

RAILROADS SHOWS GOOD RECORD Year Ending at Midnight Was Next to High Water Mark; December a Big Month

At midnight, last night, the Pennsylvania Railroad ended its second best year for freight movement recorded in seven years. Three trains passed Denholm, the point at which records are taken on the Middle Division, between 11 o'clock and midnight, brought the year's total car movement up to 2,162,465.

Table with 2 columns: Month, Car Movement. Rows for January through December.

The total movement for the present year, passing Denholm, shows that high tide was reached during January, when 155,535 cars were transported. The fewest number of cars were recorded in April, when the "commuters" dropped to 164,828 cars, nearly 30,000 less than the year's banner month.

Baldwin Plan Busy; Broke All Records

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—Showing a substantial increase in every department, the Baldwin Locomotive Works yesterday issued a report of the total number of locomotives built during the year 1913.

During the year 2,025 locomotives were constructed, as against 1,612 for 1912. Of this number built, 1,791 were steam locomotives and 234 electric locomotives. The product also included gasoline and compressed air locomotives.

Employees of the Pennsylvania Railroad throughout the entire system, found a New Year greeting from the general manager, J. Edgar Hoover, on the bulletin boards. It occasioned much favorable comment, and was as follows:

NEW LAWS BECOME EFFECTIVE TODAY

Magistrate in Fourth Ward For Six Years Handled Capitol Graft Cases

The Rev. Harvey Klaer was last night installed as pastor of Covenant Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Peffer streets.

The Rev. Frances H. Laird, pastor of Olivet Presbyterian Church, gave the charge of the congregation, and the Rev. C. J. Bosserman, a former pastor of Covenant, now in Cleveland, made the charge to the new pastor.

The Rev. Edwin McCord Mulock, who has resigned as pastor of Paxton Presbyterian Church, was dismissed from the Carlisle Presbytery to the Michigan Church, where he has been called.

D. P. Jerald, president of the Allison Hill Men's Christian Association, is going to reverse the usual order of evangelistic speaking at the next "Pleasant Sunday Afternoon" of the association.

A special New Year's service, for men only, will be held under the auspices of the Allison Hill Men's Christian Association, Second and Locust streets, Sunday afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock.

Preparatory services will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The holy communion will be observed next Sunday at the church.

YEAR JUST CLOSED BROUGHT BLESSINGS

sewer. Front street is paved after several years of bickering and argument. These improvements completed or started this year mean the expenditure of thousands of dollars.

Improvements that will not be started until next year, but which had their inception and final approval during the year just closed, include the improvement of the Pennsylvania Railroad; the concrete bridge over the Susquehanna planned by the Cumberland Valley Railroad; the passage of municipal loans which will give the city parks worth $100,000 more, a comfort station, more sewers and more paved streets, better fire equipment, and the rebuilding of worn-out bridges over the railroad tracks.

In transportation facilities the city has been benefited during the year. Trolley lines on Allison Hill have been completed so that more residents at the city's first and second streets are in close touch with the line. Rockville will have better service within a short time, and in a few months it is expected that the trolley station on the city's center may be better handled by running all cars in one direction in the Square.

The city was benefited by asking the Valley Traction company, the Crosier trolley company, to pay an adequate sum for entering the city. The increase totals $1,000 a year under the present conditions.

Recognition of the city as a railroad center of importance was shown this year when the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Philadelphia and Reading Railway made the city one of the new cities of ten days or given.

The Gettysburg anniversary celebration had its advertising effect on the city. Thousands of people from all over the country came to this city if they wanted to attend the big anniversary. A safety first and industrial exhibit held in this city through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, the Green Industry, brought big manufacturers and dealers from all over the East to this city, and gave Harrisburg favorable mention in all the industrial, trade and technical journals.

Board of Trade had a like effect, although probably in a more restricted sense. Thousands of the home folks were shown for the first time how productive their home city is.

Nearly two-thirds of the Eighth Ward section of the city to be included in the Capitol Park extension is in the hands of the Park Commission as the year closes.

Among the other real estate activities of the year were the erection of the new Mechanics Bank building, the new Reformed Church, the Green Street Church of God, the new Young Women's Christian Association building, the new Public Library, St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, and the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The year did not, however, bring forth several things the city wanted and wanted badly in the way of buildings. The much-needed new hotel proposition fell through at least for a time, and again the chance to build a new high school was made impossible at the last instant.

