SPAIN.—Private letters have been received from Madrid announcing the promotion of 134 officers. These were granted by Gen. Espartero, in the latter part of his regency. The act has been suspended by the Spanish government. This measure it is believed will impart additional strength to Gen. Narvez against his insurgents.

Company organisators, composed of the flower of each State's population, are pouring in through this golden gate of California, and we have already as large a share of intelligence and capability, truly American, as many of the States of the Atlantic side.—Ita Californian.

Families, consisting for the most part of females and the children of the respectable working classes of Europe, were arriving daily, in large numbers, at the embarcadero and landing. The emigration from China is already extensive—about seventy day large ships-load of these industrious people were being landed, and immediately caught up by merchants and operatives of every class.

The number of arrivals in California, from Europe and the United States, was progressing with much spirit. There were at least 100 British vessels in the harbour of San Francisco on the 1st of November.

The town of San Francisco numbered in population 20,000, and the inhabitants per of persons at the mines is confidently set down at 80,000.

A letter in the Tribune announces the arrival at San Diego of the remainder of Capt. Webb's unfortunate party, who went through Texas. They were under the command of Mr. Audabyn and had suffered a great deal. Another portion of this company, under Mr. Sloat, had also arrived.

Capt. Herman Thorn, U. S. A., commanding the escort of U. S. troops, accompanying Col. Collier, was accidentally drowned, with two dragoons, while crossing the Rio Colorado.

Brevet Capt. Wozet, of the topographical corps, left Los Angeles on the 27th of September with a party of eight, for a route to Oregon, near the head waters of the Sacramento. Capt. Wozet had been murdered on them, killing Capt. Warner and two of his men.

Gen. Riley was offered to the Convention to frame a constitution, on the 3d of October, prohibiting the introduction of free negroes into California, and, after a debate, it was rejected by a vote of 21 to 8.

Speculators were in the market before the sailing of the Crescent City, to buy up all the flour sufficient, at immense heavy prices. The calculations of profits are based upon the flat, that the flour will be scarce in January and June last, the exportations from the United States were limited, and hence an increase in prices.

THE NEW STATE.—The latest papers from California announce the election of the nominations, put forth in the Southern style, by cards.

For Governor—Col. Wm. M. Stewart; Winfield Scott Sherwood; Peter H. Burnet.

For Congress—Rodman M. Price, Geo. W. Wright, Peter Halsted.

The convention for forming a State Constitution had commenced its labors, and was to be adjourned. The constitution is to be submitted to the vote of the people on the first Monday in April.

The first article contains the bill of rights, the 18th section of which is as follows:

"Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, unless for the punishment of crime, shall ever be tolerated in this State."

The second article treats of the right of suffrage, which is accorded to every white male citizen of the United States and of Mexico, who shall have resided six months in the district thirty days.

Breadstuffs and provisions have risen with quite a rush till 100 per cent., and the market is quite bare.

MEXICAN RETURNMANTS.—Passengers sufficient to fill the next two steamers, besides several large sailing vessels, were awaiting passage on the departure of the Californias. The discouraging reports brought by the California's passengers, with the more undeniable evidence in the haggard looks and wasted frames of many unfortunates, has induced many on the Isthmus to take their return. The Panama passengers return on the Crescent City and Ohio.

FOREIGN FLAGS IN THE HARBOR.—The following flags were flying in the harbor of San Francisco: English, French, Spanish, portuguese, Italian, Austrian, Prussian, Belgian, New Grenadian, Dutch, Swedish, Oldenburg, Chilian, Peruvian, Sardinian, Mexican, Ecuadorian, Hanseatic, Norwegian, Hawaiin, Tahitian.

POPULATION OF CALIFORNIA.—The Alta California of Nov. 1, says:

The political fires which have slumbered for a long period past in this city, are now at last, with the character of the inhabitants, the nature of their occupation and the immediate requirement of California, amount was to take up two notes and cancel a mortgage. The Parkman gave up the notes, had not the money to meet with him. He, however, said he would go and get it. The Professor refused to let him stir says, took place at the counter in his lecture room, and that Dr. Parkman left the room through the door near the main entrance to the building.

