

WOMEN AND THEIR INTERESTS

THE FAIR MARRIAGE

By DOROTHY DIX

A boy who says he is eighteen years old and getting twelve dollars a week salary, writes me that he is despondent in love with a girl of seventeen, and that they want to marry. He wants to know what I think of it? Son, when there are so many easy and convenient ways of committing suicide, such as taking rough on rats, and getting in front of a trolley car, why do you choose such a horrible and lingering, and torturing way of exterminating yourself as an early marriage? Just take it from me that if you get married at eighteen you will never regret it but once, and that will be every day that you live.

A boy that marries before he has come to man's estate, before he knows what kind of a man he is going to be, and what kind of needs and desires he is going to have as a man, commits a crime against himself and against the girl he marries for which there is no forgiveness here or hereafter. He forgoes them both to failure and misery, and anybody who has got little enough sense to even contemplate doing such a thing should be locked up by the State in a nice padded cell until he recovers his sanity.

Son, matrimony is a man's sized trouble with which no child has the strength to wrestle. Wait until you get grown up before you tackle it.

And listen to these words of wisdom from a judge who has had much experience in arbitrating the difficulties between married couples. He says:

"I find that it is youthful marriages more than anything else that fill the young people with remorse and regret. Very young couples seldom have enough money to live upon, and quarrels begin when the young husband finds that it is difficult to support his little family. Blows and black eyes follow. And 'financial matters, however, are not the only cause of disagreement

EMBROIDERED CREPE WITH VEST OF NET

Separate Blouses Are Always in Demand For Various Occasions

8202 Fancy Blouse, 34 to 42 bust. WITH LONG OR THREE-QUARTER SLEEVES.

The blouse that gives a vestee effect is a favorite one and this model shows the vestee portions slightly full so that they are especially adapted to net and other dainty materials of summer weather, and it includes also sleeves that are sewed to it at the drooping shoulder line. In the illustration, it is made of one of the embroidered silk crepes with collar and cuffs of plain material and vestee of net, but the model could be used quite as successfully for an entire net blouse or for chiffon and for the much simpler cotton fabrics, for there is no feature of the season more remarkable than the use of the same design for the dressy blouse of fine material and for the useful one of plainer fabric. Cotton voile is always pretty both for dresses and for separate blouses and this one could be made of that material with collar and cuffs of bright colored silk, as orange or corse, to be exceedingly smart, the vest portions being of marquisette or cotton net.

For the medium size, the blouse will require 2 3/4 yds. of material 27, 2 1/2 yds. 36, 2 yds. 44. In wide, with 1/2 yd. 27. In wide for collar, revers and cuffs, 3/8 yd. for the vestee.

The pattern of the blouse 8202 is cut in sizes from 34 to 42 inches bust measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

Their Married Life

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"Warren, aren't we insured? I thought you had fire insurance on the furniture?"

"Have."

"Then why shouldn't they pay for that mattress blanket?"

"Yes, if you want to admit you were such a blooming idiot as to take an electric light to bed."

"Helen flushed red. 'But need they know we'll not try any of your tricks on the insurance company.' They'll get the facts, understand? The blanket and sheets were ruined the mattress and pillow damaged, rejected Helen."

"How much could we get?" she ventured.

"Whatever the damage amounts to—some ten or around twenty dollars."

"Fifteen or twenty dollars? Helen considered. After all, why should I mind admitting that to ease her toothache, she had used the electric light just as a substitute for a hot-water bottle? The idea was at least ingenious."

"However, it had been a disastrous experiment for she had awakened to find the bedclothes charred and smoldering under the electric bulb that she had thought so harmless."

"Well, if we make a claim we've got to make it now. What's the stuff Warren drew out a notebook."

"Two sheets—how much?"

"I think I saw two dollars apiece; they were hemstitched."

All right; four dollars, blanket, how much?"

"Oh, that was one of the pair Aunt Emma used. I don't know what she paid, but I know they were expensive."

