Tinsmith Assists in Operation on Little Boy

Special to The Telegraph

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—Surgical skill was forced to give place to mechanical genius at the West Philadelphia Homeopathic Hospital last night when a tinsmith was called to perform an operation which puzzled the surgeons of the institution.

A toy locomotive which had ground into its mechanism the finger of 5-year-old Sidney Skillman was successfully cut to pieces by William McKenny, the tinsmith, which enabled the regular members of the staff to attend to the mangled finger.

Sidney was playing with the toy at his home, 1313 North Fifty-fourth street, when the accident occurred.

Foster, Eloper, Ready to Meet Girl's Fiance

Special to The Telegraph

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 12.—Joel M. Foster says he is ready to meet Horace Linderman, of Royersford, Pa., fiance of Delilah Bradley, with whom he eloped to this city.

When informed to-day Miss Bradley's father and Linderman were on their way to Mobile from Pemberton, N. J., Foster, who is a wealthy poultryman of Brown's Mills, N. J., arrested here on the charge of violating the white slave act in taking the Bradley girl from her home, said:

"If Linderman wants to kill me I will give him all the opportunity in the world to do so. You may say that, if it is necessary, I will send someone to him with the number of my room. People who do much talking about shooting are the very last to do any of it."

NEW HAVEN REORGANIZATION

By Associated Press

New York, Jan. 12.—Howard Elliott, chairman of the Board of Directors of the New Haven Railroad, returned from Washington this morning and went into conference with the road's attorneys on the subject of the agreement reached with Attorney General McReynolds for the dissolution and reorganization of the New Haven system.

In one corner the pilgrims waited; in another their families were showing the necessary credentials. Smilingly, the superintendent turned towards us.

"Do you see that post at the door way?" he questioned, and as we glanced at it, "Some call it the kissing-post. It is there that the long-separated families meet." And then agreement reached with Attorney General McReynolds for the dissolution and reorganization of the New Haven system.
