Tampico Practically Without Americans; Exodus Ended To-day

Tampico, Mexico, April 27. — Via Vera Cruz, April 29.—The American exodus from Tampico, which began Wednesday April 22, virtually reached its end to-day with the departure for Vera Cruz of about sixty American refugees on board the tank steamer Canfield. The total number of refugees sent from there to American ports since the movement is officially given at 2,270.

along the custom house wharf, where three steamers are unloading.

Will Defend Tampico

While there is good reason to believe that the rebels investing Tampico will reject any proposal to ally themselves with the federals for the purpose of resisting any possible American aggression there is some uncertainty as to what course the federals would pursue in such an eventuality. General Zaragoza, the federal commander, has made public announcement of his determination to defend Tampico to the last. On the other hand he is reported to have said to a friend last Friday that opposition to American advance would be quite hopeless; that he would only make a feeble show of defense sufficient to satisfy the demands of honor and then evacuate the city. General Zaragoza's force is not believed to exceed 1,000 men.

Spain Incensed by Report of Attack on Cruiser by U. S. Ships

Vera Cruz, April 29.—The blue-jacketed patrols have been careful in dealing with the native to use no unnecessary harshness and the result is evidenced by the call yesterday of Spanish businessmen in the Spanish Consul, asking that the Spanish Minister in Mexico City seek to induce General Huerta to have the truth as to conditions here published in the press.

Grocers Who Ask High Prices Are Jailed

Mexico City, April 29.—Dr. Ignacio Alatorre, Minister of the Interior, has sent further messages to all State governors and to the jefe politico in the territories, urging them in the name of the President to push their efforts to persuade the rebel leaders to unite in defense of national integrity. Complete amnesty is promised the rebels.

Little Anxiety For Safety of Americans Is Now Felt at Vera Cruz

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 29.—Anxiety in Vera Cruz as to friends and relatives in the interior has been greatly relieved by the events of yesterday, which show that the Mexican authorities are permitting Americans to come down to the coast. To-day the American colony, which is growing steadily, settled the return of the train from Puerto Mexico of the arrival of three trainloads of refugees from Mexico City, which the Huerta officials promised Commander Tweedie, of the British cruiser Essex, had been dispatched from the capital last night.

The route from the capital to Puerto Mexico is long and roundabout, and it is not expected that the trains will reach the coast before next Friday. Rear Admiral Badger will have a vessel at Puerto Mexico to meet the refugees. He probably will not send a detachment as this might arouse anti-American feeling in a town which up to the present time has been entirely quiet. The passenger boats available here for the trip to Vera Cruz are limited to wireless equipments; consequently the arrival of the refugee trains, together with the names of those on board, may not be learned until the steamer returns to Vera Cruz. If the refugee trains are filled to capacity, as they probably will be, it is estimated that 800 people will be conveyed to Puerto Mexico.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy and Arnold Shanklin, the American Consul General at Mexico City, who came out with him, are still here awaiting orders. So far as is known they have given no intimation as to their probable instructions from Washington. This is construed here to mean that the State Department retains hope of a satisfactory settlement of the present difficult, which would make it possible for these officials to return to Mexico City. Consequently their return to the United States now might be inexpedient.

The release by General Gustavo Maas, the Federal commander outside of Vera Cruz, of the hundred refugees yesterday by the Soledad, has cleared the territory between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, on the direct line of communication, of all Americans with the exception of a few scattered families whose whereabouts are not known. Some may have made their way to the capital; others to coast ports, and some are supposed to be in hiding with friendly Mexican ranchers.

Consul Canada's office is flooded with cables regarding the safe return of this or that person. As fast as the lists containing the names of those who reach the coast and start for Galveston are received they are cabled to the State Department at Washington.

Names Are Cabled

The Soledad refugees are enthusiastic in praise of Commander Tweedie, whose determined stand, they believe, alone saved them from probable death or at least prolonged suffering. On being released from the penitentiary at Soledad, where they had been confined as a protection against the rebel forces, they were taken to the railroad track and handed over to a Mexican major, who had no instructions as to what to do with them. A train bound for Mexico City passed by them, and they were permitted to board it. After waiting hours in the blazing sun, Commander Tweedie's train steamed into sight, bound for Vera Cruz. Several refugees approached the British officer and told of their plight.

Rebels Remain Neutral

A report to-day that Carranza and Villa, the Constitutional leaders, had agreed to remain neutral in dealings between Huerta and the American government "so long as there was no invasion of their territory," was an encouraging development. News that American Consul Schmutz and 110 other Americans who had been detained at Aguascalientes by Federal soldiers had been released and were safe in Mexico City or on their way to Vera Cruz was a relieving feature of a tense situation created by rebel forces.

Distinctively Individual

eror. The officers went about with maps so as to be fully informed as to the peculiarities of the district when they assume control of the city. With the marines and troops already here or en route, Brigadier General Funston will have close to 9,000 men ashore when his force is complete.

The General is planning his outposts and picket lines in such a way as to make the duty as easy as possible for the men, yet at the same time making the city safe against any surprise attack.

Peacemakers Continue to Gather Information to Effect Settlement

Washington, D. C., April 29.—While scores of Americans continued their hurried exodus from Mexico and Brigadier General Funston's troops were landing to complete the occupation of Vera Cruz to-day, the representatives of three South American republics gathered in the library of the Argentine legation and resumed the exercise of their attempt to steer the Mexican crisis into ways of peace. No intimation of the tenor of their program has been revealed. There was no indication of whether proposals would be submitted to Huerta or the Washington government, but it seemed probable that three or four days would be required before the next move would be made. Whether the exercise of the South American envoys' "good offices" would progress to the point of actual mediation was a matter of tremendous importance to be settled by later developments, but a spirit of optimism over progress of the negotiations was apparent in executive quarters.