As early last week as Tuesday, Professor Webster's apartments in the College were searched by the officers of the police, and nothing was then found furnishing the slightest clue to the murder disappearance. The suspicione, however, seemed still to increase, that Dr. Parkman had never quitted the college buildings.

LIZZ AT SAN FRANCISCO.—An Olympic circus, on a very handsome scale, is in full operation, and a company of Ethiopian Serenaders amuse the public nightly. "Dishonico's" is the fashionable eating house, where you can get breakfast for 75 cents, lunch, and dinner 81 50 to 85, according to your appetite. A little smaller sized repast is furnished at the "Irving House." A number of fine billiard rooms and bowling alleys have been opened, and all subscribers for spending money have found it to successful operation. The gamblers complain no longer of dull prospects.—There are hundreds of them in the city, and faro tables, which are crowded nightly until a late hour, and where the most investments are carried on among the officers of the army and the community.

Santa California, of the 1st November, says that the health of the mining community was never better than at that time. The sickly season had passed, and the best of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys had greatly abated. Winter quarters were spoken of, and a temporary home will be the choice of nearly all now engaged in mining.

FINANCE.—During the month of October the arrivals at San Francisco, by sea, were as follows:

THE BOSTON TRAGEDY.

Supposed Murder of Dr. Parkman. Arrest of Prof. Webster.

The astounding disclosures relative to the mysterious disappearance of Dr. GEO. PARKMAN, which have just been made in Boston, have fallen like a thunderbolt upon that city, and produced a universal sensation of horror and consternation. In the present intensely excited state of public opinion, it is impossible to obtain an accurate knowledge of all the facts, but with such information as we can gather from the Boston papers of Saturday, we will present a brief history of the deplorable tragedy from its commencement.

The absence of Dr. Parkman from his family, which took place on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 23, soon began to awaken uneasiness among his friends. After making every suitable inquiry, no trace of him could be discovered, subsequent to the hour of eleven on the day of his disappearance. The whole Police force of Boston were put in requisition, and every measure adopted that could be devised by their sagacious and energetic Marshal Tukey, for bringing the lurking assassin to justice. The brother-in-law of Dr. Parkman, Mr. R. G. Shaw, the head of the distinguished mercantile house of Shaw & Shurtleff, offered a reward of $3,000 for any information which would lead to his discovery, or if any injury had been done to him, for the conviction of the perpetrators. This was without effect, and on the next Thursday, Nov. 29, Thanksgiving day, the Mayor issued another notice, stating that fears were entertained that Dr. Parkman had been murdered, and that $1,000 would be paid for the rec very of his body.

Meantime various rumors were put in circulation, announcing that various persons had been seen in peculiar circumstances, which led to the hope that some light might be thrown on the mysterious disappearance. It was stated that Dr. Parkman had been seen in Cambridge st.—that a stranger, an individual calling himself a sailor from Boston had accosted a couple of gentlemen who were riding in a carriage on the Salem turnpike, requesting to be taken up—that a man had been found wandering in the woods at Bridgewater, and conveyed to the house taken by the Harlem police at Manhasianville.—On examination these rumors proved to be without foundation or relating to some other person. On Thursday a report that a man had been seen bearing a heavy burden in the direction of Charles River Bridge, at a very early hour on Saturday morning, under circumstances that induced the belief that it might be the body of dead body, which he afterward threw into the stream, led to a general search in that direction. The river was dragged to a considerable extent in the vicinity of the bridge, but nothing discovered.

It was not until last Friday that any clue to the mystery was obtained, when the horrible and heart-rending facts, which we have already published, led to the arrest of Dr. John W. Webster, as implicated in a deed which staggers the imagination, and which no one can associate with the name of the accused, except on such proofs as can by no possibility be explained away.

