COLD STORAGE IS STILL THRIVING

Reports Made to Commissioner Foust Show Good State of Affairs in State

Interesting facts are shown by the figures of the cold storage reports of April 1 just issued by Commissioner James Foust. Under the act of 1913 all storage warehouses are required to make reports of the contents of their establishments and the figures show big drops in the amount of but-

BAER FOUGHT WAY TO TOP OF LADDER

Began as Printer's Devil, Bought Newspaper, Studied Law

GEORGE F. BAER

Late President of the Reading Railway Company

Philadelphia, April 27.—George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, and one of the leading railroad and coal mining authorities in the United States, died in his city home, 1718 Spruce street, at 7.43 o'clock last night. Mr. Baer was 72 years old and his death was directly due to uraemic poisoning.

Mr. Baer had a stroke while on the way to his office on Saturday. It was said that Mr. Baer had gone to his office against the wishes of the family physician.

Except for a few brief moments of semi-consciousness, Mr. Baer was in a state of coma from the time he fell to the sidewalk until he breathed his last. Mrs. Baer, her five daughters and sons-in-law were at the bedside of the husband and father when he died.

The story of the life of George F. Baer is a narrative of how a boy born in modest circumstances gradually climbed the ladder of success until he gained the reputation of being one of the foremost railroad authorities in the country.

Prominent as an Attorney

Mr. Baer was prominent as an attorney. His legal talents especially became known when the government was instituting wholesale suits against corporations suspected of not being within the purports of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

In every sense of the term he was a self-made man. Born in Landisville, Somerset county, Pa., on September 26, 1842, Mr. Baer obtained his early knowledge in a country school.

At the age of 13 he went to work in the office of the Somerset Democrat, where he learned the printing trade after having served as a printer's devil, composer and associate editor. By saving the small amount Mr. Baer and his brother Henry were enabled to purchase the newspaper shortly before the outbreak of the Civil War.

After his day's work as editor of the newspaper in which he was a partner, the young editor devoted his time to the study of law. The call to fight for the Stars and Stripes became so strong in 1862, however, that he ceased his studies for the time being and organized the One Hundred and Thirty-third Pennsylvania Volunteers and was accordingly elected captain by the patriots of Somerset.

Was Against the Reading

During his career as an attorney Mr. Baer looked after claims against the Reading. His ability was recognized by officials of that railroad, and he was offered the post of counsel, which he accepted.

Subsequently he became a director of the company, but being unable to agree with President McLeod, he resigned.

In 1893, Mr. Baer gained prominence by aiding J. Pierpont Morgan in reorganizing the Philadelphia and Reading Railway.

He was elected president of the Reading Railway and the Central Railroad of New Jersey in 1901, succeeding John Harris.

In many parts of the country Mr. Baer was known as "Divine Right" Baer. This name was given him after a letter bearing his signature and stating that "rights and interests of laboring men would not be guarded by agitators but by men to whom God in His Infinite wisdom has given the control of the property interests of the country."

He later denied having written this letter.

Held Many Positions

He was president of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company, the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Atlantic City Railroad, the Reading Paper Mills Company and the Keystone Coal Company. He was in addition a director of the Lehigh and Hudson River Railway, the Allentown Terminal Railway, the Pennsylvania Steel Company, the Cambria Iron Company, the Allentown Iron Company, the Cambria Steel Company, the Reading Trust Company and the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and the Granting of Annuities. He was also chairman of the Reading Iron Company.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. It is understood, however, that services will be held at the Baer Philadelphia residence at 10.30 o'clock Wednesday morning and that the body will be taken to Reading for burial. Services, it is expected, will be held in the Baer home at Reading Wednesday afternoon. It is planned to have both services conducted with the utmost simplicity.

Officers of the Reading Railway today discussed the practicability of having all trains on the system stop for a few minutes during the funeral services.

Hundreds of telegrams of condolence are being received by the Baer family.

Don't make your baby do a grown-up's work

DON'T make him walk before his little legs are strong. Don't make him sit up while his back is weak. Don't make his little stomach fight the heavy cow's milk that even grown-ups have trouble with.

