More "Fill" Needed For Suitable Walk

[Continued From First Page] lower water line will prevent the washing of this earth into the river. Under the plan proposed it is intended to fill out the embankment, creating a terrace to the level of the steps. Upon the terrace or slope will be planted hardy shrubbery and vines that will hold the dirt and create a permanent embankment that will not only be attractive but useful in preventing further erosion during the high stages of the river.

ROADS WILL FEEL REVENUE HOLD-UP

Trial of Mandamus Proceedings Will Hold Back the Use of Money on Highways

Developments in the mandamus proceedings yesterday require the Auditor General and State Treasurer to pay to the State Highway Department the $850,000 received from licensing of automobiles so that the revenue from this source can be devoted to improvement of the highways of the State as required by the act of last year make it certain that it will be months before the controversy over the matter will be settled. Direct charges were made by Attorney General E. B. Tamm, Auditor General Powell had been dilatory in his defense and that instead of a desire being evinced to settle a grave constitutional question he was going back over a century to find laws which would mean further delay. It was declared by the Attorney General that instead of fiscal officers being in accord with the spirit of road improvement they were throwing things in the way of an early settlement of the questions at issue. The upshot of the day's proceedings is that the Auditor General lost in his effort to have the Attorney General retire from the case, the court holding that because of the great public interest involved that Mr. Bell had a right to represent the Highway Commissioner. Mr. Powell declined to file an answer to the mandamus proceeding, although the court said one was required, and challenged the judges to make an order to compel him to pay. Throughout an indication of intention to appeal the case to the Supreme Court no matter what is done in the mandamus case here was evident and the interchanges between Bell and Powell were heated, all of the animosity of the rival parties to which they belong cropping out in personal remarks. Ex-Attorney General M. Hampton Todd, who volunteered to be counsel for the State treasurer Young in testifying before the court, cannot be given until May 11. It may happen then that a further delay would be caused by an appeal by Powell from a ruling by the court in his case. The whole matter gives evidence of dragging along until next winter, when the Legislature will have to make a while the roads suffer.

RYAN DOES SOME CHALLENGING, TOO

Asks Vance C. McCormick Some Pertinent Questions Regarding Labor and So Forth

CLAIMS HE WILL CARRY CITY

Adds Philadelphia to His String on a Claim of Four Votes to One For Vance

Michael J. Ryan, who is contending with Vance C. McCormick for the Democratic nomination for governor, added to the joy of the State and the variety of the Democratic family row by issuing a quartet of challenges to McCormick. Early this week McCormick challenged Ryan to make good on some claims that he would carry Philadelphia, picking him up on statements about registration which did not agree with information received at the Democratic windmill in this city. Last night in the course of a speech at Scranton Ryan came back with these remarks addressed to McCormick:

Continuing, Mr. Ryan said: "I venture this prophecy that in my home city I will beat him at least four to one, and in his home city, where he is best known, and with whose people he has had dealings, financial and otherwise, I will beat him nearly two to one. Now, having answered his challenge and his question, it becomes my turn to propose a few inquiries. My first challenge: What explanation have you of the charge of Senator Beileman, of Dauphin county, made in the Senate of Pennsylvania in May of last year, that you were a participant in the raising of and a beneficiary of a campaign fund of $32,000, used to debauch the voters of Harrisburg to elect to office a few inquiries. My second challenge: On July 31, 1902, and for several previous months, David A. Orr was the owner and editor of the Harrisburg Patriot. On that day you purchased the Patriot, and on the very next day, August 1, 1902, you struck from the entire page that distinguishing badge of honor, the union label, and you have kept it off from that day until now. Why did you do so, and do you not think that it is a mark of insincerity to use no stronger phrase, than that you send your political printing, now that you are in possession of the printing shop in Harrisburg, to a shop so that it may be stamped with the union label? Are you a friend of union labor only when you are a candidate for Governor, and do you not have you repudiated union labor these two years?"

Third challenge: Did you not, as mayor of Harrisburg, veto an ordinance which, when first introduced, proposed to pay $1.50 a day for eight hours' work to laborers employed by that municipality, and afterward amended to provide that wages would be at the rate of 16-2-3 cents per hour, and did you not give as your reason in your veto message for refusing to pay the workmen of Harrisburg $1.50, the present rate of $1.25 per hour is above the average rate of wages paid for ordinary labor in this locality, and it is not fair to the taxpayers of this city to increase that rate to 16-2-3 cents per hour, if you do not make the poverty and the need of the very poorest of the ranks of labor your reason for your action when you declared that "considering the great number of applicants to the city departments for work, the wages now paid seem to be entirely satisfactory." Are you not personally, together with the McCormick estate, the largest taxpayer of Harrisburg, and if not the largest, what is your relative rank? Please tell us, so that we may know how much you saved yourself by your veto.

Fourth challenge: The workmen of Pennsylvania have clamored for an eight-hour day. With 15 cents an hour, which you think is sufficient, they might make in Harrisburg $1.20 per day. Pennsylvania is a great industrial State, and its labor is trained, educated and desirous to be well paid. Do you think that the workmen of Pennsylvania, engaged in mine and mill, at forge or furnace, on the farm or in the factory, will entrust to you the framing of workmen's compensation act? A Democratic victory is only possible through the adhesion to the party of the masses."

WHAT IS WIT?

Among the definitions of wit repeated by the Solons, that of Alexander Pope, who declared that "wit is a quick conception of thought and an easy delivery," seemed the best known, while some of the former professors of the University of Cambridge, who learned Merer of Halle, who spoke of wit as "an extremely fine thought, the result of a great wit and acumen, which are eminent perfections of the soul." "Wit is an assemblage of ideas," said the philosopher Locke, "and putting them together with quickness and vivacity whenever can be found any resemblance and congruity whereby to be united, and pleasant pictures and agreeable visions of fancy."—"Laughs Echoed From the Cloak Room," Mitchell Mannerling, in National Magazine for January, 1914.

Great Electric Light to Illuminate 152-ft. Dome of Big Exhibit

The palace of horticulture at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition to be held at San Francisco next year, will be built almost entirely of glass and will surmounted by a dome 150 feet high and 152 feet in diameter of similar construction. To illuminate this dome from the interior and to make it one of the feature spots of the exposition sixteen 30-inch search-lamp projectors will be placed in a circle about a column at the center of the dome. At the top of this column will be mounted a color screen of six segments, an opaque vane which will cover two segments at the same time, a lens and a diffusing plate. The rays of the searchlamp will be focused on the color screen and by revolving the opaque plate various colors of the spectrum will be diffused on the dome. A combination of three lenses will be used, so arranged that only one will be in position over the screens at one time. One lens will be composed of a number of tiny lenses which will have the effect of producing "spots" of light upon the dome, another will be plain, and the third will produce the appearance of countless tiny tadpoles squirming about the interior of the dome. —Electrical World.
