For a year he was a traveling salesman and later he was identified with the Chicago firm.

MOORE APPOINTED GAUGER

Alexander Moore, a former Harrisburger, who has been a resident of Lancaster for some time, has been appointed as gauger at the Highbridge distillery. Mr. Moore has been identified with the office of the collector of internal revenues for six years. He was appointed by the collector for the Ninth district, H. L. Hershey, of Harrisburg, at which time he removed to Lancaster. Previous to his appointment as a gauger Mr. Moore was employed as a reporter on the Harrisburg Telegraph. He later became a clerk in the office of the late Marlin E. Olmsted.

SURE WAY TO END RHEUMATISM

Ease Stiff, Sore Joints and Muscles. Make Pains and Backache Promptly Vanish.

It is needless to suffer any longer with rheumatism, that cruel, chronic, and bent out of shape with its heart-wrenching pains, when you can surely avoid it.

Rheumatism comes from weak, inactive kidneys, that fail to filter from the blood the poisonous waste matter and uric acid; and it is useless to rub on liniments or take ordinary remedies to relieve the pain. This only prolongs the misery and can't possibly cure you.

The only way to cure rheumatism is to remove the cause. The new discovery, Croxone, does this because it neutralizes and dissolves all the poisonous substances and uric acid that lodge in the joints and muscles, to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism, and cleans out and strengthens the stopped-up, inactive kidneys, so they can filter all the poisons from the blood and drive it on and out of the system.

Croxone is the most wonderful medicine ever made for curing chronic rheumatism, kidney troubles, and bladder disorders. You will find it different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth like it. It matters not how old you are, or how long you have suffered, it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find relief from the first few doses, and you will be surprised how quickly all your misery and suffering will end.

May Help If You Have Tuberculosis

Proper diet, fresh air and temperate habits aid persons suffering from tuberculosis. Often more is needed. Reports show that Eckman's Alternative has brought about many recoveries. Read what it did in this case—

"Gentlemen:—In December, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs, which confined me several weeks, each time to my bed. My doctor advised me to go West. In November I started for Denver, Col. After my arrival I met Michael Brody, who upon learning of my condition, urged me to take Eckman's Alternative. I kept on taking the medicine and improved fast. In March, 1910, I returned home. I am entirely well, have a good appetite and sleep well. When I left Denver my weight was 130 pounds. I now weigh 165, and my normal weight. I thank God and your Alternative for my health." he will submit the names of all the applicants: It is understood that no appointment has been definitely agreed upon.

Council at the suggestion of Commissioner Lynch will hold its adjourned session at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

One new office was created and filled this afternoon when the plans of general machinist and utility man for the water bureau of the department of public safety was provided for in an ordinance offered by Commissioner Bowman, Henry Zearfaus was appointed to fill the position at $900 a year. Zearfaus will be under the immediate jurisdiction of Commissioner Bowman and will fill a long-felt need in the way of an all-round man who is in readiness for all sorts of service.

The new paving ordinance for the Hill streets, a street grading measure and a sewer ordinance were offered by Mr. Lynch. At Mr. Bowman's suggestion the curfew measure was postponed until to-morrow. The general report is that the ordinance will either be very much amended or possibly defeated.

The new water pipe measure that Commissioner Bowman proposes to offer to-morrow is to substitute old pipe that had been taken over from the Eastern Water Company by the city water board. The Derry street pipe will be a ten-inch, the Sycamore street line, an eight-inch, and the Nineteenth street line, will be twelve inches.

"Ambition" New Play With Music to Be at Majestic

Ethel Browning, Who Plays the Part of Marie, an Italian Waif, With Musical Gifts in "Ambition"

Ashley Miller has given the stage a good play in "Ambition," which comes to the Majestic Theater, Wednesday afternoon and evening. "Ambition" in theme and interest stands wholly apart from what has for a long time usually been found in the theater, the tragedy and romance of the lives of artistic souls dwelling on the very fringe of even the humble surroundings in which they are placed. It crowds more imagination, poetry and power into its one meager setting and in the situations of its four characters and sounds human nature to greater depths than other dramas with innumerable characters and a complexity of scenes.

