Old Memories ! old Memories!

What precious things they are!
How close they cling around the heart,
How dearly cherished there!
Mow often we will cast aside

The cup of promised bliss; And gladly turn the to the plat plat;

tio fraught with happiness.

Let offers boast of coming foys,"

And tell how brightly shine

Their hopes of future happiness.

Be Memory's pleasures mine.
I would not lose the consciousness

To weave the brightest web of bliss

Oh, how they stir the heart; How oft a smile will part the lips, How oft a tear will start.

As Memory, faithful to her trust,

Brings other beenes again,

Oh, who would lose the memory

Of childhood's early day; Would wipe a mother's tenderness

A father's care away; A dear, dear brother's earnest love,

The joyous friend of early years, When life was glad the while !

Through all our after years.

Around our pathway cast;

The unforgotten past.

Then unmolested let me dwell

From present scenes apart,

There's many a tressure garnered in

There's many a light from by gone days

Oh, who would roll the Lethean wave

A gentle sister's smile,

In all their very truthfulness

Of one good sction done,

That fancy ever spun;

OLD MEMORIES.

I had whilst in the city of Mexico seen several of the far famed Spanish bull fights. but the bulls were all so tame and small that I came away more inclined to call them "Call Killings," and with little inclination to see another; but being told that one of a different kind was take place in this City, and that several large and untained bulls had been engaged, to appear and delight the audience with their preformance,
I determined to visit once more the "Plaza de Torres." This is a large circular building enclosing a ring somewhat like those, of our Circuses, though from three to four times as large, and surrounded by a large platform on which are benches and chairs, enturiats and exotte him. This was quickrated at different prices, according as they may be upon the shady or sunny side of the arena, the shady side being divided off into rough boxes for the "damas" and "cab-alleros" at fifty cents a seat, the other for the "poblanos," at twenty five cents.
