Carpenters Withdraws From Trade Department

By Associated Press

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—By a referendum vote the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America decided to withdraw from the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, it was announced at the headquarters of the union here to-day by William L. Hutcheson, first vice-president. James, Kirby, president of the union, was not in the city. It was explained that the action would go into effect immediately, but that it in no way would affect the membership of the carpenters' organization in the American Federation of Labor.

In making the announcement Mr. Hutcheson also stated that the carpenters' union in this city had with drawn from the Marion County Building Trades Council.

The vote, as announced, was 40,792 in favor of withdrawing and 13,228 against the proposition. No explanation for the small vote was given. America decided to withdraw from the

Six Diving Girls Must Have Water and Here's

How The Question Is Solved'

Ever since the management of the Orpheum announced that it was having a hard time deciding the cheapest way to fill the big tank in which six diving girls are to make a plunge Monday afternoon, and every other afternoon and evening during the week, numerous suggestions have been made. The one decided upon as most feasible is to have a bucket brigade of twenty men carry the water from the river. They will start Monday morning.

One suggestion was to heat the theater so fercely over Sunday that the snow on the roof would meit and run down the spout, then it could be steered into the tank. But enough steam to the tank but enough steam to do that would cost more than the fact.

Another suggestion was to cart the snow down from Capitol Park and there's and the real to feel the stank in which and a devertisement.

shop Destroyed Yesterday Afternoon

Special to The Telegraph

Marietta, Pa., Feb. 14.—Late yesterday afternoon the large coach and wagon works of Martin Baldwin and the smithshop of his brother, Franklin Baldwin, at New Providence, this county, were destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $10,000. The fiames were first discovered in the trimming room on the second floor and are thought to have originated from an overheated stove. The building was a two-story frame and was soon enveloped in flames, which communicated to the adjoining smithshop, and both were quickly destroyed. The home of Martin Baldwin, across the yard and only a short distance away, was saved with difficulty.

Seventeen entirely new wagons and a number of old ones were burned, only a few being saved. A big stock of materials was carried, all of which was totally destroyed, as well as tools, machinery, etc.

Good Citizenship League Warns Merchants That "Blue Laws" Will Be Enforced

A joint committee from the Steelton Merchants' Association and the Good Citizenship League began in earnest this morning to agitate the observance the law creating the bureau places of the old Sunday "Blue Laws."

The Rev. Harwick Arthur Lollis The regulations prepared provided chairman of the committee, visited that any person of good moral charday and left a letter for the proprie In this letter it was explained why the stores were requested to close Sundays and an offer was made to explain the laws to anyone who didn't understand them.

With the letter was a copy of the laws relating to Sunday observance and it was intimated that any dealer who failed to comply with the com-mittee's request would be prosecuted

The letter follows:

To the Business People of Steelton: A movement has been started in this borough to secure a better observance of Sunday. This has the sympathy and support of the better people of Steelton. The Pennsylvania Steel Company, upon whose well being the prosperity of Steelton depends, keeps its Sunday work at the lowest practical minimum; the Merchants' Association has appointed a co-operating committee, Messrs. Aalph Eckels, Bert Lord, William Maginnis, Fred Reehling and G. M. Long: the churches are all in favor of it; a Good Citizenship League has been formed, one of whose objects is to secure it; and so we are appealing to you to assist in this matter. We are asking all people who have been in the habit of keeping their places of business open on Sunday, with the exception of those allowed by law, to keep them closed on and after March first, "Go to Church Sunday," in this section.

The members of the committee from the Merchants' Association and from the league will be glad to confer with any who wish to consult them. It is hoped that no prosecution will be necessary, but at the same time arrangements will be made to take care of such cases as come before the league for action. To the Business People of ments will be made to take care of such cases as come before the league for action.

Thanking you in advance for your co-operation, enclosing a copy of the law for your guidance, I remain,
Yours very sincerely,
Harwick Arthur Lollis,

Little Damage Caused at Steelton by Storm

At Steelton by Storm

At Steelton, although the trolley service was hampered and difficulty was experienced in keeping the streets open, no serious damage was done by the big snowstorm.

Around the big plant of the Pennsylvania Steel Company many gangs of extra men were kept at work sweeping switches and keeping things moving in the yards. Otherwise the storm was but little felt. No accidents were reported and all departments were working as usual.

Street Commissioner Meshey had his men out early and had the streets and all crossings cleared early. Burgess Fred Wigheld repeated his order to have all pavements cleared of snow and ice within twenty-for hours and most residents are obeying.

Down in the lower end of Steelton, in the midst of the foreign section, the storm was felt the most.

Elaborate ceremonies attended the conferring last evening of the third degree upon a large class of candidates by Steelton Lodge, No. 184, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, in its hall in the Steelton Trust building, An elaborate luncheon closed the meeting.

rector, is to be permitted to have the keys and return to the church to conduct services.

To-morrow's ceremonies, however, will be presided over by a Philadelphia rector, who will come here for the purpose.

The latest phases of Steelton's factional church squabble developed today, when the answer of Trevin Trepsic, Petar Jokonovic, Skanto Velinia, Jura Aralica, Sam Ivosevic and others to the equity bill filed against them by the deposed rector and some of his friends was placed on record. O. G. Wickersham, William Houseman and Wickersham & Metzger are counsel for the respondents. Vuchevich a few days ago filed the bill asking that he be allowed to keep his job.

Among other things, the answer sets forth that the priest was hired at a salary of $100 per month, but violated his contract by accepting "rake-offs" for officiating at "cake cuttings, blessing of water and other ceremonies"; that he tried to overcharge a bridegroom $3 when about to perform a marriage ceremony, and that this is what brought the trouble to a climax and resulted in his being ousted from his job. It is further alleged that he didn't hold services properly. Finally, Peter Kesevan and Mlanda Colovan declared they were named as plaintiffs with the rector without their knowledge or consent.
