

50 COUPLES WANT THE KNOT UNTIED

Many a Tale of Marital Woe Recorded in Divorce Court Today

Nearly fifty separate and distinct tales of marital woes were listed for an airing to-day before President Judge Kunkel and Judge Henry Leibman, at the February session of divorce court.

Among the tales told in Judge Kunkel's court was that of Mary S. against Benjamin F. Davis, Jr. Two weeks after they were married Mrs. Davis said her husband went out to get her some medicine—and never came back.

Another tale was that of Pauline and Ralph C. Brook. Mrs. Brook stated the knot untied. They lived at the foot of Mont Alto, she said. Brook frequently liked to tease her until she got angry—and then he'd lick her with his belt and razor strap, she said. Two years was as long as she could stand for that sort of thing.

Over in Judge Henry's court the tale of the man who had it all between Mary and Ignatius Mihorich was recounted. When they married Mary agreed to help out in defraying the family expenses by "taking in washing." Ignatius however eventually welched on his part of the contract. He didn't even care for the youngsters and in fact, the tearful wife said, he only saw his five-day-old baby once.

Elmer G. Spatz, it appeared from his wife's tale suddenly departed from this neighborhood when her father talked of mysteriously missing $36. Besides that he drank, gave her no money and treated her in anything but a loving manner.

PRESIDENT DODGES SUFFRAGE SUPPORT

[Continued from First Page]

working women it is either the sanatorium for tuberculosis or the streets."

Mrs. Evans referred, in closing, to the fact that she had visited Mr. Wilson at San Giora when he was a candidate for President and claimed to have gotten some encouragement for the cause of suffrage.

"Why, we worked our finger nails off to get you elected," said Mrs. Evans. "I thought from what you said that you were in favor of our cause. You were gunning for votes then."

"I am not free to express my opinion than I am now," said the President. Some of the women refused to shake hands with him.

"There are 300 working women out-side awaiting your answer," said Mrs. Evans.

"I want to say just this," returned the President. "I need not tell you that you are right and makes me a profound impression upon me but I have already explained my limitations. Until a party as such has taken a position on a question, I am not at liberty to speak for it. I am limited in expressing my opinion no matter what my individual thoughts may be. I have no doubt that your visit will make a profound impression."

The President himself hastened the handshaking ceremony probably during the discussion, though Mrs. Evans remarked that only ten minutes of the allotted fifteen had been used up. The President began shaking hands, however, cutting off further discussion.

AUSTRALIAN MEAT FOR U. S. Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2.—Two million pounds of frozen beef and mutton, the first consignment of this kind ever sent from Australia, arrived to-day on the British ship Waimato. Officers of the company importing the meat say regular shipments from Australia to Seattle will follow.

TEACHERS STRIKE FOR SCHOOL London, Feb. 2.—A strike for school teachers, the first of its kind in the British Isles, was in full swing in the county of Hereford to-day. The teachers declare that they will remain out until they gain their demands, which are for a minimum salary of $500 per annum.

STRATHCONA GIVES TO YALE London, Feb. 2.—Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of State, was solemnly received by the Chapter of St. Peter's when he took possession to-day of his post as archpriest in succession to the late Cardinal Rambolla.

FEDERAL LEAGUE CONTRACT Baltimore, Feb. 2.—The contract for the erection of stands at the Federal League baseball park were let to-day. It was estimated that the improvements to the grounds would cost $75,000.

HIT BY CAR Robert Miller, of Letort, was hit by a trolley car on Saturday night when he was crossing Market street. Lacerations of the cheek and knee were dressed at the Harrisburg Hospital.

SAGE TEA PUTS LIFE AND COLOR IN HAIR New York, Feb. 2.—Sheriff Max S. Gorham, on a report to the board of estimates on the cost of maintaining the Ludlow street jail—the home of the "alimony club"—declares it would be cheaper for New York county to pay the alimony which the prisoners confined in the jail refuse to pay, allowing them to continue the building than to continue the present rates of $100 a day for each犯人.

A letter calling attention to the meeting in Harrisburg was received from the secretaries of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, by J. Horace McFarland, and referred to George E. Tripp, president of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

WANTS MOORE TO PAY

The Dauphin County Court was asked to-day to allow the testimony of Laura Dillender, witness in the divorce suit of Beatrice Fisher against William Fisher, to be taken by deposition because of the witness' illness.

Appointed Administrator—District Attorney Michael E. Stroup was appointed auditor of the account of Frank E. Landis, administrator of the estate of Hattie Landis.

