

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION. 13 Days Later Intelligence. ESTABLISHMENT OF A REPUBLIC. Overthrow of the House of Peers and the Dictatorship—Recognition of the Great Britain—Provisional Government.

the government. Strikes of workmen are becoming more numerous daily; opera- tions demand an increase of wages, and the public feeling is becoming more and more republican. In Ireland no breach of the peace has occurred since the 10th of the English month. The press, which has been a constant portion of the press, which has been anything without reflection, has not been so. We have no apprehension of any serious disturbance of the public peace throughout the Kingdom. The press, which has been a constant portion of the press, which has been anything without reflection, has not been so.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR. HOSTILITIES SUSPENDED. The steamship Massachusetts, and the ship Yarn, arrived at New Orleans from Vera Cruz, the latter bringing dates to the 12th inst. An American has been killed by which it is reported that the British troops occupy a part of the country not only in their possession; the collection of taxes and the carrying on of the ordinary business of the country, and the carrying on of the ordinary business of the country, and the carrying on of the ordinary business of the country.
