DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

Thousands Experience Bad After Effects From This Dangerous Drug

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity, when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening, griping salts, or castor oil, as you do when taking calomel. Try them. 10c. and 25c. per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. At all druggists.—Advertisement.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

Kept Her Locks Youthful, Dark, Glossy and Thick with Common Garden Sage and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wreth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.—Advertisement.

RIFLE PRACTICE

Trophies and Prizes Won by City Grays in Rifle Practice

In 1913 Co. D and Co. I Teams Won Regimental Matches and Corporal Gerdes Was High in National Contest at Camp Perry

The value of the individual soldier is determined largely by his effectiveness as a marksman and careful instruction in rifle practice, both indoors and on the outside range, such as always has been given in Company D and Company I tends to increase the proficiency and keep up the interest of the men in this most important qualification.

An expert rifle shot is not always the best soldier in other respects, but, as a rule, he is an excellent member. There are specialists in the soldiers' profession. Men take a liking to particular branches of training and become exceedingly proficient in certain work. But a company that can maintain a high figure of merit in rifle practice year after year generally has the military spirit in the make-up of its membership to develop thoroughly in all the other things that go to perfect an efficient organization.

Since the National Guard in Pennsylvania has been armed with the Springfield rifle, the rifles with which the National Guard of Pennsylvania has been armed were changed twice. During the month of May, 1903, the United States Government made an exchange of rifles by furnishing the United States Magazine Rifle (Krag-Jorgensen), caliber 30, and recalling the Springfield breech-loading rifle, caliber 45, rod bayonet, with which the Guard was at that time armed.

During the month of April, 1908, an issue of United States magazine rifles, caliber 30, model of 1903, was made by the United States Government to the infantry and cavalry organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania.

The entire Guard is to-day equipped with what is said to be the best rifle in use in any army in the world.

In the matter of rifle practice, Co. D has, year after year, taken a prominent position among the best shots in the State and has furnished many of the members on the regimental and brigade teams at the Mt. Gretna matches. A number of its members have also been selected on the Pennsylvania team for the national matches at Camp Perry, where they have successfully shot against the best marksmen from the United States Army and Navy and the pick of the riflemen representing the State Divisions of the National Guard of the United States. In 1913, one of Co. D's men achieved notable distinction for his company in winning the Surprise Fire match at Camp Perry with the highest possible score that could be made.

In the early days of the First City Zouaves and the City Grays, before the State established the splendid ranges at Mt. Gretna and provided for every company in the National Guard, the men were taken out one day in the year for rifle practice. Targets were put up in some out of the way place and the men, without any previous experience, at least for that year, would fire a fixed number of shots at the target, naturally with a very great waste of ammunition.

Their scores would be recorded and two or three badges would be awarded for the best marksmen and generally a leather medal for the poorest shot.

The old First City Zouaves made frequent excursions for annual target practice into the neighboring county, generally in the neighborhood of Mechanicsburg. The City Grays also made frequent one-day excursions into the county for target shooting, without any preliminary practice. On one occasion the shooting took place near the Pennsylvania State hospital in the ravine known at that time as "Spruce Hollow." On Thanksgiving Day in 1875, another Saturday morning, Frank J. Magee and the members of Co. I of the Eighth Regiment, of Wrightsville, Pa., the City Grays went to that York county town for rifle practice and erected targets along the banks of the creek south of the town and conducted the year's shoot. After the practice the company was royally entertained by their Wrightsville comrades with a turkey dinner. In the afternoon there was a parade of the two companies over the streets of the town.

Now the entire system has been changed and all the work is done under competent management and with the most careful regulations as to instruction, training and qualifying. Practice is made an exchange of rifles by furnishing the United States Magazine Rifle (Krag-Jorgensen), caliber 30, and recalling the Springfield breech-loading rifle, caliber 45, rod bayonet, with which the Guard was at that time armed.

SAYS WOMEN HAVE BECOME SPENDERS

Missouri Professor Declares Wives Show Off Their Husband's Salaries

Columbia, Mo., Jan. 26.—"Many a modern woman is engaged largely in showing what a heap big injun her husband is by wearing the most expensive clothes he can provide and making a holy show of herself," declared Prof. H. J. Davenport of the economics department of the University of Missouri.

In primitive society woman was a producer, but with the growth of a more complex social order woman's work has been taken from her to a large extent and the modern feminist movement is really a question of whether the woman shall remain idle or shall follow the occupation she is used to have on leaving the home for the business area.

