

OLD WAR VETERAN
LIVES ILL AND ALONE
IN DAMP BASEMENT

Slumming Party Finds Unbearable Conditions in Sibletown Homes and Shops

MANY PLACES IMPROVED

Landlords Are to Blame in Many Instances; Rentals Surprisingly High

Sick and alone in a gloomy, damp basement of an old house at 311 Mulberry street, Bartley Weitzel, a Civil War veteran more than 80 years old, was discovered yesterday by a party inspecting housing conditions in the city.

Dr. J. M. J. Raunick was making his second trip through the city's "slums" when he came across the sick old man.

Weitzel was dismissed from the Harrisburg hospital a week ago. Since then the old man has been lying in the bed in the cheerless room in the basement of his former boarding house, getting his meals at intervals through the kindness of a fellow boarder. He has a bad cough and breathes with difficulty.

To-day one of the nurses from the Visiting Nurses' Association called to see the man, and he will be given medical attention. Efforts will be made to have members of Post 58, G. A. R., of which Weitzel is a member call to see him and have him removed to another room.

"Too Damp," He Says
The old man is dissatisfied with his condition, and asked Dr. J. M. J. Raunick to move him from the basement.

"It's too damp in here sometimes," he whispered in a husky voice. He says he pays $3.50 a week for his room and the meals that are brought to him.

His pension is taken care of for him by Alderman Caveny. Each month the old man receives $22.50 and says he makes it to the alderman for safe keeping.

The old soldier was just one instance of many bad conditions found by the slumming party yesterday. Dr. Raunick learned, however, that many of the places visited in his first inspection have been improved.

The man who lived in a cellar in South street has moved his things to the second floor, and he says "his rheumatism is better."

Sibletown was invaded by the protesters and many filthy conditions were discovered. However, it seemed impossible that humans could exist were everywhere in some sections.

Landlords to Blame
In many instances the landlords are to blame for the conditions. Houses are seldom repaired, no attempt to improve sanitary conditions made, and yet the rentals are surprisingly high.

For a six-room house in North Seventh street where plaster was falling from the walls, and the roof was about like a sieve, a month's rent was paid. In a narrow alley the house kept by an old colored aunt was scrupulously clean and was badly in need of a new roof, but "aunt" had to pay $8 a month.

Orders to clean up were left by Dr. Raunick at some of the places. At 511 Walnut street in the house owned by Mrs. Dora Frank, a twenty-four hour notice was served. Five minutes after the order, brooms, hose and dust cloths were flying in the hands of Mrs. Frank and Mrs. Mary Miller, the tenant.

In the delicatessen shop was conducted on the first floor and on the other two floors were lodgings rooms, with little furniture and much dirt and foul smells. Outside of the building a hard shack had been put up along the wall. A tiny dirty room, four feet wide and ten feet long was the home for a man.

A bed, an old stove, covered with filthy cooking utensils and a chair were the furnishings. A door and two windows, in which old clothes took the place of glass did more to keep out light and air than to let it in. This place was ordered vacated.

CONDITIONS FOUND BY CITY OFFICIALS ON TOUR THROUGH SLUMS

Living conditions in the "slums" of the city are shown by the photographs above. Yesterday a party of city officials visited Sibletown and other sections of Harrisburg and ordered the owners of hovels to clean up at once. The upper left hand etching shows the entrance to 515 South alley, where a man was living in a cellar. The upper right hand etching is a shack where a woman has lived alone for six years. Below is seen the inside of the "cave" of a white man at 511 Walnut street, for which a rental of $1.50 a week is charged.

Sex Education and Domestic Science in Schools Is Urged
by State Health Commissioner

Sex education under certain restrictions in the public schools of the State was advised by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, rather than the portrayal of sex problems in the theater in an address made today at the nineteenth annual convention of the school directors' department of the State Educational Association.

Dr. Dixon also declared that an educational system which lacks the teaching of domestic science is deficient in the training of the mothers and wives of the future.

The modern tendency in education, he warned the directors, was toward the development of the brain at the expense of the body.

Giving his reason for favoring the teaching of sex hygiene in the schools, Dr. Dixon said the dangers of sexual diseases should be taught by competent teachers rather than paraded before the mixed audience of the theater.

300 Directors Hear Addresses
Dr. Dixon gave a talk filled with valuable suggestions to the 300 school directors here from all parts of the State. He was one of four speakers this afternoon. Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, John Price Jackson and J. C. Brown, president of the department, spoke.

Dr. Dixon said that a large factor in the development of tuberculosis among school children is physical exhaustion from overstudy.

"They are often forced to sacrifice their outdoor life necessary for the growing child," he said. "Too often children are forced to jeopardize their health."

KREIDER OPPOSES

FOR ALASKA ROADS

Much Better to Provide Transportation Facilities by Lease Under Commission Rule

Washington, Feb. 5.—In an address before the House, Congressman Kreider vigorously opposed the Senate bill appropriating $40,000,000 for experimental railroad building operations in Alaska.

