SULLIVAN TELLS OF PENN RELAY RULES

Will Be Observed at Philadelphia Meet Saturday Along With Other A. A. U. Regulations

Philadelphia, April 24.—It is certain that all events on the bill at the annual relay races at Franklin Field, Saturday, will be run according to Hoyle. James E. Sullivan, who will referee the events, was a little disturbed over the criticism of an expert on the manner of running the relay races. This was to the effect that the preparation of American athletes would be hindered by the difference between the rules to be followed at Philadelphia and those in use at the last Olympic games and likely to be in force at the next.

It was stated that the U. of P. called for a solid wooden baton ten inches in length, while at Stockholm a hollow baton sixteen inches in length was used; also that the Quaker meet required the men to pass the baton from one to another within a distance of twenty feet, while at Stockholm sixty feet were allowed in which to make the transfer.

Mr. Sullivan said the meeting at Philadelphia would be held under intercollegiate rules and not under A. A. U. rules, also that the A. A. U. rule contained no reference to a baton, short or long, as the A. A. U. method is to have the men touch off in the old-fashioned way.

"There is no doubt in my mind," continued Mr. Sullivan, "that when the International Amateur Athletic federation finally adopts its relay rule the A. A. U. will change its rule to comply with it. As a matter of fact the federation does not call for a baton sixteen inches long, which your expert says was in use at Stockholm, but for one of thirty centimeters, or twelve inches. That is only two inches longer than the one to be used at Philadelphia, which makes the discrepancy much less and not likely to affect the chances of men training for the Olympics.

"With regard to the distance in which the baton must be passed there might be some trouble in effecting a pass. The meet at Philadelphia will be the first time this has been tried here in games of any consequence. It must be remembered, however, that when using the touch-off system both the intercollegiate and A. A. U. events have been run off successfully with a leeway of twenty feet. At any rate those are the intercollegiate rules and I do not see how the University of Pennsylvania could run its meet under any others."