"Trained Nurses" Are Well Worth Seeing

The wave of Spring fever that has swept over the city is not apparent at the Orpheum this week. This may be due to the presence of the "Trained Nurses" at that playhouse. At all events there is nothing lackadaisical about the bill that opened yesterday. From start to finish it is full of vim and go.

The acts are all preliminary to the "Nurses," a grand climax of fun, beauty and music, well and agreeably mixed. The "Trained Nurses" have to be seen to be appreciated. The same may be said of several of the other numbers, but the big number makes up for any other deficiencies.

Court Without Power, Sys Attorney General

Albany, N. Y., April 14.—When informed of the decision in the Shaw case, Attorney General Carmody said: "The case will be taken at once to the United States Supreme Court upon the ground that Judge Aldrich had no power whatever to grant a writ of habeas corpus to Shaw."

"The question involved is one of executive, not judicial, jurisdiction. After the governor of New Hampshire had granted his warrant of extradition, Judge Aldrich returned to New York State no court had the power to assume jurisdiction in the case. This will be the contention of New York State on appeal and we will seek to have the appeal determined as soon as possible."

CONCENTRATION OF SHIPS OF ATLANTIC

ced to Tampico. Orders were also issued to the Tacoma, now at Boston, to proceed to Tampico. The torpedo fleet now at Pensacola was notified to stand by for orders to proceed to Tampico.

Naval officers eagerly transmitted the orders to the fleet and there was a scene of activity and anticipation. The feeling that the Washington government had determined to show the Huerta government its fixed determination to insist on an apology and public salute pervaded official circles.

It was learned authoritatively that the investigation of the Tampico incident was being made there was a general feeling that the demand of Rear Admiral Mayo should be backed up. In the meantime, however, it was determined that negotiations with the Huerta government through Charge Shaughnessy, should proceed in order to represent to General Huerta the insistence of the United States.

Members of the Cabinet were hopeful that no further step would be required to secure compliance with the American demand, but they privately admitted that the Washington government was getting ready to enforce its demand should it meet with resistance.

The mobilization of the fleet under such circumstances as occurred today, immediately raised, in official circles, the question of whether the possible landing of marines at Tampico in satisfaction of the arrest of the marines last Thursday, would be an act of war.

It has been repeatedly pointed out that the landing of any armed forces without the permission of the government in control of the territory was regarded here as an act of war and military intervention. It was pointed out to-day, however, by those familiar with the situation, that should the Huerta commander fail to resist any aggressive steps by the American naval officers and retire, no further serious consequences might result, as the American might feel disposed not to press the affair any further.

Inasmuch as the United States has recognized no government in Mexico, but regards the Southern republic as in a state of anarchy, it has long been realized here that unusual steps might be taken without using extensively aggressive measures.

John Lind, the President's personal representative in Mexico, who now is in Washington is known to have held, for some time, the view that a more drastic policy should be pursued by the United States in dealing with the American situation. Secretary Bryan told the President and Secretary Bryan that Huerta would delay and evade the issue just so long as the United States seemed disinclined to use force.

New Two-speed Yales Are Powerful Machines

Rather striking testimony of the wonderful power possibilities of the new type of motorcycle comes from Madison Wis. A motorcycle party of four went from Madison to Middleton, eight miles away, for supper. Scarcely had the return trip begun when one of the machines, to which a side-car was attached, went "dead."

The other machine was one of the new two-speed Yales, and though it was already carrying tandem, the "cripple" and its side-car were hauled on and the party of four swept gaily through the sand and over the hills back to Madison.

It required "some" power to make such a feat possible; and it is doubtful if any motorcycle except a two-speed could have accomplished it. The two-speed gives the rider practically the same choice of speeds and the same range of power that the driver of the motor car has at his command, which explains the great popularity of this new type of motorcycle.

