KALBFUS WARNS ABOUT TAXIDERMISTS

Law Does Not Permit Indiscriminate Killing of Game Birds in Science's Name

Dr. Joseph Kalbfus, secretary of the State Game Commission, is of the opinion that some western folks are working people in this State for their money in exchange for some certificates which give a fancied right to practice taxidermy. The game protector calls attention in a statement just issued to the fact that people who undertake to kill game birds, except as provided by law, are running a risk and that the plea that it is the name of science will not avail them. In his letter the game officer says: "I write you to-day in a matter of grave importance to our wild birds in Pennsylvania, especially those birds that are classed as wild birds other than game birds, such birds being given protection by our law at all times. It seems that there is an institution in Omaha, Nebraska, known as the Northwest School of Taxidermy. These people are sending broadcast all over Pennsylvania, and I presume over the nation, their circulars showing how they can buy, through the payment of a ten dollar bill to them, may be taught, through the mails, to secure profitable employment through the mounting of birds and animals. "Many of those receiving these circulars do not understand the law of this State; they believe that they have the right to kill, and to mount, and to sell any of the birds of the State that may come their way; they see, through these circulars, a sure way to wealth, and hundreds of young men are throwing away their money in this direction. I say this because, not one of these people can legally kill a wild bird other than a game bird for the purpose of profit. No person can buy or sell or have in possession in this State such birds, or any part thereof, except under a certificate issued by the Game Commission, and the law provides that no certificate of this kind shall issue, unless it be to a person who is a teacher of ornithology in the schools of the Commonwealth, or connected with a public museum. No person can kill birds, except under the provisions of law, and no person can buy or sell certain game birds at any time under our law. The Game Commission, years ago, concluded that enough birds had been destroyed for so-called scientific purposes, and that enough had been written from these killings to answer all the requirements of coming generations. The penalty for killing or having in possession, or selling, game birds is $25.00; the penalty for killing, or having in possession, or selling wild birds other than game birds is $10.00. "I am writing this letter in the hope that the young men receiving

STATE CHARTERS ARE MORE ACTIVE

Western Pennsylvania Figures Extensively in the Latest Letters Patent

Issuance of State charters has taken on renewed activity in the last few days and the lull which occurred in January has passed away. Dauphin Students Will Give Plays at Halifax

Dauphin, Pa., Feb. 13.—The plays given by the Dauphin high school pupils in the Dauphin high school building last Friday and Saturday met with such great favor that the pupils have decided to give the same program of plays in the Royal Theater at Halifax this evening. The following are the plays: "A Scheme That Failed," in one act; "Maidens All Forlorn," in three acts, and "Minstrels in Song and Jokes," in one act. M. C. Hummer, principal of the high school, will accompany the pupils to Halifax.

ORE MINES WILL BE OPERATED

Dillsburg, Pa., Feb. 13.—Ore mines in the hills west of Dillsburg, known as the Marshall ore mines, that have been worked for years by the Junata Foundry and Furnace Company, of Newport, but which have been idle for the past year, will again be operated. Work will begin about March 1. The mines produce a good quality of hematite iron ore. This circular from Omaha will give you more careful consideration before they part with good money, for they are almost sure to get in trouble sooner or later."

THE PASSING SHOW COMMENTED UPON

Newspaper Editors Are Evidently Amused at the Gyration in the Ranks of Democracy

WHITE HOUSE PRIMARIES

Interference of the President Is Apparently Resented Much in This State

Never before in the history of the State was there so much of the interesting and entertaining in politics and the newspapers of Pennsylvania are indulging in many pithy comments upon the passing show. There are a few clippings from editorials of the newspapers:

NOT REALLY WANTED

[Wilkes-Barre Record.] The administration is disappointed because the invitation to business men to express themselves upon the anti-trust measures has not been accepted. The business men have had experience. If they knew their opinions were really wanted, or would have some effect, they would be quick to appear.

MORRIS AND HIS DUNS

[Philadelphia Press.] Of course, the dunning letter sent to Federal officeholders by the Democratic State Committee was not a demand for contributions to the committee. It was merely an invitation to step up to the chief's office and settle under penalty of being blacklisted if they refuse. If they give generously of their pay they will acquire that merit so necessary to promotion under a merit system.

