Daysey Mayme's Christmas

The customary Christmas gift for her is a dustless mop, and his lack sentiment excuses the absence of its tissue paper and red ribbon. If other doesn't fare better, she finds ristmas enough in the joy of the lidren.

There was a vacuum cleaner for Lynder John Appleton, a check for his fe, and everything for Daysey yme and Chauncey Devere that they disjinded for in six months previous. A boy's gratitude is always as cold a parents expected nothing from and looked for a gushing outburst in this they were disappointed, for ysey Mayme cast aside the diamond little from her father, the furs from the custom her father, the furs from the custom her father saw, and felt abused. But Daysey Mayme did not know nor care, for, oh, ecstatic bliss, she had received a gift from her heart's delight.

AM a Road; a good road, fair and smooth and broad; And I link with my beautiful tether Town and Country together, Like a ribbon rolled on the earth from the reel of God. Oh, great the life of a Road!

I am a Road; a long road, leading on and on;
And I cry to the world to follow,
Past meadow and hill and hollow.
Through desolate night to the open gates of dawn.
Oh, bold the life of a Road!

I am a Road; a kind road, shaped by strong hands,
I make strange cities neighbors;
The poor grow rich with my labors.
And beauty and comfort follow me through the lands,
Oh, glad the life of a Road!

I am a Road; a wise road, knowing all men's ways;
And I know how each heart reaches
For the things dear Nature teaches;
And I am the path that leads into green young Mays,
Oh, sweet the life of a Road!

I am a Road; and I speed away from the slums, Away from desolate places, Away from unused spaces; Wherever I go, there order from chaos comes. Oh, brave the life of a Road!

I am a Road; and I would make the whole world one.
I would give hope to duty,
And cover the earth with beauty.
Do you not see, oh men! how all this might be done
So vast the power of the Road!

It is the sentiment felt by thouses of women everywhere, and the stion is asked, "is there anything the will actually and in a short time duce the rose-like complexion which see in beautifully colored photophas?"

asked the same question of myself in eyears ago, and I confess that my y answer to it came after years of ing in an independent way to find myself the true solution. This answer was simple as well as naderful, so much so that it was one the things which inspired me to relate secret to as many women as uld care to adopt it.

Self-RTRUDE M.—I think hair on the lip, even fuzz, is hideous. Fuzz on the cheeks is just as bad. Never cut or shave it off. Almost anything hair in a few moments and leaving the skin soft and beautiful. It will cost you one dollar at the drug stores. You can use this on any part of the body. It never harms the most tender skin.

PHOEBE—You will probably be surprised to know that all black-

PHOEBE—You will probably be stuppersed to know that all black-heads, large and small, can be removed in a few minutes. Here is the method. After first washing the face, sprinkle some neroxin on a sponge, wet with hot water, and rub over the blackheads for a few minutes, then wash the face again. The blackheads will vanish. The neroxin can be procured for fifty cents at any drug store.

SEARCHER — Nine-tenths of the shampoos do not get the scurfy film off the scalp. You will never want a more thoroughly cleansing, luxurlous, lathery shampoo than by dissolving a teaspoonful of eggol in half a cup of water, rubbing well into the scalp and then rinsing the hair. Shampoos are necessary to hair health. The eggol wil cost not more than twenty five cents at drug stores, enough to give you at least twelve generous JULIANA—Certainly, even a woman of 45 may restore her bust development I can not too strongly recommend a mixture of a half a cup of sugar, two ounces of ruetone and half a plnt of hot water, taking of this, when cold, two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day after meals. It produces a girlish plumoness that nothing else can, and does it in a few weeks.

EVANGELINE T. C. — I am not surprised to learn that you have taken blood tonics for over a year trying to get rid of pimples. Drop them. Pimples and skin eruptions will all disappear if you will for a time take one or two teapoonfuls three or four times a day of a mixture of twelve ounces of sugar, one ounce of sarsene, and one-half pint of water. Get the sarsene, which is a liquid, in the original package by the ounce. You will positively get rid of your pimples.—Advertisement.

That was the real reason he never let go to the trust," the judge continued; "that and his regard for this community."

"It must be an immense fortune judge, isn't it?" asked Wallace. "The Consolidated people offered him twelve hundred thousand dollars for the plant and trade-mark." "Yes; we know that," said Jackson.

"Mallace means aside from the "Well," said the judge reflectively, "you see those trust fellows have been so anxious to get the Jones Gum that they've been making business pretty warm of late. They knew, for instance, that we had a fund for advertising and they killed that fund for us two years ago with one of their shrewd husiness tricks."

Wallace was interested. "How was that?"

"Well, they sent in such a demand on us that we added to the size of the plant and spent the money for machinery. We thought it was the public. We never realized that it was anything but a legitimate increase till the smash came. They quit all their fake orders. We went back to our normal business, laid off our extra force ard found ourselves with a lot of usefluous packing houses on our handsand no advertising done at all that year. Shrewd game, eh?"

"Can you beat that?" asked Jackson of his friend.

