CLEAN-UP DAY IN CAMP HILL MONDAY

Health Board Fixes Day and Calls on People to Assist in Sanitary Measures

Special to The Telegraph—Camp Hill, Pa., April 24.—Camp Hill will have a great "Clean-up Day" on Monday, April 27, and the Health Board has issued a call to the citizens, signed by W. Kent Gilbert, president, and H. C. Lawton, secretary, asking everybody to assist in the good work. The health notice contains in part the following: "At a meeting of the Board of Health this day, the following was adopted for Clean-up Day, Monday, April 27, 1914. "Realizing the great benefit to the borough and its value as a preventative of many human diseases, it has been ordered that a certain designated day be set aside on which all rubbish, decaying vegetable matter, tin cans, etc., be collected and placed in receptacles that can be emptied into wagons supplied by Council for the purpose of hauling same to the dump. The wagons will make their rounds on Monday, April 27, and stop wherever they are requested. Ashes, however, will not be collected. "Love your neighbors' lot as you do your own, but be sure to love your own. "Don't plant tomato cans and rubbish on unused land, their fruits are withered child pride. "Borough ordinance No. 14 makes the owner of a lot liable to a fine of $5.00 for filth or rubbish found on his land. "This is a good time of year to destroy all standing weeds and brush. "A free use of fresh lime and other disinfectants is advised. "Residents are asked to co-operate in this work and make it a success and a credit to the borough."

STILT KING BREAKS LEG; GETS ANOTHER

Proves Bigger Attraction Than Coxe's Army on His Trip Across Country

Special to The Telegraph—Beaver Falls, Pa., April 24.—On his way to San Francisco, F. E. Wilbert, the Harrisburg Telegraph Stilt King, to-day proved a stronger attraction than Coxe's army.

Wilbert arrived here at 4.30 yesterday afternoon after a series of mishaps at Rochester, ten miles east of here, including the breaking of one of his long legs. Fortunately this is a good lumber district and a new leg was provided for the giant hiker in a short time.

Wilbert was giving an exhibition at Rochester Wednesday night. It had been raining all day and the paved streets were slippery. In making a turn his staff broke and the Stilt King fell to the ground, receiving several cuts and bruises.

Wilbert was given medical treatment and after a day's rest he continued his journey. Following his arrival here Wilbert made a trip to Coxe's army camp, where he was entertained by the small body of hikers who are on their way to Washington, D. C. He will leave for New Castle this afternoon and will try to reach the Ohio State line Sunday.

The Circus Is Coming in May! Hurray! Hurray!

The billposters, the men who hold the keys of heaven for the "kids," abroad in the land to-day. Early in the morning they started driving through the streets with big barrels of stencils and long-handled brushes. Ringling Brothers' Circus is coming to Harrisburg on Friday, May 15, and the advance men and their co-workers, the billposters, have started their annual crusade.

The program will be especially bright and promising of thrills and excitement this year. The circus is advertising many new "acts" that will be seen for the first time in America this season.

This year the performance opens with a big spectacle, "Solomon and the Queen of Sheba." More than 1,250 actors appear in it, together with 735 horses and 300 ballet girls. An engine and train is necessary to transport the portable stage, the scenery and properties of the great wordless play, representing an investment of $1,000,000.—Advertisement.

THE CHEERFULNESS OF DICKENS

Dickens came into the world handicapped by physical weakness. Surrounded by unsympathetic home environments, he had a desperate struggle in his youth. He was placed in a condition calculated to make him the reverse of what he proved to be. In a condition of poverty, sickness and distress, he formulated a great maxim which he followed assiduously through and intend to be as cheery and as pleasant as I can. I will pursue evil and oppression, the enemies of all God's creatures, so long as I have energy of thought and power of giving it utterance.