The woman in the home used to be the mistress of an intricately organized domestic society. Those tasks have been taken over by the factory system. Spinning has migrated to the factory. There are no candles to make, apples are canned by a canner, the steam laundry cleans the clothes the factory made for us, the public schools are taking the child from the mother's knee at an even earlier age for an ever increasingly thorough training.

"Our women worry over little things that their grandmothers had no time to consider because of real tasks. The crowning beauty of human life, the eighty and ninety-year-old grandmotherly glacial, tender, mellow, wise veterans, glory crowned by hardship and struggle and accomplishment, is now visible only in the daguerotypes of an earlier and more vigorous generation of women.

The women have become the spenders. The men are the producers, with no leisure."

Deaths and Funerals
Walter C. Hanlen to Be Buried at Manila

A number of Harrisburgers went to Reading this afternoon where funeral services were conducted for the late Walter C. Hanlen, a son of the late George C. Hanlen, a member of the firm of Hanlen Brothers, liquor dealers. He was 45 years of age and is survived by his widow, who was Anna Ford, also a Harrisburg, who died suddenly at his home in that city on Saturday. The body will be taken to Manila tomorrow morning for burial.

AMUSEMENTS

MAJESTIC
To-day, matinee and night — Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Friday and Saturday, January 30-31, matinee Saturday — Roberta Driscoll, Lloyd Sunshine Society, presenting "The Lost Princess, Ro-op."

Entire week of February 2, matinee only, Kirk Brown and his Own Company.

ORPHEUM
Keith Vaudeville—Every afternoon and evening.

COLONIAL
Vaudeville and Pictures—Every afternoon and evening.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"
Among the notable scenes of Kibbles and Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is to be at the Majestic Theatre to-day, matinee and night, is the St. Clare home, showing a tropical garden with its fragrant magnolia and orange trees, among which nestles the typical Southern plantation, "Leagrove" cotton plantation on the Red river with the cotton in full bloom, the wild rocky pass in Southern Ohio, and the ice chocking Ohio river by a confluence. The transformation, entitled "The Celestial City," is said to be the most magnificent tableau ever conceived. In offering his revival Kibbles and Martin not only claim that the scenic effects are superior to any ever attempted but honestly assure prospective patrons that the company is composed of the most capable talent obtainable.—Advertisement.

TENOR HAS SILVER VOICE
Will Oakland, the man whose silver tenor voice has been heard in every city and hamlet of America by means of the victrola phonograph, is in town. Also more soundly "Ro-op" the song this week direct from the battery. Mr. Oakland will be supported by a rattling male quartet in presenting a classy vocal attraction with touches of comedy, the vehicle entitled "At the Club." The act is declared by critics to be the finest vocal attraction in all vaudeville, and it is expected by the management to prove a tremendous drawing card at the Orpheum. And even though Mr. Oakland is the star of the bill, there will not be the slightest deviation from the general excellence of the offering supporting him. For instance, such musical comedy bright lights as George McVay and Otis Ardine, will offer their sparkling flirtation skit with music: "The Irresistible Tony Hunting" and pretty Corinne Francis, sings favorites here, return with new songs; and new comedy: "The Ransome will offer an interesting turn as remarkable sharpshooters: Thomas P. Jackson and company are to offer their clever comedy drama, "A Letter From Home." Mary Elizabeth, an exceptionally clever singer, comedienne, will be here with a tuneful budget of lyrics, and Binns and Burl will offer a turn of thrills and laughs as comedy ring artists. The first to last the Orpheum's new bill looks like a hummer.—Advertisement.

AT THE COLONIAL
There's a fine comedy playlet, a spirited and clever song and come turn and something new in the way of a sharpshooting attraction booked to entertain the patrons of the Colonial for the first half of the week. Edridge and Barlowe present the sketch called "The Law" and the second half of the week, Edridge and Barlowe are the song and dance artists. "The Heart of a Girl" is a splendid feature in two parts, a George Kleine production will be a special feature in movies to-day.—Advertisement.

VICTORIA THEATRE
To-day starts another week of interesting feature pictures of three and four reels and the famous Kineacolor pictures will be shown to-day. "In the Clutches of the Gang" is a two-act key-stone picture, which means that the picture is a complete story. The police department is worked overtime in this picture, and the home of the mayor has been robbed by a thief. "The Peace" is the two-act Kineacolor picture showing to-day.—Advertisement.
