FUNCTIONS OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

By D. Bailey Brandt

A library equipped with a suitable building and sufficient books properly catalogued; an ample supply of money for new books, magazines, periodicals and maintenance, is able to pursue a liberal policy and attain its greatest efficiency. It is the function of the public library to instruct and assist children in the selection of books and to supply the books wanted by adults for investigation and literary relaxation. This divides a library into three departments: juvenile, reference and fiction.

In the juvenile department effective work can be done to reduce the percentage of light fiction demanded in after years. The young child is directed and encouraged in reading by the use of pictures and the story hour. The older child is given the best books to supplement the school work. The schools of the city felt the need of a public library and they will now feel its effects.

The reference department should be located in a cheerful, well-lighted, comfortable part of the building, because most of the reading by patrons will be done there. It should be equipped with books and periodicals for children and adults, for all professions and occupations. The library staff should know how and where to find the information wanted. The telephone is an important adjunct of this department. A request by it immediately puts the library at the service of the inquirer.

Of the thousands of books circulated by the Harrisburg Public Library since opening day, several weeks ago, about 80 per cent. has been fiction. This is higher than it should be, but the library must supply the books desired by the older patrons.

Harrisburg is fortunate in having the libraries of the Christian associations and many Sunday schools, the medical library of the Academy of Medicine, the law library of the Dauphin county bar and the Pennsylvania State Library. But the nature of these restricts their use and none of them can fulfill the functions of a public library. By reducing rules and regulations to a minimum the Harrisburg Public Library puts its facilities at the disposal of every one. Nothing but registration of name and address is now required. It is the people's library and must supply the literary needs of Harrisburg.

My Meals Don't Hurt a Bit

A Little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet Will Aid Your Exhausted Stomach to Digest Any Meal

Isn't it a real joy to see children eat? There is almost a ridiculous humor about it. The same joy that a child feels at meal time should be experienced by "grown ups" and would be if they would only do as children do.

The work, worries and woes of adult life exhaust the digestive apparatus and nature very often is not allowed time or opportunity to renew or repair the exhausted organs and depleted digestive juices.

"Well What's You Think o' a Big Feed Without Pain?"

A Stuart's tablet goes into the stomach like food. It contains nothing but natural digestive elements and when at work in a weak stomach it aids the worn-out gastric glands, supplies the right mixture of stomach juices and under the action of the stomach it thoroughly permeates all the food. Thus when the stomach work is done the meal goes into the small intestine in better shape to be assimilated by the system.

One element of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is so strong and efficient that one grain of it will digest 3,000 grains of mixed food such as meats, vegetables, grains, fluids, etc.

The simple habit of eating a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal will readjust your digestion in a very short time so that you will no longer need assistance.

"Shylock" in "The Merchant of Venice," at the Majestic Theater. His success as a whole in

REVOLVING DOGS FUNNY

Comedy, drama, pantomime and manual dexterity all have their fling at the Orpheum bill this week, but the comedy hit of purest ray serene is provided by Loughlin's Dogs, a troupe of trained terriers performing a series of comedy stunts that elicit storms of laughter. Chief of their birth-provoking feats is what might be called a dog "roulette" in which about six or eight terriers strive to keep on a revolving disc that keeps revolving only by the pedal activity of those that stay on. Loughlin's Dogs offer one of the splendid attractions surrounding Morris Gest's splendid dancing spectacle "The Darling of Paris." For next week the management is announcing a double headline offering with "Cheyenne Days," a realistic hit of the wild and woolly West; and a new scene of the annotated comedy drama called "On the Edge of Things" with Homer Miles and Company.—Advertisement.

COUNTRY STORE TO-NIGHT

There are plenty of pleasant surprises in store for those who shop at the country store to-night. Incidentally there will be plenty of fun for all. This popular feature of the Busy Corner theater will be run in connection with the greatest of all dog comedy acts; an original soap bubble novelty and winsome banjoists. A great Vitagraph feature film, "The Hearts of Women" in two parts, featuring Julia Swayne Gordon, will also be a special attraction to-day.—Advertisement.

VICTORIA THEATER

To-day is the extraordinary feature play and the great special feature play of the best New England story and play ever written, "Quincy Adams Sawyer" in four acts, will be shown. It is taken from the old-time story and play by that name. The comedy scenes throughout the entire play are delightful. Other pictures to-day are "The Thief and the Book," two acts, and "Double Crossed." Every Friday special care is taken to give the patrons a program unequalled by any theater in the city.—Advertisement.

FOURTEEN YARDS OF SAUSAGE

Special to The Telegraph
Columbia, Pa., Feb. 6.—Harvey Dambaugh, a farmer residing in Manor township, a short distance east of Columbia, butchered a big hog at his farm and made a sausage that measured exactly forty-two feet in length. This is the largest sausage ever made in Lancaster county and Mr. Dambaugh declares that it was made in one casing.