How to Eradicate All Superfluous Hair

Advise by a Skin Specialist

As soon as women of to-day learn that permanent removal of ugly, repulsive hair grows only be gained by reaching the hair root and not by using common, worthless depilatories such as burning pastes, powders, eviling liquids, etc., the better it will be for their happiness and safety. Nor an electric needle be depended upon to give absolutely perfect results without danger of horrible scars or facial paralysis. The best means I have ever found that never fails to remove all signs of disgusting growths of hair in the face, neck, arms or hands, is a simple, inexpensive preparation known as Osgood's Wonder. It is absolutely harmless, cannot injure the skin or complexion and in surprisingly large number of cases has succeeded in killing the hair down to the very roots, so that all growing hair roots are killed no more hair can grow. You can get Mrs. Osgood's Wonder from any of the leading drug stores or to the guarantee of your money back if it does not give you every hair root and every package. There is no longer necessary for a woman to suffer the embarrassment of this hair, and to be in a position to caution you, however, not to apply this treatment except where total depilation of hair is desired.—Advertisement.

To Quickly Darken Gray, Faded Hair

If You Use This French Recipe, No One Can Discover It Has Been Applied. But in a Few Days You Will Have Soft, Dark, Glossy Hair.

If you want your hair to have that youthful, vigorous appearance that will compel the admiration of everybody, step into your pharmacist's store and chance you get and secure 7 ounces (a large bottle) of LeMay's Cream of Sage and Quinine for not more than 50 cents.

With a few applications your gray hair will be gone, instead you will have a lovely, even shade of dark, lustrous hair and your best friends won't know you are using anything. Furthermore, your scalp will become immediately clean and free from dandruff and itches in less than a week.

This safe and sure French recipe is a dye and contains no lead or injurious substance.

Frank J. Althouse, Bowman, Mell Co., J. Nelson Clark, William Deiss, Cels Bros., C. M. Forney, Chas. T. Coore, George A. Cronis, John W. Kennedy Bros., Geo. E. Potts and T. A. Thorley can supply LeMay's Cream of Sage and Quinine.—Advertisement.

Look About You

No, son, don't marry when you are eighteen. Wait until you are twenty-eight and then take time to think it over. Wait until you are able to support a wife. Wait until you know just what kind of a wife you want, and then pick out some woman who already comes up to the specifications, instead of marrying a chit of a girl of seventeen, who may be what you want, and may not be. Anyway, you have to take enough chances on the woman you marry, without taking any chances on the sort of a man you may become.

There is no use in being in such a hurry about running your head in the matrimonial noose. For when you are married you are married a long, long time. And sometimes it seems longer.

less," explained Helen. "I was just counting it out."

"Well, for small claims like that everybody asks the fair value. The mattress alone is worth thirty dollars. And you could say you couldn't match the ticking, the sheets, the pillow covers, your whole set—box springs and all recovered."

Helen looked puzzled. "But I don't think they would have allowed any more."

"Oh, all the companies expect to pay big for small accidents. That's their best advertisement. You remember that center table we burned?"

Helen shook her head.

Helen is Depressed

"Oh, no! It was the flu, wasn't it? Henry overturned a candle and burnt a hole in that Milan center-piece—and clear through the tablecloth. I put in a claim of twenty-five dollars and they paid it without a word. The 'got the flu' was the excuse, and the cloth seven, so you see, it was a good as even. The patch will never show—a center-piece always covers it."

The elation that Helen had felt over the twenty dollars was now somewhat dampened. Should they have asked for more?

At dinner, she related to Warren the story of Mrs. Stevens' claim of the tablecloth that was practically as good as even, for which she had collected full value.

"Warren lay down his fork with a snarl. 'I haven't the least idea.'"

"Well, you're a FINE lot! Jove, I don't believe a woman knows what business honesty means. I'd trust the crookedest man I know a deal more quickly than I would you or any of the bunch you run with. Over-value a measly claim for the sake of a few dollars—eh?"

"But dear, everybody does it," faltered Helen, "doesn't that make a difference?"

