URGENT SELLING HOLDS BACK ENTIRE MARKET TO BUY OUT WATER

Movement Small Except in Stocks Against Which Pressure

By Associated Press

New York, April 13, Urgent selling of special stocks held back the whole market for a time to-day. Speculative interest centered in steel on account of heavy liquidation and short selling. Discouraging news from the steel trade and reports of further curtailment of working forces on the part of railroads and industrial concerns were used to facilitate short selling, but the move against was small except in stocks against was small except in stocks against which pressure was concentrated.

After steel had broken under 60 it responded to covering and made a full recovery. The remainder of the list hardened, with the principal railroad shares rising ½ to 1½ above Saturday's close.

Bonds were easy.