REPUBLICAN EQUALITY

[Altoona Tribune.] Every Republican citizen in Pennsylvania will have an equal chance with his compatriots to vote for his choice for state offices. There will be a fair field for every aspirant and the majority's will should be considered final. In no other way can the solidarity of a party organization be maintained. The other way is the Mexican method of doing things.

HE WILL NEED REST

[Philadelphia Ledger.] Whoever the next Governor is it will take him some time to recover.

THE WHITE HOUSE BLESSING

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.] Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, according to advices from a Washington source distinctly friendly to him, does not expect President Wilson to take any part in the nomination of candidates in the Democratic primaries in Pennsylvania. After what the President has done already why should it be necessary? He started the Palmer-McCormick ticket from the White House with his benediction. If that does not put it on an easy street and insure that it will be ratified by the Democrats of this State, why is a Democratic national administration? It may smack of bossism—indeed, it is the substance of bossism such as has been a subject of complaint by the author of the New Freedom.

JUST MAKING A NOISE

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.] The thought which the daily bulletins from Washington are intended to convey is that A. Mitchell Palmer has been running blithely ever since the White House Pennsylvania nominations were made by the administration. The "dope sheet" literature is that he is merely jumping up and down in one spot to make a noise.

THE DIVIDED DEMOCRATS

[Lock Haven Express.] Republicans see reasons for renewed hope of success in the State contest by reason of the candidacy of Michael J. Ryan for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It is freely predicted that should Mr. Ryan win the nomination the Democratic party will become hopelessly divided, leaving the battle for Governor and other State officers between the other two parties.

LOCAL OPTION AS A STATE ISSUE

[Philadelphia Bulletin.] Increasing activity on the part of no-license forces in many of the counties deserves consideration as of something more than local consequence in the effect it may have on the policies of the license courts. Success or failure in the campaign before the judges, alike serves to nurse the desire for more direct control of the traffic in no-license areas and is steadily aggregating a sentiment which is sure to force recognition of this issue by all parties in the State in the near future. The tide of sentiment in favor of closer governmental restriction of the liquor traffic, whether it be in the form of actual prohibition, or local option, or of more closely drawn license regulation, is sweeping steadily across the country, and, even though its effect is not evident in any diminution of the consumption of alcoholic drinks, but rather is contradicted by the internal revenue figures, the spread of government restraint on the trade cannot be discounted. Pennsylvania cannot avoid the issue, whether it comes in the form of prohibition or of local option, and party leaders must prepare for the inevitable.

PRIMARIES AND BOSSES

[Doylestown Intelligencer.] The Wilson administration of primary election seems to be rather the President to name the candidates, eliminating all others who would enter the field, and then have the people ratify the choice of the national leader of his party by giving the chosen candidates a unanimous vote. This has been shown as the method to be adopted in Pennsylvania this year, at least.

NOT "UNCONSCIOUS CEREBRATION"

[From the Fall Mall Gazette.] Referring to "The Borrowed Sermon" "The Talk of the Town," I would mention, writes a Fall Mall Gazette reader, that about fifty years ago the then vicar of a Berkshire parish had a particular drawer in his study full of old sermons, which his curates were allowed to take out and read. On one particular Sunday one of his two curates, having preached one of these sermons at the morning service, was secretly amused to hear his brother curate preach the same in the afternoon. Both, however, were horrified when they heard their vicar preach the said sermon a third time at the evening service. This is quite true.

Strengthen Your Lungs Is Timely Advice

when consumption claims over 350 daily in the United States. Neglected colds, overwork, confining duties and chronic disorders exert the weakening influence which allows tubercular germs the mastery.

The greatest treatment that science affords is courage, rest, sunshine and Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil to clarify and enrich the blood, strengthen the lungs, rebuild wasted tissue and fortify the resistive forces to throw off disease germs.

Strengthen YOUR lungs with Scott's Emulsion—its benefits are too important to neglect.

Physicians everywhere proclaim its worth and warn against alcoholic substitutes.
