BELL TELEPHONE'S CASE HEARD AGAIN Public Service Commission Listens to Interesting Arguments About Rates

The question of methods of appraising properties of telephone companies was gone into by experts before the Public Service Commission to-day in the continuance of the hearing of the Bell Telephone Company's objections to the proposed rates of the State commission. The hearing was begun yesterday for the eighth session and continues to-day in the Senate caucus room. Numerous exhibits were presented. The hearing will probably be adjourned late to-day until later in the month.

BONDHOLDERS OF THE ALLEGHENY COUNTY WATER COMPANY, of Allegheny county, presented a petition to the commission to-day to restrain the borough of Tarentum, which is now constructing a water plant, from using this plant as to unreasonably and unfairly depress rates, thereby injuring and destroying the security of the bondholders.

The petition alleges that officials of the borough are threatening to furnish water at low rates for the purpose of bankrupting the Allegheny County Water Company.

The commission approved the petition of the Schuylkill Railways Company for an overhead crossing on the Philadelphia and Reading in the borough of Shenandoah.

J. E. Callahan, C. G. Freeland and J. M. Little, representing citizens of Kennard, complain to the commission that the Erie Railroad Company has discontinued passenger service at that point.

Residents of the borough of New Wilmington, Lawrence county, protest against the proposed rates of the New Wilmington Water Supply Company, which are to become effective on May 1.

The rates assessed by the Beaver Valley Water Company are attacked in a petition signed by citizens of various points in Beaver county, and the commission is also requested to order the company to furnish at all times an adequate supply of water as a protection from fire in the boroughs where the company operates, and also to furnish a supply of pure and wholesome water for domestic purposes.

Butch McDevitt To Arrive To-day

Millionaire - For - a - Day Will Make Arrangements to Appear at Orpheum

"Butch" McDevitt, the Wilkes-Barre millionaire-for-a-day, is expected to arrive in Harrisburg to-day to make arrangements for his vaudeville debut at the Orpheum next week. "Butch" has had almost all kinds of experiences in the past few years, but he never has known just how it feels to be a vaudeville headliner, and it is with this in mind that he has decided to bring his celebrated statue to Harrisburg and try out the vaudeville boards.

When "Butch" McDevitt does a thing he does it right, and his week's stay in Harrisburg will undoubtedly be decorated with several different kinds of pyrotechnics that will place him well before the eyes and ears of the populace. "Butch" is going to do a monologue in which he will give several "recs" of his well-known philosophy.

One of the events of the week will be the placing of the "Butch" McDevitt statue in the State Capitol. If everything goes right the statue will repose in one of the niches designed to hold the likenesses of great men, and "Butch" being one of the great men of the State, there isn't much doubt about the welcome in the Capitol doormat for his statue.

The Orpheum management is anticipating a little trouble over the matter of headline honors, because, like Eva Tanguay, "Butch" doesn't believe in letting anybody's name shine out above his own, and not knowing this, the management has booked in two tried and true headline acts, one of them an aggregation of nine singers. It remains to be seen when "Butch" gets here to-day whether these Nine White Hussars will head the list of acts at the vaudeville house next week, or "Butch" himself.—Advertisement.
