Pimples Will Not Be Pardoned

The Failure to Use Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a Proved Remedy For Pimples, Convicts You of Unpardonable Negligence

Pimples are an offense to others and a crime against yourself. People have only tolerated you because they considered the condition of your face to be a misfortune against which you had no remedy.

ALTOONA PAPER IS BOONING STUART

Tribune Declares That He is the Logical Candidate For the Governorship

Under the caption of "The Logical Candidate" the Altoona Tribune prints this editorial:

"In a recent editorial discussion of prospective Republican candidates for the office of Governor the Philadelphia Bulletin declares that two names are beginning steadily to come to the front over and above those of all other candidates who have been proposed or mentioned—Phlander C. Knox and Edwin S. Stuart."

"This statement gives the Tribune an opportunity to repeat what it has said upon various occasions during the past few months, that the one unassailable Republican candidate, the candidate with an impeccable record, would be former Governor Edwin S. Stuart.

"The people believed him. Nobody could look into his face, nobody could listen to his voice without the overwhelming conviction that here was a man and a statesman. The people believed him, we say, and they made him their Governor.

"During the four years in which Edwin S. Stuart was the chief servant of the people of Pennsylvania he performed his part with such clarity of vision, with such single-hearted devotion to the right, with such eminent ability that the mouth of criticism was shut.

"Edwin S. Stuart is an ideal citizen. He was a great Governor. He has a warm place in the affections of an overwhelming majority of his fellow-citizens.

"He has proved his worth by splendid achievement. Edwin S. Stuart is the logical Republican candidate. He must be persuaded to subordinate private inclination to public duty.

PUBLICITY THE BEST WEAPON IN VICE FIGHT

lowers, but poor leaders—effective as a rear guard, but worthless for scout duty. The judge has some favorable opportunities to excite a lethargic public conscience, but to avail himself of them is to earn a reputation as a sensationalist.

"When Virtue Sleeps Judge Carter, further along in his letter, after discussing the administration and enforcement of the law, says:

"In a state of political quietude with no pronounced pressure for law enforcement, the considerations that make for a course of conciliation toward influential lawlessness are irresistible. The primary responsibility for the inevitable result is that the surface is glossed over and that vice and crime flourish underneath.

"In the darkness of public indifference society has been corrupted; in the light of a awakened conscience she must be purified. Publicity is the remedy. Insistent, persistent, relentless publicity. Every soul that loves its fellow and hates the enemy of humankind should delve for the truth and proclaim it from the housetops.

"The Church should wake from her dreams of peace and enlist in the holy war. To free society from evil domination it is always necessary that the truth be made known. This was abundantly demonstrated in the campaign of publicity by paid newspaper advertising recently conducted in Atlanta, Ga.

"Upon the sheer reason of the thing, as well as from the results accomplished in Atlanta, I am persuaded that everything in the way of law enforcement and the suppression of legalized vice that is possible of accomplishment through human agency may reasonably be expected to result from the application of this one remedy—publicity. In it is the alchemy that will transmute the base metal of public indifference and official delinquency into the pure gold of active virtue and efficient public service."
