

BENTON INCIDENT IS PRACTICALLY CLOSED; MURDER UNAVENGED

President Wilson Allows Villa and Carranza to Halt Planned Inquiry

CARRANZA TO INVESTIGATE

Committee's Work Would Be Useless, It Is Said, Because of Body's Decomposition

Washington, D. C., March 4.—General Carranza's announcement that he had appointed a special commission to investigate the recent execution by General Villa of William S. Benton, a British subject, coupled with the declaration from Great Britain that she would not look to the United States for action as a result of the incident, was generally accepted to-day as meaning the abandonment of the expedition of American and British representatives who were to have gone to Chihuahua to examine Benton's body.

There is every reason to believe that Great Britain has closed the Benton case for the present, though she has reserved the right to exact reparation in the future. England's withdrawal at this time and Carranza's determination to investigate the Benton killing of his own accord will put the United States, it is believed, in the position of a patient observer of developments, with no present necessity for further inquiry into the Benton episode.

Test of Authority The decision of Carranza to ferret out the truth of the Benton execution will mean a test of his authority over General Villa, according to many officials here, and will further demonstrate whether the constitutionalists intend to afford protection to foreigners and make reparation for injury done them.

One of the reasons why there is little tendency to press the inquiry on the part of the United States or Great Britain is the fact that Benton's body already has decomposed considerably and evidence of a conclusive character as yet undisclosed has been in the hands of officials for several days.

Next steps in the situation seemed to depend on General Carranza. His declaration that the United States has no right to inquire about the welfare of any foreign subjects but her own will not be accepted by the Washington government. Carranza's friends here were hopeful to-day that he would eventually alter his position on this point and reveal a friendly attitude toward the United States.

Concerned Over Others While pressure that had been expected from Great Britain over the Benton case has been removed, the American government is much concerned over the reported murder of Gustav Baugh and Clement Argerva, Americans, the one by Constitutionalists and the other by Mexican Federalists. Demands for information in each case have gone forth from the State Department. It is expected also that messages will be received by American consular agents to General Carranza making representations on behalf of Spanish subjects. George C.

Civic Club Committee Chairman Points Out How Law Has Worked Out in Wilkes-Barre

Mrs. A. L. Martin, wife of the Deputy State Secretary of Agriculture, who is chairman of the special committee of the Harrisburg Civic Club on "curfew" legislation in this city, this afternoon in a statement to the Telegraph pointed out that Harrisburg is not too large for a law prohibiting children from the streets after a certain hour at night.

"One glaring example of the fallacy of the argument that Harrisburg is too large a city for such a law is that Wilkes-Barre, a larger city than Harrisburg, has had such a law in operation for nearly fifteen years. According to the figures of the last United States census, Harrisburg has some 64,000 odd population, while Wilkes-Barre has 57,000 odd."

VICTIM OF WRECK AT ENOLA POSTPONES BRINGING WIFE HERE Colleen He Married Before Sailing Away From Home Land Was to Come to America Soon

Over in Belfast, Ireland, the young wife of Edward McCurdy, of West Fairview, is awaiting the day when she will receive a letter telling her that her young husband has saved enough for her to join him in this city.

McCurdy lies on a cot at the Harrisburg Hospital with his left hand amputated above the wrist, and his face and body covered with cuts and bruises. He was in the cabin which was smashed yesterday morning in the Enola yards when a draft of cars started by the heavy winds dashed into it, killing W. L. Lenker and injuring McCurdy.

McCurdy came to this country less than two years ago. Shortly before he left he was married to the sweetest heart of his boyhood days. The understanding was that when Ed had made his way in the new land, he would send for his wife. McCurdy was almost ready to send for his wife. He said this morning that he had planned to send for her after the next pay day, which is due in about a week. Now the voyage to this country has to be postponed. Mrs. McCurdy will not know of the injury to her husband until she arrives here, he said.

"I don't want to worry her," he said, "and I want to break it to her gently. She has a disabled leg, and when he looked at his disabled leg, several of McCurdy's friends visited him yesterday and wanted to send a cablegram to his wife and his people, but McCurdy would not let them for fear they would worry over his accident."