WESTMINSTER MEN HOLD BIG BANQUET

City Supervisor of Schools Makes Principal Address of the Evening

The Men's League of the Westminster Presbyterian Church held its semi-annual banquet last evening. A goodly number of the members, with their friends, gathered in the early evening for the banquet, which was served by the wives of some of the members. Owing to the absence of the president, D. D. Hammelbaugh, a former presiding officer, J. G. Martin, took charge of things. After refreshments, a most interesting program was given. Professor John J. Brehm, supervisor of city schools, was the principal speaker of the evening. His address appealed to the hearts of the men. It contained many valuable suggestions for the men in their work for men. They were to lay aside all indifference, he said, and be always abounding in the things of God. The address was followed by a most delightful program including a piano solo by J. Herbert Springer; vocal solo by Stanley Backenstoss; piano solo by J. Stewart Black; violin solo by J. C. Fitzpatrick; vocal solo by Robert Smith.

SOME WONDERS OF NATURE

By Garrett P. Serviss.

Now that man has learned to fly, he takes a new interest in other flying animals, the number of which turns out to be surprisingly large when one's attention is called to them. The birds are simply the most advanced type of fliers, for the power of flight is by no means confined to the avian family.

The bird is believed to be a descendant of reptiles or dragons, which acquired wings and learned to fly ages ago. Some of the family of reptiles still retain the power to fly, and since they represent the ancestor with whom the bird is natural to begin with, it is not surprising that the list of flying animals now in existence.

The chlamydosaurus of Australia, a lizard, has a huge, flattened, webbed ruff about the neck which serves as a parachute, enabling the animal to jump into the air from a height and descend safely to the ground. When not in use the ruff is folded atop the forehead. According to the author, the huge ruff of the chlamydosaurus is also intended, or at least seems to be a means of frightening off enemies, and its aspect seems well calculated for that purpose.

The Flying Dragon. The flying dragon has a kind of wings, called horny scales, which it folds along its body when it is not launching itself in a flying jump. The scales are held in its wings, attached to its feet in the form of broad, thin membranes stretched between the toes.

Of course, none of these reptiles is a true flier, and yet they do manage to do the work of the avian locomotive organs to pass considerable distances through the air. Their achievements in aerial navigation are about comparable with those of the earliest experimenters with aeroplanes.

The struggle for existence which leads animals of many species to prey upon one another probably led to the development of a certain power of flight in several species of fish. Fish with wings, or rather, fish able to leap from the water when pursued, and launch themselves for long distances through the air. Every son voyager has seen flying fish skimming above the waves, and occasionally landing on the beach.

Flying Squirrels. Arboreal, or tree-dwelling, animals might be expected to develop a considerable power of flight, as a considerable number have done. Many of these are popularly known as flying squirrels. Their organs of flight consist of extensions of the furry skin at the sides of the body, which can be stretched out like a pair of sails by extending the front and hind legs. The animal then launches itself from a tree and glides like an aeroplane to the branches of a neighboring tree.

Until the experiments of the Wright brothers led to the development of mechanical flight by means of aeroplanes some of the stories of flights performed by flying squirrels were looked upon with much doubt by many persons, but now that we know by our own experience what can be done by means of a plane moving edgewise through the air, it is easier to understand what the flying squirrels have accomplished. But it is always a subject for wonder how long it will be before we have developed such power, and the organs needed for their use, simply upon the principles of evolution.

Granddaughter of War Governor in New Romance

MRS. INEZ SPRAGUE STINES

Newport, R. I., April 14.—Members of the winter society colony here expressed surprise at the announcement that Mrs. Inez Sprague Stines, the beautiful and vivacious granddaughter of William Sprague, War Governor of Rhode Island, the heroine of several romances, is engaged to marry Baron d'Orsay, a tall and handsome man, who had plenty of money and belongs to good clubs. It is known her grandfather objects to the marriage because the ex-Governor wanted the next husband of his granddaughter to be an American. The Baron's relatives frown on it because Mrs. Stines has not more money than her fiancé. A few years ago on the eve of the day set for her wedding to Harold Wipenny, a young Philadelphian, Mrs. Stines, then 19, eloped with Henry M. Stines, son of a former Chief Justice of Rhode Island, one of her grandfather's political enemies. The marriage proved unhappy and within three years the young wife ran away to Paris from her home in Providence, a divorce following. A report of her engagement to Marquis de Villeneuve Tortonne, who is well known in American society, had been given considerable credence on this side of the Atlantic.