Seek Middle Ground

The army and navy to-day continued to execute succeeding chapters in plans to meet any eventualities, but interest in their movements was overshadowed by that evinced in the work of the representatives of the South American republics. The three peacemakers, proceeding cautiously, are gathering all possible information from both American and Mexican sources with the aim of reaching a middle ground from which they may project their next move. Conscious that practically all the civilized nations of the world are alertly watching the progress of this attempt at Pan-American diplomacy, they are careful to distinguish between the exercise of their "good offices" and what may develop later if the stage of actual mediation is reached. It has been suggested that the envoys' next move might be to ask the Huerta and Washington governments to set out terms on which they would proceed to mediation. If that line were followed, it was suggested the diplomats speedily could develop whether solution of the situation by peaceful means was possible.

vious reports that citizens of the United States had been subjected to persecution.

Wounded Doing Well

Supplemental reports from Rear Admiral Badger to-day stated that wounded American marines and blue-jackets on the hospital ship Solace continued to gain, and that critical cases appeared hopeful.

"Each day," the report stated, "it begins to look as if we would not lose a case."

Admiral Badger added that the wounded of the New Hampshire, Florida, South Carolina and Chester were all doing well. Tony Vitaeo, seaman on the New Hampshire, returned to duty to-day, leaving a total of fifty-nine wounded still under treatment.

Roosevelt Discovers New Tribe of Savages

Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, April 29.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, on his journey through the unexplored regions of Brazil, discovered a tribe of savages hitherto unknown. The tribesmen—named Paupates—were without clothing of any kind.

Captain American Magalhães, chief of the Brazilian mission, accompanying Colonel Roosevelt, who told of this discovery to the Gazeta De Noticias to-day, says the party had some striking adventures. Colonel Roosevelt himself killed two tiger cats, each considerably more than three feet long.

The expedition explored and traced the course of the Ilver Gyrirana, a tributary of the Madeira.

Captain Magalhães declares that in the accident on the Gyrirana on March 13, when one of the boats capsized, only the baggage was lost. The sketches made by the party floated and were saved. The boat's crew of seven men saved themselves by clinging to the overhanging branches of trees.

The total bag collected is about 200,000 specimens.

POSTPONE ACTION ON COUPONS

Washington, D. C., April 29.—The controversy before Congress regarding the proposed prohibitive tax to stop the practice of issuing gift coupons with cigars, cigars and tobacco, along with gifts and tobacco attachments, it was announced to-day, has been postponed by the House ways and means committee until next December.

Powerful Remedy to Cure Rheumatism

Gets Into the Small Spaces in Joints, Muscles and Tissues—Drives the Poisons Out—Completely.

S. S. S. is a Perfect Wizard to Cure Rheumatism.

Great progress has been made in overcoming all forms of blood sickness by the famous blood purifier, S. S. S. And rheumatism has been dethroned as never before. But people are restless. They look for "new discoveries." And out of the dim, misty past there will, now and then arise the same old Cloven Foot, the same old Prince of Darkness to stampede all the progress accomplished by a safe and rational medical effort.

Thus, S. S. S., considered the best and most effective remedy known for rheumatism must undo the destructive work that is always going on. A century ago mercury was the guiding star in all blood troubles; still later the iodides and potassium stacked the boards and now the impish arsenic misleads the misguided sufferer.

Now to what extent the present generation owes its rheumatism to the mercurial treatment of former days is an outstanding controversy.

We judge from an extensive correspondence during the past forty years, that a host of people trace their rheumatism to a past generation, to their fathers and grandfathers. It "runs in the family." And it is safe to predict that the oncoming generation will likewise suffer so long as the use of mineral drugs is continued. Such drugs have been the "easiest way," a coat of varnish to hide the certain destructive tendencies going on within. This fact has been revealed time without number. Recoveries by the use of S. S. S. point to where innumerable cases of rheumatism were traced to deposits in the joints by mineral drugs.

Severe nervous disorders were overcome by S. S. S. after great damage had been wrought by the rocks and metals reduced to drugs. Stomach disorders of the most serious nature, clogged kidneys, hardened liver, catarrhal troubles, chronic bronchitis, asthma, and many direct and reflex diseases have all been the result of harmful drugs. It is, therefore, wise to consider the purely vegetable nature of S. S. S., its long history of success, its almost universal sale and the fact that in every community throughout the United States are people who have cured the worst forms of rheumatism, catarrh, cholera, blood risings and all other forms of sickness and disease arising both from impurities in the blood and from the drastic drugs that were used in the mistaken idea they represented real medical treatment.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. from any drug store and note the quick change. The stomach recovers, the liver starts into action, the kidneys are free, the wheezes of bronchitis is gone, many forms of neuritis disappear, locomotor ataxia, neuritis, anemia and other damaging evidences of drug tendencies are driven out and from head to foot the pains, aches and distresses are gone.

Be careful to accept no substitute for S. S. S. Many pleasant tasting remedies are loaded with poisonous drugs. Beware of the sting.

For a special book on rheumatism explaining the remarkable action of S. S. S., write to the Swift Specific Co., 602 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today.
