Growth of Sentiment Against Rum Local Officials Look For Further Among Manufacturers Told by One of Them

A prohibition zone around industrial plants, just as around schools and churches, is urged as a necessary part of the "Safety First" campaign by Thomas D. West, manager of a Cleveland steel foundry, who writes in The Surrey.

Cleveland steel foundry, who writes in The Survey.

"The very fact that saloons endeavor to cluster around industrial plants and to locate as close as they can to the entrances and exits demonstrates that there are highly prized opportunities in such locations for the sale of intoxicating liquors.

"Many instances are cited by employers and liability insurance agencies of the responsibility of the nearby saloons for the maiming and killing of men in factories and of its being at the bottom of various kinds of trouble when men have carried its sense-destroying influence into their work-aday hours.

ifirst."

"The laws of to-day say to our industries, if a man in your employ loses his fingers, an eye, or a limb, you or your insurance agencies are liable to the payment of a heavy indemnity. Still saloons are licensed to be located next door to factories to sell employes drink that will weaken their limbs, befuddle their intellects, and thus render them liable to accidents that all the best safety appliances and watchfulness of managers, superintendents or foremen in this world cannot prevent. This inconsistent outwitting of justice, common sense and humanity, supported by laws, is responsible for many of the 2,000,000 injuries and 35,000 deaths that occur annually in the United States to-day.

"When saloons are in such close proximity to industries that men can get to them and back again within five to fifteen minutes they can slip out occasionally without being missed. Under such circumstances a boss' may not have reason to suspect there has not have reason to suspect there has

Increasing Supply at Higher Prices Indicate Opportunities For Disposal of Stocks

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 6. — Speculation followed the narrow channel during the morning as on recent days. Efforts to depress prices at the outset accomplished little and subsequent attempts to bring on an upturn were equally unsuccessful. The increasing supply at higher prices indicated that opportunities were being sought for disposing of stocks, but this tendency was neutralized by the sustained investment demand, which provided a market for standard shares whenever they were offered at concessions. The general range held near yesterday's close, although individual stocks broke away from the dead level. New York Central was weak and New Haven strong.

"The laws of to-day say to our industries, if a man in your employ loses his fingers, an eye, or a limb, you or your insurance agencies are liable to the payment of a heavy indemnity. Still saloons are licensed to be located next door to factories to sell employed drink that will weaken their limbs, befuddle their intellects, and thus render them liable to accidents that all the best safety appliances and watchfulness of managers, superintendents or foremen in this world cannot prevent. THE LOOK By Sara Teesdale. Strephon kissed me in the Spring, Robin in the Fall, But Colin only looked at me And never kissed at all.

Strephon's kiss was lost in jest,
Robin's lost in play,
But the kiss - Colin's eyes
Haunts me night and day.

Sulzer Again Takes

Stand in Graft Case

New York, Feb. 6.—In compliance with the request of William Sulzer that he wished to elaborate his testimony of two weks ago, District Attorney Charles S. Whitman was prepared to-day to place the ex-governor on the witness stand at the resumption of the John Doe graft inquiry. Since his former appearance Sulzer has put into Mr. Whitman's hands a great many letters bearing upon the motives behind his impeachment and the manner in which it was brought Sulzer has insisted that he about. was led to understand from the leaders of his party that there would be no impeachment if he would stop his investigations of graft in various State
