

Facing the Music.
The Pennsylvania Patriot, "the organ of the State Administration, some time since, complained that the letter emanating from the State Temperance Committee was not addressed to Governor Bigler, in consequence of which no date for the office of Governor, was not sufficiently plain and explicit for Governor Bigler, to understand; and intimated that, therefore, the answer of his excellency was not satisfactory to the Convention at whose instance it was addressed.—

The Patriot proposed that other questions should have been submitted, and the Chairman of the Committee has accordingly taken the official action in his power, to meet the objection of the Governor, the following: We doubt not that the Governor will be able to understand the question, and we hope for the benefit of our temperance friends that the answer and the celebrated letter to Mr. Chapman may appear together. We will, however, be ready for the publication of both, when forthcoming:

To his Excellency, Mr. Bigler,
Dear Sir:—Yours, George Myers, Commissioner of the Patriotic Party, of the 26th inst., intimates that the cloudy and unsatisfactory letter which you sent to the Prohibition Convention, of the 7th June last, was the result of a misapprehension of the honest construction of questions submitted to your Excellency, by the interrogating Committee, of which I am the honor of being Chairman; and then proceeds:

"Instead of such nonsense as those questions, would not an honest inquiry have been made?"

"Or you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, and is now before the Senate or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Will you, if elected Governor, sign the bill?—and if so, what is the object of its passage by the Legislature?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the last session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?

THE STAR AND BANNER.
GETTYSBURG.

Friday Evening, Sept. 15, 1854.

White State Ticket.

GOVERNOR,
JAMES POLLACK, of Northumberland, CANAL COMMISSIONER,
GEORGE DAISIE, of Allegheny,
JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT,
DANIEL M. SMYTH, of Montgomery,

FOR CONGRESS,
DAVID F. ROBISON, of Franklin.

Whig County Ticket.

ASSISTANT,
JAMES L. NEELY,
SHERIFF,
MELVIN MINNICH,
PROTHONOTARY,
JOHN PICKING,
REGISTER AND RECORDER,
JACOB FULLWELL,
CLERK OF THE COURTS,
TOMAS COOPER,
COMMISSIONER,
ABEL T. WILSON,
DIRECTOR OF THE POOL,
JOHN HORNER,
CORONER,
ROBERT HORNER.

LARGE PEACE!—Mr. SAMUEL PARKER, of this place, the other day laid us one of the finest pieces of paper we have ever seen. It is from a tree in his garden, measuring nearly 11 inches in circumference, with over 1000 leaves, and entirely free from blemish.

It may be well, however, to have a brief resume of the argument as it now stands.

As to the "Compiler," it is repeated,

"Instead of such nonsense as those questions, would not an honest inquiry have been made?"

"Or you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquors, which passed the House of Representa"tives or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Will you, if elected Governor, sign the bill?—and if so, what is the object of its passage by the Legislature?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapprehended them."

"I might readily be satisfied that the administration is a pure, disinterested government when it admits that you alone of all the candidates interrogated, failed to understand the question."

"But I further, have an opportunity, through your official organ, that you do, give an opportunity to answer probatory interrogatories of the above character; and I trust you will be good enough to reply to the following questions:

"1. Do you believe that the bill to prohibit

"the sale and manufacture of intox-
icating liquors, which passed the House of Representatives, or both, at the first session of the Legislature, is Constitutional?"

"Had the questions been addressed in this plain, straightforward form, the candidates would have known what they had to do, and could have easily dodged the issue, and the people could not have misapp