A MAYOR'S LONG TALK

For half an hour the Mayor decried the action of Commissioners Bowman, Lynch and Taylor in forcing the dismissal of his policemen. He declared the whole purpose of the resolution was to "get at" members of his force.

In conclusion the Mayor read an affidavit from James Mitchell, one of the policemen dismissed a few weeks ago, in which Mitchell sets forth that he inquired of Commissioner Lynch, father of the legislation, as to whether there was anything in the way of charges for inefficiency or incapacity to be preferred against him. Lynch told him, so the affidavit says, that "there was nothing against him personally, but that he wasn't straight" and "regular" and that he didn't need to worry as he would soon have lots of company."

In reply Mr. Lynch declared that "there isn't anything criminal about that, that he can't see."

The Mayor and Commissioner Lynch had several lively tilts, particularly when Lynch called attention to the dismissal of the Mayor's highway commissioner, Elmer E. Fritchey.

The Mayor charged him with having in mind a plan to appoint a chief inspector after April 1 who will fill practically the same position as a highway commissioner whereas he, Lynch, had declared to the Mayor that he dismissed Fritchey because he believed he could do the work himself.

Lynch Makes Return Charge

"But," added Commissioner Lynch coolly, "if I do appoint such an official, he'll be competent and efficient and he won't be appointed for political reasons."

Among the charges Mayor Royal made against certain of the new police appointees, whom, however, he failed to name, were gambling and mortal sinfulness. More of the unqualified statements that have been made from time to time during the councilmanic controversies developed there.

The Mayor "Has Heard"

"Why," declared the Mayor, "I have heard—now I don't know whether there is any truth of this or not—but I've heard that one of the officers brought down the wrath of the powers that be upon his head because he had arrested a relative of one of the city officials."

Commissioners Bowman, Lynch, Taylor and Gorgas looked perfectly blank. For a moment there was silence.

"A relative?" asked Commissioner Taylor.

"Who can't that be, Mayor?" asked Commissioner Lynch.

"Surely," grinned Commissioner Bowman, "it couldn't have been Cousin Jim." James H. Grove, Building Inspector, is a cousin of Mr. Bowman.

"Well," mildly resumed the Mayor, "I'm only giving you what I've heard."

Taylor Objects to "Hearsay"

Commissioner Taylor declared that he didn't want to hear these allegations unless they were substantiated with proof. "Everything is 'it's said' and 'you heard,' " he said. "Why not give us something to back it up?" Taylor suggested.

"Mr. Mayor," interrupted Commissioner Bowman, "I can say here that if any of these charges are true and it can be shown that the appointees are not fit to serve, or that they disobey your orders or those of the chief of police, I willingly promise you my vote to support their dismissal."

"Why there's no question about that," endorsed Commissioner Lynch. "We'll all do that."

Taylor Wants "Fair Play"

In pleading for "fair play" from the people of Harrisburg in the he is permitted to have a chance to conduct his defense, and at the office to which he was elected by the people, Commissioner Taylor said:

"There is a certain prominent gentleman that I think who in announcing his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor, states his first plank:

"If elected I will be Governor."

"I think that should be corrected by the people with election to the office of Councilman and commissioner of parks, why not give me a chance to tell that off?"

In full Mr. Taylor's statement follows:

Taylor's Statement

"I rise to a question of personal privilege, Mr. President.

"During the past week a great deal of newspaper comment and criticism in the form of news items and editorials has been directed toward myself and my colleagues and myself, with the evident purpose and intent of influencing our official action on the measure now before this body relating to the dismissals and appointments of certain subordinate officers and employees. Perhaps the great proportion of these comments and criticisms has been aimed at me alone on ac-sing Forrer and appointing J. R. Hoffert in his stead.

The commissioner touched on the method in which books and reports were kept in the commission's offices, hinted at the manner in which plants and trees had been given to other nurseries, and concluded his remarks with a prayer for fair play on the part of Harrisburg citizens. He said he wanted a chance to make good as park commissioner and didn't think he should be condemned before he had that chance.

He didn't mean to be considered as charging dishonesty, he said, but inefficiency and looseness in the conduct of the department.

Again and again the shouts of the children filled the Courthouse corridors while Mr. Taylor read his statement.

Mayor Royal defended Forrer and replied to the charges of Taylor. He referred to the books in the office and to letters to substantiate his defense.

When the vote was called for, Mayor Royal and Commissioner Gorgas voted against the resolution and Commissioners Bowman, Lynch and Taylor voted for it.

Charges Against Shuman

After an hour's wordy battle between Mayor Royal and Commissioners Lynch, Bowman and Taylor, during which Mayor made sensational charges against W. H. Shuman, proposed appointment of W. H. Shuman as a member of the new city council.

Commissioner Gorgas' amendment to withhold the name of Shuman pending an investigation.

Among other things the Mayor hinted that Hiram Wagner, who may be deposed for Shuman, had been hindered in his attempts to learn the whereabouts of the police patrol by "tampering" with the men, to whom he said he was a drinking man.

Shuman had openly used profane language about the Mayor and had declared that he meant to get back on the force because he had "three Commissioners" back of him.

Other charges of a sensational character were made against other patrolmen, but no names were mentioned.

Prior to the offering of the Shuman-Wagner amendment, Mayor Royal offered an amendment substituting the names of the present officers of his force dropped by the "ripper" for the new appointees. This was voted down by 3 to 2.

Another amendment offered by the Mayor, providing for the substitution of Spicer for Halbert as assistant fire chief was voted down 3 to 2.