"Just shows you," Wallace answered, what chance a little fellow's got.' "None at all, unless he's got big capi-That would have ruined a small

"Josie? Does she know as much as that? What's her position in the fac-

"She's chief accountant, practically manager now. You remember her? Of course you do. She'll tell you all there is to tell," the judge explained, as Dave came with the cigars.

Their mere arrival made both visitors nervous, and when the judge pre-sented them to Broadway he was glad to find it reasonable to disclaim cigar-smoking entirely and light a cigarette.

Wallace had no such excuse. He had been smoking steadily since his arrival until within ten minutes. He never felt like thinking save when he was smoking and there would be much hard thinking to be done this evening. But to smoke one Jonesville perfecto

But to smoke one Jonesville perfecto would, he doubted not, end all thinking for all time, so he declared with fervor that he had, already, smoked as much that day as he was allowed to smoke by his physician.

The judge chuckled as he delved into the bundle of legal papers Sam had brought. Then: "Here it is. It's a long will. Take you quite a little while to read it. Better put it in your pocket and look it over when you go to the hotel. And this other stuff we'll go through later.

see who it is. Mom's making lemonade and Sam's practicing his banjo. Hear him?"

Broadway looked at Wallace with a shaking head while the judge was from the room. "You see? Nothing but the plant. I've got to sell all right."

Wallace nodded in slow affirmation.

"Yes, but not at their price. Didn't you hear? The plant showed a profit last year without any advertising? Heavens, man! Think of that! In these days!"

er came to see him; but he always figured that the plant and gum belonged to you. You didn't understand one and they'd have to know by Saturday noon."

"That's a bluff." Broadway looked at him reprovingly. "You don't seem to realize the enormity of the offense—I mean of the amount. it's twelve—hundred—thousand—dollars."

"I tell you to hold out."
"But I tell you I can't afford to hold

"Piano!" Wallace warned. "Mrs. S.

And indeed she entered with a tray on which there were a pitcher and two glasses. "Here's some nice, cold lemon-ade," she explained hospitably. Then: "Did the judge go to the door?" Broadway nodded.

She dropped her voice to a loud hisper. "I put a drop of whisky in the lemonade. The judge would have a fit if he should find it out. He's such temperance crank! But he'll not

A temperance crank! But he'll not know. He never will drink lemonade." Jackson smiled at her with full ap-preciation of this tribute to him. "I'll keep your guilty secret," he said sol-"With me it's sacred," Wallace promised her. She beamed on them and raised her "Well, if you want more just shout out.'

"I'm liable to shout most any minute," Broadway promised, though the thought of sweetened lemonade—he was intensely certain it was very highly sweetened—was distasteful in the last degree to him, even though there was a little whisky in it.

Mrs. Spotswood was distinctly nerv ous as the judge came back, which cheered the friends a little, for the judge had been distinctly nervous when he himself had produced whisky. But an instant later they were divert-ed from this train of thought by the judge's answer to his wife's inquiry as to who was at the door.

"Someone to see you, Broadway," He was amazed. "Someone to see

"I thought nobody knew you were in town," said Mrs. Spotswood, equally astonished. "Someone must have recognized you the street," said Wallace. "Lord!" cried Mrs. Spotswood. "That does settle it! Now the whole town will turn out!"

But the judge shook his head. "This man's a stranger. I told him you weren't here, but he said he knew better. He knows the time you left New York and all about it."

Broadway instantly considered Pem broke. "Was he a tall man with gray

"If you're thinking of Pembroke, it wasn't him," the judge replied. "I know him."

Wallace knit his brows. He was not pleased. "Who the deuce was it?"

Dainty women are always on the outlook for something new and pretty in the way of underwear. This combination garment is especially attractive and seems well suited to wear beneath the fashionable gowns. The short waisted brassiere is just slightly full and the drawers are finished just above the knees
so that there is ample freedom allowed.
The garment is especially attractive made up in crêpe de chine or the silk mull that so many women are wearing and, of course, is appropriate for lawn and batiste and the familiar fabrics. The trimming that is arranged to form points makes a pretty finish but, if a plainer garment is wanted, can be omitted or instead can be used

Lebanon Paying Interest on Loan Made Years Ago to Help Railroad Company

Lebanon, Pa., Jan. 25.—By a coincidence most remarkable the city of Lebanon is about to pay the final instalment on a $50,000 boost it gave the Philadelphia and Reading Railway many years ago just as the company is now refusing to allow citizens to walk over its private right of way and has compelled Lebanonites to seek redress at the hands of the Public Service Commission.

While older citizens know something of the circumstances in the case, the younger generation of taxpayers

While older citizens know something of the circumstances in the case, the younger generation of taxpayers will be surprised to learn that they have been paying interest for many years on a debt that was incurred in the effort to help the railroad company. When the road was projected there was some dispute as to what route the road should take, and the residents of that period, of course, made every endeavor to have the line pass through this section. In order to favorably impress the promoters many citizens subscribed for stock individually and the old borough council expressed its public spirit by voting $50,000 of the people's money at large for, the same purpose. A public loan was floated in the shape of bonds at $100 each. History records the fact that the road some years later went
