The officials and employes embraced in the provisions of the Lynch resolution number several hundred, but it is reported that the entire force of the board of public works that is the city engineer, many of the police officers and clerks and stenographers will be reappointed, but there is found to be more or less uncertainty until the reorganization shall have been finally completed.

Taylor and Royal in Sharp Debate Over Lynch's Resolution

Lynch's Resolution

The launching of Commissioner W. H. Lynch's second thunderbolt of its kind in City Council this afternoon was followed by a lively tilt between Commissioner of Parks Taylor and Mayor Royal during which the park commissioner referred rather pointedly to some inconsistencies of the city's chief magistrate.

Commissioner Taylor "started something" when he seconded Mr. Lynch's motion to adopt the resolution.

"To my mind," said Mr. Taylor, "we ought to get down to the serious work of the city government. There is no reason why we, as a nonpartisan body, should accept nonpartisan government without closely taking up and considering the personnel of the government. This does not mean that everybody will be ripped out and kept out. But I believe that the five commissioners should get together and go over all the appointments and get down to a working business basis for the conduct of the affairs of the city. If we started with a partisan government there is no reason, now that we have gone into the nonpartisan form, that we shouldn't accept the nonpartisan government—"

"What d' you mean?" inquired Mayor Royal.

"You said here on the floor of council," replied Commissioner Taylor, "that you were elected on a partisan ticket and under a partisan government. Two years ago you dismissed a man presumably because he had been interested in politics; only a short time ago you opposed the dismissal of a man whom, it was generally understood, had worked for several political candidates."

"Now," went on Mr. Taylor, "I'm not for changing the personnel of the city government particularly; I'm for efficiency and efficient men regardless of politics."

Mayor Royal: "You know what I told you a short time ago along that visions of said act of June 27, 1913," and

Whereas, the continuance of the subordinate officers and employes in their respective positions, as therein provided, was a temporary expedient, to enable the Council, after assembling the various departments directed by the law of June 27, 1913, and after becoming more familiar with the character and progress of the public work then in various stages of completion, as well as better acquainted with the general standard and quality of all the working forces as then constituted and continued from the previous administration, to more intelligently and more deliberately recast and reshape those working forces so that the purposes of the new scheme of government might be best accomplished in accordance with the true intent and meaning of the law, now, therefore,

loid you a short time ago along that line."

Commissioner Taylor: "Don't you think this method the proper one?"

Mayor Royal: "That just depends upon how it is done."

Commissioner Taylor: "And don't you think these men should have been dismissed?"

Mayor Royal: "Yes, one of them, perhaps."

Commissioner Taylor: "Well, I think all of them should have been reappointed December 1."

Mayor Royal: "There was a resolution covering that, Mr. Taylor."

Commissioner Taylor: "That I don't think was the proper way, and I think this is."

Commissioner Lynch, asked by the Telegraph representative whether his resolution meant the retirement of all employes, made this statement:

"The resolution fixing March 1, 1914, as the date on which will terminate the service of all municipal employes who have not been reappointed by the present Council, except such as have had their terms extended by operation of law, does not contemplate the removal of all these employes. It simply means that by fixing a date for the expiration of the service of those now in the employ of the city, it will be possible for the heads of the several departments to make such changes as may be deemed advisable in the interest of economy and efficiency. It is also only fair that those who are now employed by the municipality shall have sufficient notice so that in the event of their dismissal they may have opportunity to make other connections. Many employes have been disturbed about probable changes, and in order to relieve their anxiety and perfect the organization of the different departments the resolution was introduced. It will now be possible, after a conference of the entire Council and the department heads, to reappoint those who are to be retained in the city's service or fill the vacancies thus created by the appointment of new men.

"Of course, such a resolution is apt to cause more or less speculation as to the individual employe, but as no action can be taken for several days, the whole matter of who shall go and who shall remain will be determined hereafter."

Commissioner Taylor: "That I don't think was the proper way, and I think this is."

The Mayor: "But it could all be done without this resolution and without Council getting together on the matter."

Commissioner Taylor: "Still, if we did get together we should have to fix a date anyway, shouldn't we?"

Then Commissioner Gorgas got into the discussion with a suggestion that the resolution be permitted under the rules to lie over for a week and that the copies of it be printed and submitted to the members.

When Mr. Lynch was having the resolution read Commissioner Gorgas saked if there was any objection to allowing it to lie over.

"Oh, no, indeed, certainly not," replied Mr. Lynch.

When asked as to his reference to the apparent inconsistency of Mayor Royal's action in dismissing a man from the police force a year or so ago for political reasons and opposing similar action for the same reasons now. Commissioner Taylor said he had Patrolmen Ed. Murphy in mind.

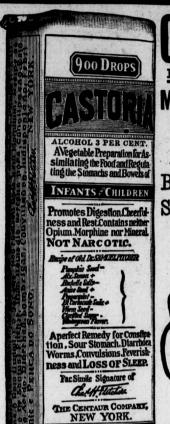

"That the Mayor had discharged Murphy a couple of years ago for supporting or working for Dr. Hassler was pretty generally talked round at the time," said Mr. Taylor. "Now he opposes the dismissal of another man of his own force for practically the same reasons—why," added the commissioner, "a man who not only worked but pretty nearly 'panhandled' politically for not one but for several candidates."