Attorney Goes to Mexico—Attorney H. L. Lark, member of the Dauphin County bar, left to-day for Texas on business. Following a brief stay in El Paso, he will go on into Chihuahua, Mexico, and from thence to various points in California.

Conference on Housing Conditions Here in April

Improved housing conditions will be discussed at a convention to be held in Harrisburg in April under the auspices of the National Conference of Home Economics. This convention will bring to Harrisburg many prominent men, active in civic work for all parts of the State and United States.

A letter calling attention to the meeting in Harrisburg was received from the secretaries of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, by J. Horace McFarland, and referred to George E. Tripp, president of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

WANTS MOORE TO PAY

The Dauphin County Court was asked to-day by Attorney H. Horner Mattie to direct that ex-Common Councilman Percy C. Moore, a former colored representative from the Eighth Ward, be directed to pay the costs of $86.50 imposed upon by a Quarter Sessions jury March 20, 1912.

CURLEY TAKES OFFICE

Boston, Feb. 2.—Congressman James M. Curley was inaugurated as Mayor of Boston to-day, in succession to John F. Fitzgerald.

Letters to the Editor

HUNTING OF BIRDS

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 2, 1914.

Dear Sir: Some days ago an article was published in one of the Harrisburg papers, the Patriot, and signed "A Hunter," complaining about the law that imposes a penalty upon the people of the State who hunt the birds considered injurious. If this gentleman had signed his name so that people might know him I might be able to write to you a certainty regarding his conclusions. I might be able to say that in my opinion this man had never spent one hour of his time in the investigation of the subject he upbraids. He writes as if he had not examined the contents of the stomach of one of the birds that he desires to kill, and I might have pointed out other reasons why this hunter writes as he does but I must take conditions as they are.

Almost every State in this Union has a law known as a zoological law. We have in Washington an organization known as the Biological Survey, who have scientists devoting their time, day in and day out, year in and year out, to the consideration of subjects that mean benefit or injury to the nation. It is their duty to investigate, and these officers from the various States agree with the officers of Washington, that their investigations made them in position to prove beyond question that the great majority of hawks and the great majority of owls found in Pennsylvania are far more beneficial than harmful. These men are not making such statements except after the surest and most complete investigation that could possibly be made. They have not only the field and reported that certain hawks were killing this or that kind of game because they saw a hawk sitting on a tree, but they are making their reports after a careful examination in field work and laboratory work, in which the contents of the stomachs of hundreds of each of the species of birds and mammals have been examined, and the droppings of these birds have been carefully investigated and examined.

There are some people in this State who seem to think they have an inherent right to destroy anything they may choose, and they are disposed to justify their action by the declaration that the bird was killing was destroying that property was bad, or something to that effect.

"Well, Your Honor," smiled the attorney. "I'm hardly in a position to cast the first stone as I myself have been a sinner—"

"Members of the bar will have to understand and interject the President Judge, that they should help each other to transact their own business."

"The loud talking has been a source of much annoyance and helps to delay the work of the members of the bar as well as that of the court."

"For myself I apologize, and for my fellow's too," returned Mr. Geyer, "for as I said, I myself have been a sinner."

Board of Arbitrators to Meet—No date for the next meeting of the board of arbitration to decide the problem of extra material charges between the city and W. H. Opperman & Co., river interceptor contractors, will be fixed pending the return of Arbitrators Roy G. Cox and Joseph L. Shearer, Jr. Messrs. Shearer and Cox are now in the West Indies and Panama.

Ellott-Fisher Counsel Admitted—Marshall H. Dean, Binghamton, N. Y., resident general counsel for the Ellott-Fisher Typewriter Company, was admitted to practice at the Dauphin county bar this morning. Mr. Dean was presented by Frank Snodgrass, of the law firm of Snodgrass & Smith.

This morning one of our officers arrested and had convicted before an alderman of this city a farmer who had clubbed a poor, little screech owl in his barn, had broken its wing, pinned it to a board, and sold it for a quarter. His action was indicating that he was after the quarter rather than anything else, but when approached upon the subject he declared he has a right to protect himself, that this bird was destroying his young pigeons. It might be that an owl of this character and size, a little bird not over seven inches in height, and with wings spread, in what a hooded feathers, bows and all. After a while the feathers and the bows through some natural provision are ejected through the mouth of the bird, they fall to the ground, many thousands of these birds having been collected in various sections. Through the tearing apart of these birds the examiner is able to say exactly what the bird has been eating, and the uniting statement is that the game, regarding this question is that the great majority of our hawks and the great majority of our owls, do far more good through the destruction of rodents and insects than they do harm in any way.