Your baby cannot digest cow's milk—and worse than that, that cow's milk brings sickness—even consumption — to our helpless babies.

No wonder they left us—one in six before the first birthday came around—when most of the dairies of the land are dirty (your government at Washington tells you so); no wonder they stayed thin and weak when one cow in three carries the germs of consumption (the state of New York tells you that). And even if the cow is healthy and the dairy clean—much has to be done to cow's milk before it is light enough and good enough for your baby. And all that is done in that gives your baby the strength and health of mother's milk and the safety of mother's milk. Nestlé's Food—even if it is only for a little while—and then if your baby does not gain every week add one feeding a day of Nestlé's Food. Then two feedings, and so on, till the baby is entirely weaned.

Nestlé's is pure milk from healthy cows, milked in clean dairies, purified and changed so that the tinest, feeblest baby can digest it. The heavy, tough curd is made soft and fleecy as in mother's milk, and the special things your baby needs to build a healthy, lithe body are added. Just add cold water and boil, and it is ready for your baby.

Send for our "Better Babies" Chart. It tells you all you should know about your baby—how much he should weigh, how big each part of him should be, when he should teeth, walk and talk. With it is a book by Specialists that tells you how to keep your baby well.

Send the coupon for big free sample box of Nestlé's—enough for 12 feedings. Don't delay. Your baby's future health depends on the Food you give him now.

Buy Next Winter's Coal In April

Right now is the time to buy your year's supply of coal.

Not as you need it during the cold winter weather.

Very often coal shipped in December, January, February and March is frozen into a solid mass. It is impossible to pick out the slate and bone or to screen out the fine dirt. The result is you get slaty and dirty coal.

Coal shipped now is prepared in very good condition—and you will see a difference

You also save 50c per ton on what you purchase now which is quite a consideration.

FACTOR OF SAFETY SHOULD BE WATCHED

Commissioner Dixon Gives Some Good Advice in the Series of Weekly Talks

Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, has made some very timely remarks in his weekly talks on health. He discusses the factor of safety in daily life. Not long ago the commissioner told of the danger attending fatigue. Now he tells how to approach the line of safety and how to keep from getting over it.

Dr. Dixon says:

"The engineer who plans a bridge or a skyscraper makes his calculations, based upon the strength of the steel; then he adds the factor of safety. After considering the breaking strain, which tests have shown material will stand, he generally multiplies this by three for additional security.

"In the physical structure of our bodies there is included a factor of safety. Under all of the ordinary conditions of life this margin protects us. It takes care of the strains incidental to the rational existence for which the calculations of the Creator evidently intended us.

"When the body is exhausted by overwork and underfeeding, or by dissipation and excesses, this factor of safety is so reduced that it fails to protect and we become easy victims to communicable or organic disease.

"While modern conditions of living make exceptional demands upon us, these are more than offset by the improvement in living conditions, as statistics prove that the average span of human life is being gradually lengthened. The thing which we should guard against is excessive and irrational indulgences. Ordinarily our intelligence is a sufficient guide if we permit it to govern us. It is seldom that we presume upon our strength without being aware of the fact.

"Be temperate and the factor of safety will carry you through the requirements of your every-day work."

BETTER BABIES

The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American Mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.—Advertisement.

Death For All Yankees Urged by Newspapers

By Associated Press

Vera Cruz, April 27.—Circulars denouncing American business houses were being distributed in the streets of Mexico City Saturday. The handbills call on the people to destroy the concerns listed.

Some of the American stores whose names appeared in the circular already have been looted.

Another list distributed is that of Mexicans managing some of the American stores. It is declared these men must be killed because of their identification with foreign interests.

The newspapers of the capital published stories to the effect that the American forces at Vera Cruz are slaughtering women and children, and the papers called on Mexicans in Mexico City to retaliate in a similar manner.

Other stories printed by the newspapers said that France, Germany, Great Britain and Spain have declared war against the United States and that American battleships have sunk several ships flying the flags of those nations. Mexicans also were told that the Mexican army had invaded the United States and that the negroes in the Southern States had risen and are assisting the Mexicans.
