

Man, 78, Makes Appeal For Old Men Who Are Refused Employment

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—An appeal for the establishment of "young old men's" associations throughout the country to aid in finding employment for elderly men who have been barred from securing work simply because of their gray hairs is contained in a letter received to-day by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, resident commissioner of the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations. The communication was from George W. Crossett, 78 years of age, honorary president of the Young Old Men's Association of Cleveland, Ohio, and relates what has been done by that organization to help those who have lost their positions because they "look old."

"The story of the gray-haired man, strong, able and willing, being denied even a hearing because he looks old," says Mr. Crossett, "is one of the world's tragedies. Elderly men who have been laid aside only because their hair is gray are entitled to some consideration. A man is as old as he feels, and in our association we have many men who still feel young and capable. Our list of men seeking employment includes men fitted for every line of industry, and a like association should be organized in every large city."

Car Tries to Make a Potpie of Contents of Grocer's Sleigh

Car No. 504 of the Paxtang line started to make a potpie with the contents of the delivery sleigh of John S. Lutz & Son, grocers, 1852 Derry street, this morning, and nearly succeeded. The sleigh, driven by Ira F. Brehm, 1834 Berryhill street, was standing in the westbound track in front of the store when the car came along. There are high snow banks at that point and the big suburban car began to slide despite the efforts of the driver.

Brehm saw the car approaching, but before he could turn out of the way the sleigh was bumped and ground against the snow bank. The sleigh leaped and the horse tore himself loose. The animal was caught at Seventeenth street.

A miscellaneous collection of meat, chickens, butter, potatoes, onions and other groceries, together with a big bag of salt and a liberal portion of ground coffee, was scattered over the tracks and against the car. By the time the car was stopped there was precious little salvage left.

COSTLY SLEIGHING ACCIDENT

Special to The Telegraph. Waynesboro, Pa., Feb. 21.—Mrs. Bare, of Five Forks, while attempting to cross the trolley track in West Main street in a sleigh yesterday, met with a mishap that proved costly. The sleigh was overturned and a basket containing eight dozen eggs was thrown out, breaking every egg in the lot. Mrs. Bare escaped injury.

GAUGE ONLY POINT DISPUTED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Conferees representing both houses of Congress to-day began smoothing out differences on the Alaskan Railway bill. An early agreement was in prospect, as the gauge of the proposed government road was the only point in serious dispute.

LIVERY HORSE TOO SPEEDY, HE DECLARES

Traveling Salesman Was Thrown Out in Runaway, Sues Liveryman's Executrix

Nearly two years ago Harry H. Gordon, a traveling salesman, hired a team from James M. Neely, liveryman. He drove to Steelton and on the way back the horse became unmanageable and ran off. Gordon was thrown out and rather painfully battered — so much as in fact that he had to put in a couple of months at the hospital. Gordon contends that the horse was vicious and unmanageable and that the liveryman knew it when he hired it out, and that as a result of the liveryman's negligence he had to go to a lot of expenses for physicians' bills, etc.

Suit was filed to-day in trespass against the liveryman's executrix, Grace M. Neely. The liveryman died more than a year ago. John Fox Weiss and W. Harry Musser are counsel for Gordon.

Stuber, 1618 North Fifth street, $2,200; C. Lyter's heirs to Leon S. Marshall, Halifax, $2,600; C. M. Forney to William Cordry, Paxtang, $1.

Protests Against Executors' Sale of Property.—In an equity bill filed to-day, W. J. Carter, counsel for C. Duncan Cameron, asks that Isaac I. Wingert, executor for the William V. Starlipper estate, be restrained from the sale of Nos. 1933-37 State street, pending an inquiry into the disposition of the estate of Starlipper in accordance with the terms of his will. February 23 is the date fixed for the hearing.

County Government in U. S. Inadequate, Says Report

New York, Feb. 21.—The present system of county government in the United States is inadequate, obsolete and vicious, in the opinion of a bureau of the State comptroller's office which has just completed a three years' study of the subject. "The county system permits of too many irregular and illegal practices," says a report by the chief of the bureau. "The board of supervisors has too wide a power; it should either be abolished or curbed. The county financial department is almost invariably careless and dishonest. The county jail is generally a veritable hotbed of vice and crime."

SNOW HOLDS UP GARBAGE COLLECTION IN CITY

So far back have the garbage collectors become because of the snow that they will have to take two days of next week to finish the uptown district, and will not start on the Allison Hill district until Wednesday of next week.

Rather than have the schedule continue behind, it was this morning to clear up the district in which the collectors have been working, and put extra men and carts on next week to catch up with the schedule.

When an Artist Paints a Picture, What Happens?

It is hung in a gallery, and comparatively few people get any good from it. Look at Mr. Widener's $700,000 "Madonna." For most of us she simply doesn't exist.

The man who makes it possible for anybody to view a picture is greater than the artist who paints it. The man who invented printing is greater than Shakespeare because he brings Shakespeare within reach of us all. The man who invented the Intaglio press has done for pictures what printing has done for words. It is the best method of multiplying good pictures without hunting those very qualities which make them good pictures.

The Public Ledger brought two Intaglio presses from Germany. The best pictures at Philadelphia's Greatest Art Exhibition, The Pennsylvania Academy, have been printed on these Presses and made into a superb Art Section. This Section will be one, and only one, of many reasons why you should buy tomorrow's

Coasters' Narrow Escape From Death at Dauphin

Special to The Telegraph.
Dauphin, Pa., Feb. 21.—Yesterday Max Williams, of Dauphin, a boy about 17 years old, narrowly escaped death by running into the pillar of a porch. He has, it is said, the fastest sled in this part of the State. With several playmates on the sled they were coming at a very rapid rate, say witnesses, when there was a quick snap and the steering gear broke. The sled ran straight for the porch. Young Williams stayed with his sled and as he was in front he came in contact with the post. Young Williams fell to the pavement, but he was picked up and immediately revived. He received a badly bruised leg and the sled was smashed to splinters. Williams was the only one hurt on the sled, though the clothing of the others was badly torn. Williams is a student in the Harrisburg business college and a great participator of sports.

Exactly two years ago his brother, Frank, had his skull fractured under identically the same circumstances and with the same sled.
