PROSECUTIONS OF VIOLATORS SOLELY

Statement Issued by State Highway Department, Says All Carefully Considered

THE FACTS IN THE CASE

People Neglected to Take Out Licenses For This Year and Got Arrested

To correct published misstatements based on incorrect information regarding the arrests of automobile owners and operators for using 1913 license tags upon their machines, the State Highway Department to-day issued a statement in which it is made clear that there has been no intention on the part of the department to persecute automobilists, but rather a desire not to take advantage of a rigid interpretation of the law.

The most important fact brought out is that in the arrests so far made every accused owner or operator has admitted that he had not applied for a license until after January 9, or, in other words, that he had violated the law on that point.

It is pointed out by E. A. Jones, second deputy commissioner in charge of the automobile division, that no move, looking to the arrest of violators of the law, was made until fourteen days after the time at which the department would have been justified in enforcing the letter of the law. Mr. Jones said in discussing this phase of the question:

"There has been a decided misunderstanding regarding the action taken last week against automobilists who have been violating the law. The law specifies that automobiles operated on or after the first must bear license tags that year. Now, inasmuch as there are in round numbers 80,000 automobiles to be licensed, it stands to reason that a number of applications must be made during the early part of December, otherwise there will be a congestion at the year in getting out the licenses. If 60,000 persons applied for licenses by December 31 of any year and if 45,000 of those 60,000 did not send in their applications until December 28 and the days following until December 31, it would not be humanly possible for the department, even working day and night, Sundays and holidays, to get all the licenses out and delivered by January 1. For this reason an absolutely rigid interpretation of the law has never been demanded, that is to say, the police have never been requested to make arrests on January 1.

"This year, by working at all hours of the day and night, the automobile division of the State Highway Department succeeded on January 9 in catching up to the applications then on file in the department. From January 15 to the present time all licenses have been sent out on the day on which the application was received, the sole exception being in cases where an error has been made by the applicant, in which case it was returned to him promptly for correction.

"It is significant that, in every case where an arrest has been made on violation of the law, the accused owner or operator has admitted without hesitation that application for 1914 license had not been made to the department prior to January 1. In cases where new cars are purchased by persons not heretofore owning or operating an automobile and in case where an owner or operator is absent from the city on business or pleasure and does not return until after the first of the year, it is easy to understand why such applications for license should be delayed. It would seem that there is no valid excuse for failure to make application to the State Highway Department prior to January 1 of any given year.

"The State Highway Department has no desire to inflict injustice upon owners or operators of automobiles and does not feel in the present instance that an injustice has been done. No move was made by the department looking toward the enforcement of the law until fourteen days had elapsed after the rush of applications received during the closing days of 1913 had been met. If the police of Philadelphia or of any other city took it upon themselves to exact immunity to those operating under a 1913 license they acted under the mistaken impression that the State Highway Department had not been able to get the licenses out."

Thomas C. Boyd, registrar of the automobile division of the State Highway Department, will go to Philadelphia next week and appear at the continued hearing to be held before Magistrate Harris in that city at which those automobilists arrested last week for violating the law will be arraigned.

Fire Does Damage to Amount of $200,000 in Big Pittsburgh Store

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 5.—The stock of the Fifth avenue store of McCrory & Co. was destroyed and a number of nearby business places were damaged by a spectacular fire that kept all the downtown fire companies on duty from last midnight until dawn. Tons of water were poured into the burning store to prevent the spread of flames to buildings filled with valuable merchandise and the firemen were finally successful. Scores of persons on their way home from theaters when the fire broke out, were deluged with water before the police could control the crowd. The loss today was estimated at $200,000. Three firemen injured soon after the fire started are well on the way to recovery.

Robbers Compel Woman to Sign Check For $100

Special to The Telegraph
Lewistown, Pa., Feb. 5.—Two men entered the home of Daniel Bohman, a short distance from Mifflin, about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, and demanded money. Mrs. Bohman and a three-year-old son were alone in the house at the time. The woman was overpowered, a silk handkerchief was forced in her mouth, and the house ransacked. They only secured a gold watch and $1 in money. Knowing that the family had some money in bank the desperadoes compelled Mrs. Bohman to sign a check for $100. She signed the check in her own name, but the money is in the bank in the name of the husband, so it is unlikely that the check would be honored. All banks in this section have been notified of the occurrence.

THE FORGOTTEN THINGS

We have forgotten our friends the stars
And our mother the moon,
How the north wind under the stars
Danced to a scranell tune.

We have forgotten our love the sea
And our neighbor the earth;
How we curled the wrath of the sea
With our spoils of death and birth.

Our new mistress has yellow eyes,
Long fingers quick to hold;
We call her Beauty, we praise her eyes,
Her name is Gold.