He made it clear that Alaska is not bottled up as it is made to appear, but that its transportation facilities on both land and water were ample for its present requirements and its small population.

He said in part: "I approve of the policy of the government in retaining absolute control of the coal and mineral lands but advocate the adoption of a leasing system on a royalty basis under the control of a commission appointed for the purpose with absolute and well defined powers."

"I would also put the railroads under the control of the same commission. Under such a policy the country will be developed and railroads

Railroads May Issue
Passes to Families of Employees, Is Ruling

Public Service Commission Decides That Free Transportation Privileges Shall Not Be Curtailed by New Law; in Accord With Governor Tener's Views; Good News For Thousands of Railroadmen

The Public Service Commission today ruled that railroad companies may issue free passes to their officers and employees to be used for the transportation of the dependents, members of the families of such officers and employees. The ruling is strengthened by the declaration that the granting of these concessions will not be regarded by the commission as a violation of the provisions of the public service company law.

It also ruled that the free transportation furnished by common carriers to policemen and firemen in the discharge of their public duties is not such free transportation as is prohibited by the provisions of the law.

The commission did not pass upon the questions regarding reduced rates for clergymen nor did it dispose of several other propositions of a kindred nature concerning rates and fares.

Governor Tener's public statement to the effect that there was no sound reason why free passes should not be

William Draper Lewis Their Choice For Governor; Kelly in the Opening

Sentiment among the Washington party chiefs gathered here for the council of war this afternoon appears to be all favorable to William Draper Lewis for the gubernatorial nomination and for Clifford Pinchot for senator. The announcement from Washington last night that Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer would be the senatorial candidate, and that ex-Mayor Vance C. McCormick would be put forward as the reorganizers' candidate for Governor did not seem to ruffle the Bull Mooseers to any extent, and if anything there was a feeling of relief that McCormick and Palmer was going to be Lewis' opponent. What was uppermost in the minds of the men who talked in the corridors of the hotels while awaiting the arrival of William Flinn was whether Edwin S. Stuart would stand for Governor.

The main business before the council will be to get rid of Congressman

Johnny Grissinger Speaks Up When Patrolmen Speak of Fatal March 1

At roll call last night and this morning the one particular question asked about the police department was, "What are you going to do after March 1?"

"We're like the Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey," said one of Mayor Royce's patrolmen, "we just keep on feeding and guessing until our heads go off."

"You can't please everybody," spoke up Charley Fleck. "I would like to know how they are going to satisfy 724 applicants with but 300 jobs."

"Well, there are just 105 after my job," spoke up Johnny Grissinger, the janitor, this morning, "and some of the men after the job are now drawing down from the $45 to $50 a month pension from the Pennsylvania Railroad."

"And the worst is yet to come," added Sergeant Tom Rodgers.

"Yes," signed Harry White, the detective.

WHO'S WHO IN CITY
MUNICIPAL CIRCLES
TO BE KNOWN SOON

Resolution Ending Suspense May Be Presented Next Tuesday Afternoon

Who's who in the matter of municipal office holders as far as the provisions of the Lynch councilmanic removal resolution is concerned may be determined at next Tuesday's meeting.

When Commissioner W. H. Lynch last Tuesday offered the measure which provides that all holders of city offices in any department be dismissed March 1, unless otherwise provided for by the Clark act, it was generally expected that the resolution authorizing the specific changes wouldn't go in before February 17.

To-day some of the commissioners discussed with City Solicitor Seitz, it is understood, the question of whether or not the appointments and dismissals contemplated couldn't be submitted to Council at the meeting next Tuesday instead.

Whether or not this can be done legally will be decided before evening, it is said, and the commissioners will be informed of it to-morrow. If this

White Girls Hidden
Between Flooring and
Ceiling of Chinese Den

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 5.—While searching a Chinese roominghouse in Chinatown last night for opium smokers, the police discovered three white girls hidden between the ceiling of the first story and flooring of the second. The girls were crowded in a small aperture, concealed by a false ceiling into which they had been forced when the police entered the building. At the police headquarters the girls said they were all over 20 years of age. They refused to tell how they came to be in the house or to give any information against Young Yick, a Chinese who resisted the police while the raid was under way, and who was arrested with them. The police believe they found a Chinese white slave depot.

Advertised Goods
Are Usually of Better Quality

When a man puts an article on the market, he is giving it his personal endorsement.

It is creating a standard that he expects to succeed.

He must fulfill all his advertising promises—and if he is a wise advertiser he will do a little bit more.

His hope of profit is the steady demand he wishes to create, and this can only come from an article with great merit.

The great advertising agencies which are expert in planning big campaigns frequently advise would-be advertisers to wait for months or years until they bring their product to a point where it is ready for exploitation.

All things being equal it is a safe rule to choose an advertised brand rather than one that has no particular sponsor.

It will generally assure you more satisfaction for your money.

It's what you get for what you pay, that counts.
