TRAINMEN WAITING FOR INCREASED PAY

Certain Points Misunderstood Will Be Adjusted in Conference

Trainmen on the Reading Railroad are waiting for the back pay due them under the increase granted by the board of arbitrators last Fall and effective October 1, 1913.

Following a conference yesterday, at Reading, it was announced that a final agreement between the company and the trainmen would not be reached before March 1, or a month later, perhaps.

Reading officials are anxious to reach a settlement as soon as possible but it will require a bit of time to compute the amounts due each man under the increase rate. The new scales will give the men special checks varying from $100 to $500 back pay.

It has been agreed by the company and men to refer the question of extra time in extension runs back to the arbitrators for an opinion. The engineers and firemen reached an agreement and received their extra pay some time ago.

Held Ticket Forty Years.—Passenger Conductor Harry Reigh, of Altoona, was considerably astonished when a passenger on his Pittsburgh Division train, an aged woman, handed him a ticket from Pittsburgh to Altoona issued forty years ago on February 27, 1874.

Reigh found it called for one first-class passage and accepted it as fare. It is in good condition, having evidently been carefully preserved by the owner.

Pays Back Stolen Money.—As a result of a recent revival in Williamsport, was considerably astonished when a passenger on his Pittsburgh Division train, an aged woman, handed him a ticket from Pittsburgh to Altoona issued forty years ago on February 27, 1874.

Reigh found it called for one first-class passage and accepted it as fare. It is in good condition, having evidently been carefully preserved by the owner.

I have wronged the Pennsylvania Railroad. Being convicted by the spirit of God, I want to restore that which I have robbed. In enclose $25. I know I am now clear and ready to meet God, the Searcher of all secrets. Be sure your sin will find you out."

Barclay on the Job.—Captain Paul L. Barclay, the new head of the Philadelphia division police department of the Pennsylvania Railroad, assumed his duties this morning. For the next few days he will be busy mapping out plans for his department. Captain Barclay comes to Harrisburg after a long experience with the Pinkerton detective agency.

VICE CAN BE ROOTED OUT, SAYS LECTURER

Washington Man With Decided Views on Social Problems Lectures Here Next Week

Popular lectures on moral and social reforms will be given next week, beginning Sunday, at the Curtin Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, by Dr. Henry N. Pringle, of Washington, D. C.

Commercialized vice in its various phases will be one of the problems treated by Dr. Pringle. Twelve years of practical experience as secretary of the Christian Civic League of Maine and prosecutor in hundreds of criminal cases have convinced Mr. Pringle that even a small majority of good and discreet citizens can check commercialized vice and lawlessness in any American town if tact, patience and a strong purpose are combined.

Among the subjects which Mr. Pringle will take up while here will be the war against alcohol, law and its enforcement, municipal problems, such as police and fire protection, traffic laws, housing conditions, pure foods, parks and similar subjects, gambling, election frauds, pugilism, bandit literature, vicious amusement resorts, and so on.

Mr. Pringle has about 2,000 photographs and stereoscopic slides which he will use to illustrate his lectures.

CAPITOL HILL NOTES

STEELTOWN WANT TOWNSHIP TO CARE FOR STREETS

Enhaul Citizens Will Request Commissioners to Take Over the Highways

At a meeting of the board of commissioners of Swatara township, at Enhaul, this evening, a committee representing the citizens of Enhaul will make an effort to have the township commissioners take over the streets of the town and make them public highways. Accompanying the petition, which has been signed by every property owner in the town, will be a map of the town drawn by Christian Hess, of Steelton, showing the location of each of the streets and their relation to the present public highways.

At the present time the streets of Enhaul are not public highways, being under the ownership of the individual property owners. It is in order to have the township care for the streets; that the property owners desire to have the streets located on the official map of the township as public highways.

INSTALL OFFICERS

Elaborate ceremonies marked the installation of the recently elected officers of Steelton Council, 933, Royal Arcanum, held in the Med Men's Hall, Second and Walnut streets, last evening. The meeting was an open meeting and the wives and friends of the members were present as guests.

The work of installing the officers was in charge of District Deputy John H. Pampall, of Harrisburg. Minutes of the ceremony of installation speeches were made by Attorney Geisenberger, of Lancaster, and other visiting lodge members. Supreme Regent Frank B. Wickert, who is a member of Steelton Council, was present but did not make a speech. An elaborate banquet followed the speeches and was served by H. H. Harlan, caterer.