The community has been benefited in other things than the plain material way. There has been a social and moral change in the spirit of the city. A municipal Christmas tree drew the city together for the first time in its history on Christmas eve. An organization of the churches of the city in the fight for civic righteousness is forming as the year dies, hotels where the city flourished have been closed and other hotels are considering early closing, at night.

COMPLETE TIE-UP IN CAR SERVICE AT HAZLETON

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 1.—All traffic on the lines of the Lehigh Traction Company road was completely tied up today by a strike of the motormen and conductors following their inability to come to an agreement with the management on a new contract to take the place of the one expiring at midnight. No attempt is being made to run cars today. How the company is to fill its obligations on the carrying of mail to the nearby towns has not yet been announced.

IN JAIL SOON AFTER ROBBERY

Kittanning, Pa., Jan. 1.—Sixteen hours after he had been up and robbed Herbert John, station agent at the Pennsylvania Railroad, David McCollum, aged 2, of Wickbora, began to serve a five year sentence on charges of assault and battery with intent to kill, pointing fire arms, robbery, larceny, and carrying concealed weapons.

MUMMERS' PARADE IN QUAKER CITY GREATEST PAGEANT EVER WITNESSED

Philadelphia, Jan. 1.—Philadelphia's Ancient and Honorable Carnival of Pompous Majesty and Fun, the parade of Mummies, or "New Year's Shooters," was held today and surpassed all previous attempts to entertain the people on the first day of the New Year.

Ten thousand men in fancy and grotesque costumes, paraded over the principal streets while hundreds of thousands stood along the curb lines and applauded their favorites. No other city in the world has anything like Philadelphia's parade of Mummies. In the near division came the Princes of Bagdad, No. 77; Octarora Tribe, No. 91; of Red Men; Agoga Drum Corps and minstrels. Next were the Waunauwamus Tribe of Red Men, Alexander's Rattling Band. More than a thousand men were in line.

Next came other aids, Robert Buck, W. Orr, H. W. Brooks, James A. Gardner and George Shreffler, followed by the Shamrock Fire Company's Darktown Brigade and the Ninety-ninth Street Band. The parade was headed by the Princes of Bagdad, No. 77; Octarora Tribe, No. 91; of Red Men; Agoga Drum Corps and minstrels. Next were the Waunauwamus Tribe of Red Men, Alexander's Rattling Band. WELCOMED TO 1914 WAS ODDS ON WAR

Down in the foreign section of Steelton, in the lower part of South Third street, some foreigners celebrated the birth of the new year last night in a manner that will likely land some of them in jail.

Along about midnight a fusillade of shots, which, according to Kasimir Fossler, the interpreter, had one of the battles of the Balkan war beaten a mile for sleep, startled the residents from their sleep. The shooters, somehow or other, neglected to use blank cartridges. As a result many of the homes in South Third street this morning resembled a sieve.

Abram Barische, a merchant, 730 South Third street, appeared to Squire Gardner for redress. His house was shot full of holes. When the squire said he couldn't help him unless he knew the names of the shooters, Barische employed a detective.

With three serious charges against him, Peter Dalley, colored, will be given a hearing before Squire Gardner this evening. He is charged with carrying concealed deadly weapons and pointing firearms. These charges are the outgrowth of a little Christmas Eve shooting affray in "Georgetown," the lower end of Steelton, in which Joseph Lockward, colored, was shot in the right hip. Lockward is still in the Harrisburg Hospital.

AGAIN—STEVE LONGAR? Again Steve Longar, fugitive wife murderer, as has been heard from. This time Constable C. K. Weaver, of Dillsburg, is the man who knows where Steve is. He is hiding in a shanty in Grace street, Dillsburg—maybe. The Steelton police are thinking of sending someone up to Dillsburg to see whether it really is Steve.

MEN ATTACK WOMAN Four Hungarians, charged with felonious assault and battery on Mrs. Mary Steek, of Grace street, Dillsburg, were arrested by Detective James Haines, after the woman had called at the Squire's office and showed two badly cracked ribs and a badly bruised face. The foreigners also used a stove, pulled down a Christmas tree and tore up the furniture in general.