The Boston papers of Monday, we find additional intelligence in reference to the terrible developments which have caused so much excitement in that city. The following summary from the Atlas is clear and comprehensive:

In the early part of the month of November, Dr. George Parkman called at Prof. Webster's lecture room, in the Medical College in north Grove street while the professor was engaged in delivering a lecture before the students, and he waited until the lecture was over and all the students had all left. He then asked Prof. Webster for the money due him, and after some conversation, in which both parties were excited, Professor Webster desired him to call again until the 23d of November, as the tickets for the lectures, engaged by the students had not been sold for, but would in all probability be by that time. Dr. Parkman, it is stated, left the building a good deal excited, on Saturday afternoon, November 22d. Dr. Parkman called at the residence of Prof. Webster, in Cambridge, who being absent, he left word with his wife that he wished to have her husband call at his (Dr. Parkman's) house on Friday morning, Friday morning Nov. 23, the day after, about 9 o'clock, Prof. Webster called at Dr. Parkman's house, but Mr. Parkman was not there, having gone out. He left word for him that he would pay him if he would call at his room in the College room at 1 o'clock. At 1 o'clock, Dr. Parkman, Prof. Webster states, called at the Medical College about 1 o'clock, and was paid by him (Webster) the sum of $483, which

The Boston Tragedy.

We published last week to the sudden disappearance and probable murder of Dr. PARKMAN, of Boston. We have placed in another column a detailed account of the circumstances attending the disappearance and the discovery of his mutilated remains. The case is still under legal investigation, the Inquest of the Coroner sitting with closed doors, which renders it almost impossible to reach the exact truth in the midst of the mass of conflicting statements and rumors which fill the press. For a few days every thing told terribly against Prof. WEBSTER as the probable murderer, and as each successive link of testimony seemed to weave around him an almost irresistible chain of circumstantial evidence, the popular mind yielded to the conviction of his guilt. A reaction, however, has taken place in his favor within the last day or two, as new facts have been developed, and at this present time the whole tragedy is involved in more mystery than ever. It is said that many of the circumstances which at first were said to tell so overwhelmingly against Prof. Webster have since been explained away. Thus it is affirmed that on the evening of the 23d, instead of being in the college all night, as Littlefield testifies, he was at a large party in the village of Cambridge, where he remained until a late hour, and was then accompanied to his own residence by one of his neighbors. The stains upon the door of his laboratory, which were said to have been caused by blood, are proven by microscopic examinations to be nothing but human juice, and the ominous spots upon the pantaloons found in his room have dwindled down into stains caused by the use of acids in his chemical experiments. Dr. Parkman pass over the bridge on the 23d, as by scientific tests found to consist of a mixture of lead and tin, instead of portions of the bottom, as was supposed. Even Dr. Parkman's watch is in session. The long tin box, which the Dr. had ordered about the time of the murder for the purpose of storing in the remains of the body, as it was supposed, dwindles down into a box nine inches long, and three or four inches wide, precisely such as had been frequently made for him, which were used in his chemical and anatomical experiments. The faggots carried to Dr. Webster's room by the Expressman, and which he is said to have himself carried to the room of Dr. Parkman, were trimmings of grape vines, sent there to have some chemical experiments performed with them, and which were carried by Dr. Webster, in the College, which were said to be inaccessible to any body but himself, were scarcely secured at all. In regard to the notes found at the laboratory, which were said to be those paid by Dr. Parkman on the morning of the 23d, it is affirmed that on the evening of the 23d, Dr. Webster called on Dr. Parkman, and took a seat in the carriage with them. A general conversation took place between the parties, in which the subject of the Dr. Parkman's disappearance was but slightly touched upon, and Prof. Webster said the family must be made easy. In answer to a question whether he had a receipt of the money, he said that he trusted to Dr. Parkman's honour for that. He then requested to see the faculty in relation to the regular lecture on Tuesday, which he should be unable to deliver in consequence of his absence. Yesterday he was quite calm, but said no thing.