"Although a thing is worth what it's worth, isn't it? If you swear to a false valuation, you're committing perjury, that's all. I don't suppose that would phase you, would it, George, if they ever get you on the witness stand with a sharp lawyer—you'll be shown up, all right."

Miss Fairfax Answers Queries

CIRCUMSTANCES MAY EXPLAIN

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am acquainted with a young man whom I care for very much, but he comes to see me only once a week and never on Sundays, and he never asks me to go to moving pictures or to the theater. How can I find out if he loves me? N. E. W.

If he has to work hard; if you live at a great distance; if his salary is small and inadequate for more than necessities, his conduct is excusable. Look at his side of the story before you condemn him.

She is a Silly Girl

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been keeping steady company with a young lady for the past ten months. She recently attended a party to which I was not invited. Did she do right in attending? She also admits having had two young men whom she had never met before, kiss her. (There were no kissing games.) Please advise what action to take, and what is your opinion of her? STEADY READER.

There is no excuse for her silliness in letting two strange men kiss her. In that she did wrong.

But she did no wrong in accepting the offer of a party. She is engaged to you, and it would be extremely foolish in her to refuse invitations because you are not among the invited.

LET HIM MAKE THE OVERTURES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: After keeping company with a young man for four years we parted about five months ago. Recently I met friends who told me that he would be willing to come back to me if I will give in. ANXIOUS.

It makes no difference who is in the wrong; he falls to show a manly spirit in telling friends that he will forgive you if you make amends.

Let him make them. And insist that they be made to you, and not come through others.

Charles Dickens

The influence of Charles Dickens upon modern literature is so evident and plain a fact no one thinks of disputing it. Educators now see the value of the study of Dickens in his schools.

The name of Charles Dickens has been so long before the world one is apt to think of him as having lived many, many years ago, contemporaneous with Shakespeare, perhaps, or Milton, whose classic writings are appreciated only by the few. Recently I met friends that he will forgive you if you make amends.

Let him make them. And insist that they be made to you, and not come through others.

HERSHEY WITHOUT ELECTRIC POWER

Fire Destroys Engine Room at Big Plant and Causes Trouble

Special to The Telegraph

Hershey, Pa., April 24.—Last evening at 5.30 the entire community was aroused by the blowing of the fire alarm on the Hershey chocolate factory whistle. The engine room of the main power plant was completely destroyed and as a consequence the entire town is without electric power. Not a single trolley car is able to move. The dynamos and switchboards were damaged and the building, which was one of the first ones to be erected and was constructed of wood and tar paper, was entirely destroyed. The boiler room and the other buildings, which are all constructed of solid concrete, were not affected. The origin of the fire and the amount of the total loss cannot be given at this writing. A call for help was sent to Lebanon and in a very short time the large auto hook and ladder truck arrived from that city, but its services were not needed, as the Hershey Volunteer Fire Company and the hundreds of the plant's employees had the fire under control.

Morris Hinkle, a foreman in one of the rooms of the plant, was overcome by smoke and had to be carried out of the building. He received medical attention and is out of danger.

The plant supplied 1,600 horsepower to the factory, the trolley line and the lighting system of the town. The secondary plant, which is now being used, has about half this capacity. The

When you start cleaning house you will save lots of hard work if you use Bruaw Rotary Cleanser. It has a knack of getting the dirt and filth out of things with a vengeance, and with the greatest ease. It has many advantages over ordinary soap and other inferior powders. Your grocer ought to sell it, fit Gohl-Bruaw & Co., 210 Strawberry street, Harrisburg, Pa.

Moose Enlarge Herd

More than two hundred candidates were taken into the Harrisburg Lodge, No. 107, Loyal Order of Moose, last evening. The exercises took place at the City Gray's Armory. Following the exercises the officers and candidates marched to the Moose home in a body where a buffet luncheon was served. The Steelton Glee Club furnished the music.

Chauffeurs Will Dance

The first annual ball of the National Chauffeurs' Association, Harrisburg lodge, No. 23, will be held to-night at Swab's hall, Thirteenth and Market streets. Four gold prizes will be awarded the best tango dancers and waiters.