OPEN SESSION ON NEW LICENSE TAX ORDINANCE TODAY

Delegations From Chamber of Commerce and Rotary Club Attend Meeting

NO CONCLUSION REACHED

Commissioners Still Silent as to Outcome of Shuman Case Now Pending

City Council this afternoon got opinions and suggestions on the proposed new license tax ordinance from the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, headed, respectively, by George B. Tripp and Karl Steward. There were fifteen or twenty business men on hand.

The ordinance, in skeleton, was offered in Council a few weeks ago, but it is generally conceded by the commissioners that the measure will be changed considerably before it is finally passed.

Practically all of the mercantile and business enterprises of Harrisburg were represented by delegations from the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, headed, respectively, by George B. Tripp and Karl Steward. There were fifteen or twenty business men on hand.

Following the hearing on the license tax ordinance the commissioners expected to take up the budget again, although it was considered doubtful if they could get to it in time. It had been planned to allow each business man a few minutes to talk. The final disposition of the budget ordinance will hardly be determined upon, according to Commissioner W. L. Gorkas, before the passage of the Raunkick and Tombar safety raters, the city bacteriologist measure and a few other ordinances which have already been introduced and which provide for appropriations.

Silent On Shuman Commissioners were still silent to-day as to the probable outcome of the

OLBERLIN MAN IS BOOMED FOR THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Oliver C. Bishop Urged to Become a Candidate For Republican Nomination

WELL KNOWN IN THE COUNTY

Houck's Papers Being Widely Signed Among Republicans—Democrats Get Busy

Friends of Oliver C. Bishop, of Oberlin, member of one of the pioneer families of lower Dauphin, is being urged by friends in the county to be a candidate for one of the Republican nominations in the Second Legislative District, and offers have been made to start nominating petitions in his behalf if he will consent to stand.

Mr. Bishop is the first treasurer of Swatara township under the first class township form of government, and is widely known not only in Dauphin but in Cumberland county. He has lived in Swatara practically all of his life and has many friends in Steelton and in the towns among the hills. For years Mr. Bishop was principal of the schools at Oberlin and served as assessor. His friends say he would be a strong candidate.

Nominating petitions in behalf of Henry Houck's renomination for Secretary of Internal Affairs have been circulating in this county the last few days and friends of Dr. Brumbaugh will start them in his interest as soon as the Philadelphia gives the word. Friends of ex-Auditor General Sisson are busy campaigning for him, although he has not even indicated that he would be a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

A set of papers for Dean Lewis has arrived here and will be circulated by Bill Mooers this week. The papers of Vance McCormick are being sent around for a week, it being the object to get as many Democrats to sign as possible for a local showing. The Ryan people will probably send their papers here within a week, and they will have to hustle to make a showing like that aimed at by the McCormick boomers.

Endeavor Choral Union to Start Work Tomorrow

The Harrisburg Christian Endeavor Choral Union will meet to-morrow evening in the Sunday School room of the Market Square Presbyterian church, use of which has been given for all rehearsals. Work upon the sacred cantata, entitled, "The Redeemer," by Julian Edwards, will be taken up under the leadership of Prof. Frank A. McCarrall. This cantata comes highly recommended and has been given by a chorus of five hundred voices at Ocean Grove.

The Choral Union has been invited to give the cantata in the Augsburg Lutheran church, which has latterly of April. Social positions are still open. Anyone wishing to sing can get information from the president, Alfred W. Lewis, 1427 North street or the secretary, Miss Anna McKelvey, 1709 Walnut street.

THE WEATHER

For Harrisburg and vicinity: Generally cloudy to-night and Thursday; heavy showers, with rain, on Friday; lowest temperature to-night about freezing.

For Eastern Pennsylvania: Cloudy to-night and Thursday; moderate, variable winds.

River No material changes will occur in river stages. The ice will soften and melt slowly under the influence of the mild weather, which will probably continue for several days.

General Conditions The coast storm has passed off northward and the wind has subsided to about normal along the Atlantic coast. The disturbance in the Southwest has moved slowly westward and has caused an increase in energy and is now central over Northwesters Louisiana. A new depression from the far Northwest is central north of New Dakota. Snow and rain, mostly in the form of sleet, are falling in England and the Lake region and locally in New York and Pennsylvania since last report.

Temperature, 8 3/4 a. m., 32; 2 p. m., 38. Sun rises, 6:50 a. m.; sets, 5:54 p
