MR. AND MRS. KUNKEL INFORMALLY AT HOME

Receive Officers and Teachers of Reformed Salem Church and Sunday School

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Kunkel entertained informally last evening at their residence, 1607 North Second street, the officers and teachers of the Reformed Salem Church and the Sunday school, of which Mr. Kunkel is superintendent.

The guest of honor was the Rev. Dr. H. M. J. Klein, of Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, who made an address on "Adapting Oneself to the Spirit of Church Work." The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Ellis N. Kremer, was also present and spoke briefly.

During a delightfully social evening refreshments were served with Mrs. George Kunkel and Mrs. Edwin C. Thompson presiding at the table. Assisting were the young ladies of Mrs. Kunkel's teachers' training class of the church. The decorations were of jonquils, narcissus and branches of pussy willows.

The guests included Mrs. H. M. J. Klein, of Lancaster; Judge and Mrs. George Kunkel, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Bowman, Jacob M. Crull, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dasher, Robert Deisroth, William B. Deisroth, William E. Block, Percy Patton and Raymond Hoerner.

A Cheap Ticket and a Free Map and Pictures All About the Big West and Northwest Country

It used to cost a lot of money to go out West on the railroad, but it doesn't any more—not on the C. & P. Railroad, anyway.

You can get a special cheap ticket to most any place in the far West or Northwest. Just write me and I will tell you how.

I will send you a map of the country, too, and interesting printed stuff with pictures that tell just exactly what you want to know about the country.

The railroad pays me to do this and it don't cost you a cent. You'll be glad to get this information anyway whether you decide to go or not. So get busy and write me to-day and tell me where you want to go.

Hot Tea Breaks a Cold—Try This

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or, as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, pour a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Advertisement.

TELEGRAPH CRITIC HEARS CANNED MUSIC

Undaunted by Weather Delights in Another Pianola-Victrola Recital

No weather could be less alluring than that of last night to attract people from the warm rooms at home and attempt the attacks of the icy fingers of Jack Frost and the slippery pavements, and it might be mentioned that when yesterday morning broke the weather was only two degrees above nothing. The weather, however, did not dismay those music-lovers who gathered at the music room of C. M. Sigler, 30 North Second street, to listen to a pianola-victrola recital, which in common ordinary English means music extracted from two kinds of machines.

The concert opened with two solos by George Sutton, a well-known baritone, who first gave the "Two Grenadiers," and followed it with "Down Among the Dead Men," an old English Jacobite song, which, under the swing of his glorious baritone voice, made one see pictures of the gay roysterers who looked upon life with the carelessness to be stimulated with was-sail and song.

While Mr. Sutton sang he was accompanied by C. E. Bard upon a pianola, which looks like a piano, but the performer produced the sounds by striking his feet, after the manner of a good housewife at a sewing machine, and used his hands on the levers to give that expression which shows the difference between a real interpreter of a piece of music and the mechanical technique of an untrained amateur.

The victrola resembles an old-fashioned hamper, and as one read the program that Pryor's band would give selections from the program he felt in sympathy with the young freshman whom the upper classmen were hazing and was faced by the conventional ghost clad in white, who said in sepulchral tones, "I am thy father's ghost," to which the freshman replied, "But rather a second-class shot of a liar as my father is not dead."

When the attendant gave several twirls to the crank and the strains of music burst forth, it only needed to close one's eyes and Pryor's band appeared before the eyes. Pryor waving his baton to show the crowd that his band should rise to crescendo and then fall to diminuendo. These musical phrases are introduced here to show that the critic is not a fortissimo, if necessary, and persons who do not exactly grasp the meaning can attend the next concert, where they can learn them after the manner devised by Mr. Pryor, of the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. Squeers explained to the audience the proper spelling of the aperture covered with glass that admits light to an apartment is "winder," he admonished the crowd to go wash the windows in the kitchen and not to forget the lesson, upon which the pedagogue sagely observed: "Thus is taught at the same time lessons in spelling and industry."

