ROYAL ITALIAN BAND AT HEAD OF ROCCO FUNERAL

Headed by the Royal Italian Band under the supervision of Vincent Bianchi, in which more than thirty Italian musicians participated, the funeral services of Camberri Rocco, an Italian employed on the Pennsylvania Railroad, who was struck and instantly killed by a train at Division street Tuesday morning, were held this afternoon from the St. Patrick's Cathedral, State street. The Rev. Father Benjamin Sama, pastor of St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church, Steelton, conducted the services. Burial was made in the Catholic Cemetery.

Mr. Rocco was well-known among Italians of this city. He was an active member of the Italian Social and Beneficial Society. He is survived by his wife and two sons.

THE MERCHANT OF VENICE TO BE GIVEN BY KIRK BROWN

Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," has for years been one of the most popular studies of the English literature classes in the public schools and in view of this fact Kirk Brown's production of this popular Shakespearean work at the Majestic theater to-morrow night is attracting unusual attention among the teachers and scholars of the high schools in the city and in consequence they are purchasing a large number of seats, and together with the teachers who are to be the guest of the management, the largest night of the week is looked for at the Majestic.—Advertisement.

TANGO MAD

In the early morning, when the frost is on the bough,
See us turkey trotting, for it's in our system now;
Trot while we are shaving and the while we fix our tie,
Trot into our trousers as the last ten minutes fly.
Then it's "bear" to breakfast as we give the cook a prance—
Oh, you heart-throb music and you happy tango dance!

As we part with wife at the doorway, hug her tight,
"Swing the Castle" with me and remind her of to-night:
"Eight-ten" blows its whistle near the station as you run—
Tango it with Perkins or "the glide" with any one.
In your downtown office give that better self a chance,
Kiss the typo-girlie as you do the tango dance.
Fifth looks mighty purty at the noon-time of 'th day,
Tango off to luncheon in your whole-

souled sort of way;
Tango with your lobster—yes, and tango with your 'tasse,
Tango all the afternoon and watch the hours pass.
Then, as night comes stealing with its vintage and romance,
Start all over, sonny, with that bloomin' tango dance.
—W. L. Larned, in New York Review.

BURNED BY LIME

In an explosion of quicklime which he was preparing for a job of white-washing at a house in Cameron street yesterday William Johnson, of 258 Franklin street, Steelton, had his face and eyes badly burned and his nose and cheek lacerated by a piece of flying wood. He was treated at the Harrisburg Hospital.

HAS APPENDICITIS

Clyde Briggs, of Blairs Mills, was brought to the Harrisburg Hospital yesterday suffering from appendicitis. He has not been operated on.
