ONLY One Dickens Set Like This! One Place to Get It!

Dickens is an author you are not content with reading once. You read him again and again. His pages are so crowded with interesting characters of all types that you hate to take leave of them. You want to meet them once more. The truth is you can't "take in" Dickens at one reading. The plot is so exciting that you rush through the story, and then go back and read it all over again, to enjoy its wonderful dialogue and vivid descriptions.

All night long the inspectors had worked in the shaft, 125 feet from the bottom, clearing away the debris and straightening the leads on which the cage is operated. The best work men in the whole district were called into service, but it was almost daybreak when the news came from the tipple that the cage was on its way to the bottom.

Chief Henry said that he did not think the mine was on fire at any point and that he expected to find some of the men alive.

Soon after 8 o'clock, J. W. Paul, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh station of the Bureau of Mines, descended the shaft in company with government rescue men from the other two crews here. They had proceeded only a short distance from the bottom, when they found six bodies huddled together and so badly burned that identification was impossible. Penetrating further into the galleries they located other bodies and the work was twas sent to the surface to prepare the corowd for the news.

Diaz Answers Reyes Note of Suggestion

By Associated Press
Paris, April 30.—Porfirio Diaz, former president of Mexico, has sent an answer to General Rafael Reyes concerning the latter's recent effort to compose the Mexican difficulty. General Diaz says:

"I have received a copy of your dispatch to President Wilson, Provisional President Huerta. Venustiano Carranza and Francisco Villa. I am profoundly touched by the generous impulse of your noble heart in favor of the cause of Mexico, and I am grateful for your flattering, although unmerthe cause of Mexico, and I am grateful for your flattering, although unmerited, appreciation of me personally. I hope to see you in a few days."

General Reves, a former president of the republic of Colombia, has been exerting his enegles of recent years to strengthening the union of Latin-American countries. Four days ago he addressed a dispatch to President Wilson and the Mexican leaders referred to by General Diaz suggesting that recourse be had to Porfirio Diaz for a solution of the present crisis. A copy of this communication was transmitted to Diaz.

General Diaz is at Monte Carlo.