From the pianola, the active feet of Mr. Bard produced a rendition by Paderewski of "Minuet Op. 14, No. 1," and by going through the blind man's method mentioned in connection with Pryor, one could picture as he wove the notes on the score into the most delightful music. It never was plain what "Op." meant, but possibly in case you had fourteen options to decide whether you like the piece. The whole program was a pleasant one and thoroughly enjoyed, the last treat being the playing of a Harrisburg instrument, that is one made and cooked" around his walls as an attraction, and therefore a home-made piano should be of interest to the citizens of Harrisburg. The growing industry of the family can sit down to it, and with her hands bring out those discordant notes that distinguish the early playing of childhood, and after father has heard enough he can sit down at the instrument and with his feet and the adjacent levers architecturally construct a rendition of the finest composition in a way that will make the rendition of the same piece by the hands of the average amateur look undesirable as a plate of "cold buckwheats" compared to waffles and chicken fresh from the cook.

Mrs. David Horn, Jr., of the Donaldson apartments, led yesterday for Philadelphia to be the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Archibald Campbell Eglin.

LEAGUE HEARS TALES OF DEAR HEROES

Story Tellers' League Led Last Evening by Miss Ethel Fair

With the subject "Hero Stories," another interesting meeting of the Story Tellers' League was held last evening at the Public Library. Miss Ethel Fair was in charge, and explained the origin of Hero tales. Four of the stories told were of type of hero who embodied the ideals of his people, coming up from the ancient Greek to the Middle Ages.

The story of "Perseus," taken from Kingsley, was related by Miss Fair; "Echo and Narcissus," from Bulfinch was told by Miss Claire Bashore while Miss Mary Rudy gave "David and Goliath," Lafcadio Hearn's dramatic "Burning of the Rice Fields" was narrated by Miss Helen Carruthers, and the "Life and Character of Charlemagne" was discussed by Miss Carolyn Reiley.

The next meeting of the league will be held March 10. The subject will be "Opera" and the leader, Miss Martha E. Fleming.

Temperance Institute Will Open on Thursday

A "Temperance Institute" arranged by the East Harrisburg W. C. T. U. will be held in the Fourth Reformed Church, Sixteenth and Market streets, to-morrow afternoon evening. The first session will begin at 2 o'clock with the general subject "Missions Co-operative." A discussion of departmental work and "Temperance Progress" will follow. Mrs. C. E. Reile will read "Silly" Sunday's famous sermon on "Booze" and at the close of the service a business meeting of the county executive committee will be held.

Suffrage Card Party Is a Great Success

The suffrage card party given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. S. F. Dunkle, corner of Nineteenth and Perry streets, was a most delightful affair. There were twenty-five tables and $40 was netted for the society. "Votes for Women" playing cards were used and souvenirs in the form of the Pennsylvania suffrage stamps were given the guests.

The Misses Fraelich Entertain Musical Co.

Following a theater party at the Colonial, Monday evening, the Misses Maud and Ada Fraelich entertained at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fraelich, 1012 North Third street, in honor of Miss Greta Webster, of the Tourist Musical Comedy Company, playing at that theater. Music and songs were featured with pleasure with a late buffet supper. The table decorations were of Spring blossoms. To the regret of the party, Miss Webster was taken suddenly with an attack of appendicitis, and was removed to the Harrisburg Hospital, where she is doing nicely.

Loyal Ladies' Class Rides to Hummelstown

The Loyal Ladies' class taught by Mrs. W. O. Miller in St. Paul's Methodist Church went to Hummelstown last evening for a sleighride, and were entertained there at the home of Mrs. Siders with a supper. The party included Mrs. J. J. Kistler, Mrs. Lyman Kistler, Mrs. Harry McCrea, Mrs. Selbert McCrea, Miss Ruth McCrea, Mrs. Showaker, Mrs. Lillian McCrea, Mrs. Harry Kline, Mrs. Lillie Miller, Mrs. Hiney and Mrs. Gilbert.
