

PHOTOGRAPHS THAT SHOW HOW RIVERTON CONSOLIDATED WATER COMPANY HAS SPENT ITS MONEY TO GIVE PEOPLE OF WEST SHORE TOWNS PURE WATER

THE Riverton Consolidated Water Company has, since its organization, expended something like $500,000 in an effort to give Camp Hill and other West Shore towns pure filtered water in unlimited supplies. Its rates are not based on any desire or attempt to hold up its patrons. All that it is asking is a rate that will give it a fair return on the vast amount of money invested. The pictures presented herewith illustrate beyond the power of words the effort the company is making to serve its customers as they should be served. No effort has been saved to give them water second to none in the State. The etching of the old pumping station shows the first development of the company at Wormleysburg, where raw river water was pumped into the mains and reservoirs. Afterward, when it was found necessary to filter the water, this station was used to distribute water bought from the city of Harrisburg, the filtered product being brought under the river from the island to the pumping station and thence to the Washington Heights reservoir. The picture of the filter plant and pumping station at New Cumberland illustrates the measures the company has since taken to filter its own water. This station is located on the site of the old Ross Mill on the York county side of the Yellow Breeches creek and the photograph also shows the large dam from which the raw water is drawn. Thousands of dollars have been expended to make this plant as efficient as modern science can provide and the company is not afraid at any time to have expert comparison made between the quality of water it turns out with that from the noted filter plant at Harrisburg. The view of the sedimentation basin shows how the raw water is received by the filters for the first step of filtration. The interior view of the plant shows only a comparatively small portion of the elaborate equipment, said to be one of the most modern and complete in the State for its size. The standpipe at Washington Heights, which is sixty feet high, is situated on one of the highest promontories in the lower end of Cumberland county and was erected at large cost in order that Camp Hill and other towns supplied would have at all times a proper flow and adequate pressure. It holds nothing but the purest filtered water. The Washington Heights reservoir has capacity of 500,000 gallons, is lined with concrete, recently re-constructed, and is also located on the hilltop back of the river. The Boyer reservoir has a capacity of 1,500,000 gallons and is located in Fairview township, York county, and the Haldeman reservoir, with a capacity of 1,000,000 gallons, is located in the same township. All are of concrete, recently re-constructed, and are also located on the West Shore. The total investment for filter plants, concrete reservoirs, pumping stations, standpipes and about 40 miles of pipe is, as has been said, about a half million dollars. It is the desire of the company first to give its patrons the best water obtainable in quantities sufficient to meet their needs. In the second place the company wants to serve its customers as cheaply as possible, at the same time setting aside funds to cover deterioration of plant, sinking fund and interest on bonds and a proper return to investors.—Advertisement.

Held For Threatening President Wilson's Life

Special to The Telegraph
Newark, N. J., Feb. 21.—George Bernhardt, a cook, was arrested yesterday in West Orange, a suburb, charged with writing threatening letters to President Wilson. The post office inspectors traced to Bernhardt letters signed "God's Son," which have been mailed to the President for three months past from Newark and neighboring towns. The writer complained of hard times and threatened death to the President and destruction to the city of Washington. The police say Bernhardt escaped three years ago from an insane asylum near Philadelphia. He was held in default of $1,000 bail to await action of the Federal court.

ASK SCHOOL BOARD TO BOOST APPROPRIATION

4,153 and in February to the 19th, inclusive, 2,159. The number of readers at the library in January was 4,404, of whom about 54 per cent, or 2,389 were children. The readers in February to the 19th, inclusive was 2,221 of whom 789 were children, the inclement weather preventing the usual attendance in the last week. The registration from January 1 to February 19, inclusive, was 5,439, of which 1,376 were of children, the parents signing for each child. Estimating 75,000 as the population of Harrisburg this registration is better than 1 in 15 with the library in use only a month and a half. The registration is bound to increase as in many cities the size of Harrisburg it runs 1 in 5. Increased registration means increased demand for books and therefore of expense. The library is in need of books for children, less than 400 of the 2,000 of that class remaining on the shelves to-day. The expenses of the library can be estimated upon the experience of the first month, the total cost of the library, including the book service 11,888. The standard authority on library work in the United States, the "American Library," by Bostwick, gives on page 132, 6 cents as the minimum cost of circulation of a book and 10 cents as the maximum. Taking the January figures the service of the Harrisburg public library shows a cost of less than 4-3 cents per book."