The owl apparently bolts its food; that is, swallows whatever may come before it, where that is possible—feathers, bones and all. After a while the feathers and the bows through some natural provision are ejected through the mouth of the bird, they fall to the ground, many thousands of these birds having been collected in various sections. Through the tearing apart of these birds the examiner is able to say exactly what the bird has been eating, and the uniting statement is that the game, regarding this question is that the great majority of our hawks and the great majority of our owls, do far more good through the destruction of rodents and insects than they do harm in any way.

Take Ray Bell to Huntington—Within a day of two Sheriff Harry C. Wells will take Raymond Bell to Huntington Reformatory. President Judge Kunkel sent Bell to Huntington because he had violated his parole. Bell's case was one heard at January juvenile session. While on parole Bell had broken faith with the court by marrying without the knowledge of court or probation officer. Three weeks later his young wife brought an action for maintenance.

Bar Association's Banquet—The date for the annual banquet of the Dauphin County Bar Association will be determined at the meeting next Friday evening. Officers nominated a few weeks ago will be elected at that time.

Cupid Not So Busy in January—January, 1914, wasn't as busy a month for Cupid as the first month of 1913, according to the marriage license records. During the past month 101 licenses were issued as against 118 in January of last year.

Deputy Controller Sworn In—G. Fred Holtzman, of Elizabethville, was sworn in to-day by Prothonotary Harry F. Holler as the deputy controller of Dauphin county under Controller H. W. Gough. Mr. Holtzman assumed his new duties to-day.

Reality Transfers—Realty transactions of Saturday included the following: A. L. Gross' trustees to R. F. Gross, Woodlawn near Twenty-eighth $685; Rachel Hoffmaster, et al., to H. C. Wells, Sheriff, Juniper near Thirteenth streets, $1,000; J. Hoffer's executors to Lydia S. Smith, Susquehanna township, $1; William P. Miller et al., to H. P. Miller, Susquehanna, $1; Ellen C. Price to C. P. Shaffer, Susquehanna township, $390.

Addition to Building—A permit to build a $500 addition to 401-03 South Fourteenth street was taken out by R. C. Smith.

Witness Can't Appear; Ill—The Dauphin County Court was asked this morning to permit the trial by jury of the divorce suit of Charles W. against Matilda E. Bender. Mayme Pond and Roy Hampton were named as correspondents.

Witness Can't Appear; Ill—Permit to appear granted by the Dauphin County Court to-day to allow the testimony of Laura Dillender, witness in the divorce suit of Beatrice Fisher against William Fisher, to be taken by deposition because of the witness' illness.

Appointed Administrator—District Attorney Michael E. Stroup was appointed auditor of the account of Frank E. Landis, administrator of the estate of Hattie Landis.

Attorney Goes to Mexico—Attorney H. L. Lark, member of the Dauphin County bar, left to-day for Texas on business. Following a brief stay in El Paso, he will go on into Chihuahua, Mexico, and from thence to various points in California.

Conference on Housing Conditions Here in April

Improved housing conditions will be discussed at a convention to be held in Harrisburg in April under the auspices of the National Conference of Home Economics. This convention will bring to Harrisburg many prominent men, active in civic work for all parts of the State and United States.

A letter calling attention to the meeting in Harrisburg was received from the secretaries of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, by J. Horace McFarland, and referred to George E. Tripp, president of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

WANTS MOORE TO PAY

The Dauphin County Court was asked to-day by Attorney H. Horner Mattie to direct that ex-Common Councilman Percy C. Moore, a former colored representative from the Eighth Ward, be directed to pay the costs of $86.50 imposed upon by a Quarter Sessions jury March 20, 1912.

CURLEY TAKES OFFICE

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 2.—Sheriff Max S. Gorham, on a report to the board of estimates on the cost of maintaining the Ludlow street jail—the home of the "alimony club"—declares it would be cheaper for New York county to pay the alimony which the prisoners confined in the jail refuse to pay, allowing them to continue the building than to continue the present rates of $100 a day for each犯人.

A letter calling attention to the meeting in Harrisburg was received from the secretaries of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh, by J. Horace McFarland, and referred to George E. Tripp, president of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

WANTS MOORE TO PAY

The Dauphin County Court was asked to-day by Attorney H. Horner Mattie to direct that ex-Common Councilman Percy C. Moore, a former colored representative from the Eighth Ward, be directed to pay the costs of $86.50 imposed upon by a Quarter Sessions jury March 20, 1912.

