisy, attended with a cough, but none of the ordinary kind, and a very peculiar character. For a long period I expectorated a great quantity of matter, which appeared a mixture of pus and blood—at times it seemed as if I was discharging a very acrid matter from the Lung. My voice was gone so as to be unable to utter a few words without great difficulty, and I experienced a thousand other painful sensations that cannot be told. One of the most unpleasant attendants of my disease was the constant and violent perspiration ran from me continually, not only at night, but also during the day so as to keep my cloths at all times continually wet.
I employed every means of cure I could hear of, but all failed, and I was at length induced to consult a Physician. But the obstinacy of my disease baffled all their efforts. They indeed raised me from my bed, but they also pronounced me incurable. The last Physician attending me, told me at one time that I had but a few days to live—and another time I might linger on for several months, but that it was utterly impossible that I could get well, or ever be able to attend to my business. I was in the prospect of recovery I lingered on during the greater part of the year 1846—for three months of which period my friends sat up with me, expecting every night to see my sufferings end in death.
But I had a lady residing in Southwest, who had been cured of somewhat similar sufferings by "Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar and Naphtha," came and urged upon me a trial of it. Almost despairing of any relief, and with no hope of recovery, I gave it a trial, and to my satisfaction in being able to state that I am now well, and I attribute my restoration entirely to the wonderful efficacy of the above medicine.
From the time I commenced its use, the distressing cough, the pain in my chest, and the steady perseverance in its employment I may say it has raised me from the grave. All unpleasant symptoms have vanished and I have for several months attended to my business as formerly, and (except some less degree of strength than I once possessed), as well as ever.
People come from various places to see me, inquiring for the man cured of Consumption! Those who have known me, and are well acquainted with my long continued afflictions, and who witness the change wrought by the use of the above medicine.

DYSPEPSIA,
And all Diseases of the Stomach and Intestines.
DYSPEPSIA, or Indigestion and its consequences.—An eminent Professor says: "It chiefly arises in persons who lead a very sedentary or irregular life. Although not regarded as a fatal disease, yet, if neglected, it may bring on severe Melancholy, Jaundice, Madness, or Vertigo, Palsy, and Apoplexy. A great singularity attendant on it is, that it may often cease continue a great length of time without any remission of the symptoms."
CAUSES.—Grief and uneasiness of mind, intense study, profuse evacuations, excess in venery, excessive use of spirituous liquors, tea, tobacco, opium and other narcotics, immoderate recreation, over-dilatation of the stomach, deficiency in the secretion of the bile or gastric juice, exposure to cold and damp air, are the chief causes of this disease.
SYMPTOMS.—Loss of appetite, nausea, heart-burn, acidity and flatulencies, gnawing of the stomach when empty, uneasiness in the throat pain in the side, costiveness, chilliness, languor, loss of spirits, palpitations, and disturbed sleep.
TREATMENT.—DR. ALLEN'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND has never failed in affording immediate relief and a radical cure for this disease.

SCHEPTICISM CONFUTED.
More facts in relation to the wonderful efficacy of THOMPSON'S Compound Syrup of Tar & Wood Naphtha, the BEST REMEDY of the day for CONSUMPTION, Asthma, Coughs, Colic, Liver Complaint, &c., &c.
I read the following from Mr. Sharp, a well known and highly respectable citizen of the Northern Liberties, Philadelphia City. This is a true and correct copy of a record, and will be seen, as attested by the Rev. Mr. Starns, and by other citizens of that district.
PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 11, 1847.
Near the close of the year 1845, I had an attack of the Pleurisy and white covering from it, took a severe cold. My condition soon became alarming and I grew gradually worse and worse. The symptoms manifested by my disease were those of a pleurisy, attended with a cough, but none of the ordinary kind, and a very peculiar character. For a long period I expectorated a great quantity of matter, which appeared a mixture of pus and blood—at times it seemed as if I was discharging a very acrid matter from the Lung. My voice was gone so as to be unable to utter a few words without great difficulty, and I experienced a thousand other painful sensations that cannot be told. One of the most unpleasant attendants of my disease was the constant and violent perspiration ran from me continually, not only at night, but also during the day so as to keep my cloths at all times continually wet.
I employed every means of cure I could hear of, but all failed, and I was at length induced to consult a Physician. But the obstinacy of my disease baffled all their efforts. They indeed raised me from my bed, but they also pronounced me incurable. The last Physician attending me, told me at one time that I had but a few days to live—and another time I might linger on for several months, but that it was utterly impossible that I could get well, or ever be able to attend to my business. I was in the prospect of recovery I lingered on during the greater part of the year 1846—for three months of which period my friends sat up with me, expecting every night to see my sufferings end in death.
But I had a lady residing in Southwest, who had been cured of somewhat similar sufferings by "Thompson's Compound Syrup of Tar and Naphtha," came and urged upon me a trial of it. Almost despairing of any relief, and with no hope of recovery, I gave it a trial, and to my satisfaction in being able to state that I am now well, and I attribute my restoration entirely to the wonderful efficacy of the above medicine.
From the time I commenced its use, the distressing cough, the pain in my chest, and the steady perseverance in its employment I may say it has raised me from the grave. All unpleasant symptoms have vanished and I have for several months attended to my business as formerly, and (except some less degree of strength than I once possessed), as well as ever.
People come from various places to see me, inquiring for the man cured of Consumption! Those who have known me, and are well acquainted with my long continued afflictions, and who witness the change wrought by the use of the above medicine.

Mr. Jas. F. Ross.
Dear Sir—About three weeks ago my wife caught a severe cold, which troubled her a good deal and gave her great uneasiness; she prepared a great many articles which were recommended to her by her friends, but without receiving the benefit from any of them. Her cough was getting worse every day; her appetite was fast falling and she slept very little; the pains in her breast and side became so severe that she could not get up, and my friends advised me to call in a Physician. I thought I would call on the store where you were engaged and see if I could not get something that would relieve her, when you gave me a bottle of your Expectorant, assuring me that it would cure her, she commenced taking it that night, but, however, without great opposition on the part of some of her friends, who said it was only some "Quack Medicine," and would do her more harm than good. But determined to take your advice, and not let all know the Result! From taking the first dose she felt easier, though unable to sleep on account of the quantity of phlegm that loosened and would almost choke her, but which she could not spit up, but little difficulty, the following day she continued it according to the directions, and that time, for the first time for nearly two weeks, she enjoyed a good night's rest and by the time she had finished the first bottle, she was entirely cured. Make what use of this you think proper, for such an invaluable medicine should be made known to the afflicted every where. With best wishes for your success.
I remain yours, &c.

Dr. W. Applon's Celebrated Remedy FOR DEAFNESS,
TAINS in, and discharges of matter from the ear together with all other unpleasant symptoms, which attend the deafness, and all other approaching Deafness. This invaluable medicine is the result of a long and faithfully pursued course of experiments, instituted with the sole view to discover (if possible) the cause, and, at the same time, a safe remedy for the cure of the disease, and after being extensively used in the private practice of the subscriber during the last eight years, in very numerous cases with the most remarkable success by now offered to the public for the benefit of those who, from distance or other causes, cannot have the personal attention of the proprietor, in the fullest confidence of its efficacy, and in the firm belief that it will not disappoint the expectations of those who are desirous to be cured for its use; in short, that it is the most VALUABLE article ever offered to the public for this disease.