Mouth hygiene was discussed and it was decided to investigate the question of establishing a system in the schools. In order that all possible data may be obtained on the subject the board appointed a committee consisting of President Boyer, Dr. F. E. Downes, city superintendent, and D. D. Hammelbaugh, secretary, to confer with the Harrisburg Dental Society on the matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowman Give Dinner at Berwin Park

Special to The Telegraph
Lebanon, Pa., Feb. 21.—Last evening the handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Leighton G. Bowman, of Berwin Park, was the scene of a happy and rather unique affair when they entertained a party of friends at a fine dinner at their home. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Hench, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde P. Love, of Harrisburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Weirick, of this city. In connection with the dinner, the affair also served as a reunion inasmuch as this was the first time that the Harrisburgers and Mr. and Mrs. Bowman have been together since their trip to the Pacific coast last August and September, when they went to San Francisco, Cal., with a special Pullman train of Shriners and Knights Templar conducted in California. Mr. Love and Mr. Hench are prominent Masons and Knights Templar of the State Capitol. Mr. Love is a past officer in several of the Masonic organizations of Harrisburg. He is a well-known passenger conductor on the Pennsylvania railroad. The visitors arrived here in the afternoon and were met at the Reading depot by Messrs. Bowman and Weirick, who escorted them to Berwin Park. Yesterday afternoon Messrs. Love and Hench were also shown through the

Letters to the Editor

THE LITERACY TEST

To the Editor of The Telegraph:
In your editorial of February 18, you say all good Americans will approve the reported intention of President Wilson to veto the new immigration bill if it comes to him with the literacy clause attached.

Do the readers of your paper, myself included, understand by this that our National Congress at Washington, who passed this bill by a 252 to 128, precisely a two-third vote, and all people who favor it are not good Americans?

I, for one, will say all good Americans favor the bill as passed.

We could not expect anything but a veto from President Wilson, judging him by his past actions.

It seems very strange that you wish the literacy test omitted for fear it might bar the father of a Lincoln from our shores. We will admit that there is a very large number of illiterate emigrants who possess good character, a strong body and a determination to get there. But the great majority are under the illiterate yoke in their native land, and after landing on our shores fail to take advantage of our educational institutions, consequently they fall back under the same illiterate yoke.

Many of them are opposed to our free schools, free speech, free press, and our Republican form of government.

There is not to be a hidden purpose of foreign influence back of it all. Hoping you will give this space in your valuable paper.

Yours for the bill,
A CONSTANT READER.

PLANS FIGHT AGAINST DISEASE
Washington, Feb. 21.—Contending that it was just as proper for the federal government to spend money to eradicate malaria and typhoid fever as to investigate the cattle tick, hog cholera, or dourine in horses, Senator Ransdell to-day introduced a bill to appropriate $500,000 to fight malaria and typhoid.

Know Mrs. Newlywed? Well's She's Going to Be Here Next Week

Do you know Mrs. Newlywed? Of course you know the girl around the corner who was married not long ago, and who, with her husband, has been dubbed "the newlyweds" by the neighbors, but we mean—

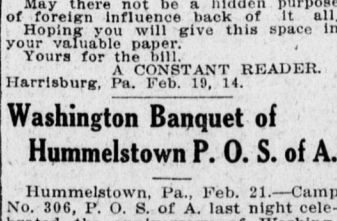

Do you know the real Mrs. Newlywed, who lives in the Sunday newspapers, and who has such beautiful hair, and — oh yes — the mother of Snookums?

The Mrs. Newlywed of the Sunday comic section is a creature of the imagination of George McManus, one of the best known newspaper artists in the world, and to Mrs. McManus belongs the credit for the inspiration that brought about the successful caricature model for Mrs. Newlywed, and next week Mrs. McManus is going to be in Harrisburg. She is a sister of Mrs. Knute Erickson, who with her husband, comedy act, and Mrs. McManus will spend the week here with her relatives.—Advertisement.

WHO LOSES?

When you read announcements of five dollar glasses for one dollar just stop and think.

When I sell a frame or mounting for 50c, $1.00 or $3.50, it is worth all of the price I ask.

When I make a pair of lenses for $1.50, $2.50 or $10.00 a pair they are worth all of the price I ask.

When I examine your eyes I charge you $1.00. My service would be cheap at $5.00. I don't sell you a pair of glasses for $5.00 or $10.00 to ruin your eyes, if you don't need them. You pay me for my service. The "eyes examined free" man makes his profit. Think it over.

Stabbing Affray in Penitentiary Fatal to Man Serving Life Term

By Associated Press
Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Stabbed in the breast after a quarrel with a fellow prisoner, John Ballou, 28 years, who was serving a life sentence in the Eastern Penitentiary for murder, died to-day in the prison hospital. His assailant was Joseph Roe, alias Lawrence Zittel.

The stabbing occurred on Tuesday and came as a climax of a quarrel between the two men who were employed in the tailor shop of the jail. The weapon used was a pair of shears. Roe was brought to the penitentiary from the Huntingdon Reformatory. He was sent to the latter institution because he was incorrigible and was transferred after he had reached 21 years of age.