CURLEY TAKES OFFICE

By Associated Press

Boston, Feb. 2.—Congressman James M. Curley was inaugurated as Mayor of Boston to-day, in succession to John F. Fitzgerald.

Letters to the Editor

HUNTING OF BIRDS

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 2, 1914.

Dear Sir: Some days ago an article was published in one of the Harrisburg papers, the Patriot, and signed "A Hunter," complaining about the law that imposes a penalty upon the people of the State who hunt the birds considered injurious. If this gentleman had signed his name so that people might know him I might be able to write to you a certainty regarding his conclusions. I might be able to say that in my opinion this man had never spent one hour of his time in the investigation of the subject he upbraids. He writes as if he had not examined the contents of the stomach of one of the birds that he desires to kill, and I might have pointed out other reasons why this hunter writes as he does but I must take conditions as they are.

Almost every State in this Union has a law known as a zoological law. We have in Washington an organization known as the Biological Survey, who have scientists devoting their time, day in and day out, year in and year out, to the consideration of subjects that mean benefit or injury to the nation. It is their duty to investigate, and these officers from the various States agree with the officers of Washington, that their investigations made them in position to prove beyond question that the great majority of hawks and the great majority of owls found in Pennsylvania are far more beneficial than harmful. These men are not making such statements except after a careful examination in field work and laboratory work, in which the contents of the stomachs of hundreds of each of the species of birds and mammals have been examined, and the droppings of these birds have been carefully investigated and examined.

There are some people in this State who seem to think they have an inherent right to destroy anything they may choose, and they are disposed to justify their action by the declaration that the bird was killing was destroying that property was bad, or something to that effect.

"Well, Your Honor," smiled the attorney. "I'm hardly in a position to cast the first stone as I myself have been a sinner—"

"Members of the bar will have to understand and interject the President Judge, that they should help each other to transact their own business."

"The loud talking has been a source of much annoyance and helps to delay the work of the members of the bar as well as that of the court."

"For myself I apologize, and for my fellow's too," returned Mr. Geyer, "for as I said, I myself have been a sinner."

Board of Arbitrators to Meet—No date for the next meeting of the board of arbitration to decide the problem of extra material charges between the city and W. H. Opperman & Co., river interceptor contractors, will be fixed pending the return of Arbitrators Roy G. Cox and Joseph L. Shearer, Jr. Messrs. Shearer and Cox are now in the West Indies and Panama.

Ellott-Fisher Counsel Admitted—Marshall H. Dean, Binghamton, N. Y., resident general counsel for the Ellott-Fisher Typewriter Company, was admitted to practice at the Dauphin county bar this morning. Mr. Dean was presented by Frank Snodgrass, of the law firm of Snodgrass & Smith.

This morning one of our officers arrested and had convicted before an alderman of this city a farmer who had clubbed a poor, little screech owl in his barn, had broken its wing, pinned it to a board, and sold it for a quarter. His action was indicating that he was after the quarter rather than anything else, but when approached upon the subject he declared he has a right to protect himself, that this bird was destroying his young pigeons. It might be that an owl of this character and size, a little bird not over seven inches in height, and with wings spread, in what a hooded feathers, bows and all. After a while the feathers and the bows through some natural provision are ejected through the mouth of the bird, they fall to the ground, many thousands of these birds having been collected in various sections. Through the tearing apart of these birds the examiner is able to say exactly what the bird has been eating, and the uniting statement is that the great majority of our hawks and the great majority of our owls, do far more good through the destruction of rodents and insects than they do harm in any way.

Take Ray Bell to Huntington—Within a day of two Sheriff Harry C. Wells will take Raymond Bell to Huntington Reformatory. President Judge Kunkel sent Bell to Huntington because he had violated his parole. Bell's case was one heard at January juvenile session. While on parole Bell had broken faith with the court by marrying without the knowledge of court or probation officer. Three weeks later his young wife brought an action for maintenance.

Bar Association's Banquet—The date for the annual banquet of the Dauphin County Bar Association will be determined at the meeting next Friday evening. Officers nominated a few weeks ago will be elected at that time.

Cupid Not So Busy in January—January, 1914, wasn't as busy a month for Cupid as the first month of 1913, according to the marriage license records. During the past month 101 licenses were issued as against 118